The daily average number of patients during the year was 1,542. The per capita expense per annum for maintenance was 160.02.

The increase in number of patients over the preceding year was 120.

STATISTICAL.

The following shows the per capita expense for the last seven years:

In 1879 per capita expenses of maintenance was	$191 31
In 1880 per capita expenses of maintenance was	184 64
In 1881 per capita expenses of maintenance was	184 97
In 1882 per capita expenses of maintenance was	194 00
In 1883 per capita expenses of maintenance was	194 00
In 1884 per capita expenses of maintenance was	177 02
In 1885 per capita expenses of maintenance was	173 43
In 1886 per capita expenses of maintenance was	160 02

The farm and garden products were beyond expectation, and far exceeded the yield of any former year.

We call your special attention to the report of the Superintendent, showing the practical results of the work of the year.

It is a pleasing fact to know that the per cent. of cures among the patients has increased, and the death rate correspondingly decreased. More people have been cured during the year and fewer have died compared with the number of patients under treatment than during any year in the history of the Hospital.

This is largely due to the varied amusements that are in constant use in the institution, together with the non-restraint system that prevails. The minds of the patients are constantly engaged in something pleasing and they have no fears of being abused by the use of cruel restraints.

During the year the new boiler house has been completed, which contains twelve boilers in use, which number is ample for heat and power. The boiler house is built more than one hundred feet from any other building, and is fire-proof. It can not be set on fire, nor can fire occur from it in any other building on the grounds of the instititution.

The General Assembly of 1885 appropriated the sum of ten thousand dollars for additional water supply. A contract was made to furnish a sufficient quantity by a system of driven wells, which resulted very satisfactorily. The hospital has a supply of water that would be ample for a population of twenty thousand people. With this large supply of clean water the sanitary condition of the hospital has been much improved.

The interior of the center building in the Department for Men was thoroughly overhauled and improved. Also an ice house was built of sufficient capacity to contain several carloads, thus making quite a saving in that article.

The Hospital was never in so good a state of repairs as now.

It is our opinion that the following appropriations will be sufficient to maintain and keep the Hospital in its present state of repairs:

For maintenance	$260,000 00
For repairs	15,000 00
For clothing	12,000 00

The food and care of the patients is as good as can be secured.

The officers and employes are faithful and efficient in the discharge of their duties. We invite your personal inspection.

Respectfully submitted.

It will be pleasing to note the fact that, with a larger population, the number of deaths has materially diminished. The average number under treatment daily, for 1884 and 1885, was 1,421, and the number of deaths was 128, while for 1885 and 1886 the average number under treatment was 1,542, and the number of deaths 103, as indicated by the above table.

The health of patients, as well as employes, has been unusual for a population of nearly 2,000 persons. And when it is remembered, that all these persons reside in two buildings, situated but one hundred yards apart, and are confined to a space of less than eighty acres of land, upon which to exercise, we think it will compare favorably with any institution in the world. Notwithstanding our rapidly increasing population during the past eighteen months, our tables show a lower death rate than any year during the past ten.

Our working force has been largely occupied in making the excavations required about the new boiler house, pump house, and in trenches for the steam pipes. The increase of space for kitchen garden, and the rented farm in the neighborhood, gave ample room for all the men who would work, to take enough healthful exercise. Experience does not show that the labor of the insane can be made profitable to the State, nor should it be so used, but it is of great benefit to the patients themselves.

TREATMENT, CARE AND MANAGEMENT.

During the year no remarkable changes have occurred. Experience has been gained from the past, and many minor errors corrected. There has been a decrease in the use of medicines and an increase in the number of our attendants; the older attendants have become more skilled in a kindlier management of the patients; fewer cases of violence have been reported, and fewer injuries inflicted by patients or by accident. No restraints have been used, except as surgical cases might demand.

SCHOOLS.

The school which was opened in the Department for Women in March, 1885, proved of decided benefit; the whole number instructed during the year was 175. Success in this undertaking encouraged the addition of a school in the Department for Men, which is in charge of two lady teachers well qualified for the work. The results thus far show that still greater advantages may be looked for by instruction among the male than the female patients.

All the common branches are taught as in our common schools; much attention is given to vocal music and gymnastics. The number of male pupils entered is sixty-five. Two days each week are devoted to letter-writing, and from these may be gathered the general sentiment of the class.

October 15. C. S., a German lad of fifteen, wrote to his father: "I used to be unhappy here, not that I was treated badly, but that I was losing my school. I am now content to stay, for I am learning as much as I could in any other school. I am in fractions," etc.

October 15. L. M. "I am going to school now, and that is helping me, for now I won't get any further behind. I think if I stay here this winter I shall have learned something."

October 15. W. C. "I believe I told you I was in school. We have music twice a day. I enjoy it very much. I attend church and Sunday-school every Sabbath. So you see the State understands her business."

J. S. "I am in school, doing the best I can; I have two lady teachers, two grades; no trouble. I go to Sunday-school and church every Sunday, and have good leaders all the way through. We have a piano in the school-room, which makes it so cheerful. The idea here is to look on the bright side of life."

October 22. A. B. "They talk of sending me home, but I don't care much about it. I am treated so well here and am learning so much. I am studying reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, geography and music. But Dutch is the best of all. I will write you a German letter before long."

October 15. S. K. "I will write a few lines to let you know I am feeling better than I ever did in all my life. Indeed, I feel more like a man than I ever did before. I think I am improving very fast in my studies. My loving teachers, you do not know how much I love them. Our Superintendent comes over every Sunday morning to Sunday-school. In the afternoon we go to church; we boys sing in the choir. Dr. Thomas comes in our school often to see how we are getting along."

The influence which music has over these unfortunates can hardly be described; it never fails to attract even the dullest patient. Their bright faces and joyous manner as they take up the song and merrily ring out the chorus is a strange contrast to their dull, unhappy countenances on the wards.

The gymnastic drill and marching to music is an additional pleasure from which they derive much benefit. The order, discipline, and occupation of the school-room lead the mind into intelligent channels; the outbreaks of insanity are less frequent, while the interest taken in the school work is most remarkable. In this school even the poor epileptic finds a welcome, and nothing exceeds his delight when he finds that his "spells" have not debarred him from the poor privilege of a little evanescent education.

MATRONS FOR MEN'S WARDS.

Last year the plan of having a man and his wife take charge of a ward as attendants was first tried, and the result has been so satisfactory that now eight front wards are so attended. In addition to this, since August, the experiment of having a matron upon the back wards—or wards upon which the most violent patients are kept—has been successfully tried. Four women are so employed at this time, with a very decided improvement in the comfort and cleanliness of the wards, and the conduct of the patients, who are more tidy in their personal habits; the more violent are better ruled by a woman's voice and persuasion than by any other influence. A female supervisor likewise attends to male wards and administers all medicines, inspects bedding, clothing, etc.

WORK OF THE MEDICAL STAFF.

During the year the medical staff was increased by the addition of Dr. C. H. Wiles, of Jennings County. Dr. Ernest Reyer was appointed to a place made vacant by the resignation of Dr. McClure.

The work of the medical staff has been of an unusual kind, for, besides the six hours a day devoted to ward duties, a large amount of time has been devoted to the study of our specialty.

The Hospital Pathological Society has been of great benefit to all—thanks to the appreciation of scientific culture by the gentlemen of the Board. Our scientific library and laboratory are among the best in any similar institutions in America.

The encouragement given by you to the study of the peculiar diseases which are treated at the expense of the State in this institution causes me to believe that we stand on the threshold of important discoveries in the treatment of insanity. The expense of such study, as well as the opportunity, is outside the possibilities of the private practitioner; the State being the party directly interested should do all that can be done to open wide the field of original research which may tend to arrest and cure diseases of the mind.

COMPLAINTS.

Notwithstanding the press has made various complaints—some founded on fact and more on fiction—there have been fewer cases of injury, abuse or escape during the past year than in the three former. That some mistakes occur, when nearly 2,000 people are cared for under one management, is not surprising. The same number and kind frequently occur in small families.

That the Superintendent can give personal attention to each patient daily, as well as attend to all official duties in matter of acceptance of patients, and supervise a large correspondence twice daily, is an absurdity that exists in the minds of many persons who do not remember that there are but 1,440 minutes in twenty-four hours, and we have 1,600 patients, besides other duties to attend.

From a constant personal observation, and the daily inspection of six physicians, five supervisors, four dining-room stewards, 125 attendants and five chief cooks, but one conclusion can be reached—that is, that all the essential foods and many luxuries have been constantly furnished in sufficient abundance to maintain the population in good health, as is shown by the general increase in health of a large majority of patients; and that in quality, the food was as good and well-prepared as that found on most of the tables in America.

Over 58,000 gallons of sweet milk, 561 gallons of oysters, 13,199 pounds of poultry, four car-loads of watermelons, 15 car-loads of apples, several thousands of oranges and bananas, and other fruits, were consumed during the year.

Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's festivities were most pleasingly and liberally observed, every patient being remembered at Christmas by some special gift.

THE SICK WARDS.

Since our last report a sick ward has been opened in the Department for Men, where all who require special nursing are sent, thus relieving the general ward and general attendant of the care of the sick.

CHANGES RECOMMENDED IN LAW.

Under our law the Superintendent has no means of presenting suggestions directly to either the Governor or the General Assembly; therefore, it is urged upon you, gentlemen of the board, to ask that certain laws be enacted, whereby,

First—Persons from other States may not be kept in our Hospital for Insane without any remuneration to our State.

Second—That insane persons having estates sufficient to support them, should bear their own expenses. Of the 1,600 inmates of this hospital, less than 400 of them supply their own clothing, the remainder being entirely supplied by the County or State.

Third—Females declared insane, who can not be brought to the hospital by their immediate relatives, shall be taken to and fro by a skilled female attendant of the hospital, and only the actual expense of such transfers be charged; this would be a saving to the county of 50 per cent.

Fourth—That the fifty-two one-hundredths of an acre on the south side of the hospital grounds should be acquired by the State; it is occupied by a half dozen small tenement houses, whose filth and garbage is discharged into the State's property, and is an unwholesome nuisance.

Vermont street, on the north of the hospital, is of little use to the public, and should be closed, as our north wing fronts within fifty feet of said street, and contains the noisiest class of patients.

Fifth—It is almost absolutely necessary to provide for inclosing the entire hospital property with a strong and permanent fence, which will not only prevent the escape of patients who really demand exercise upon our limited space, but prevent the ingress of the public at all times upon our grounds, and protect the State's property from plunder.

Sixth—The statutes should be so amended that labor performed by patients should, to some extent, be paid for as a matter of encouragement to do what leads to their ultimate recovery. As it is at present, women who work in the school at fancy work accumulate work of that kind which can not be utilized in the hospital, but if sold could remunerate the State for the original outlay, and still leave the patient part of the profit. At the present time this fund is turned over to the State entire.

NEW BOILER HOUSE AND FIRE PROTECTION.

The following report of the engineer, and chief of the fire department, will show the condition of our heating apparatus and the arrangement for fire protection.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

Dr. W. B. Fletcher, Superintendent Indiana Hospital of Insane, Indianapolis, Ind:

DEAR SIR—The boiler house newly erected, is a brick building with stone foundation and retaining walls, its size 150x50 feet. The building is divided into two apartments, divided by a brick partition wall, the boiler house proper being 33x150 feet, the coal store-room 16x150 feet. The store room has a capacity of storing 950 tons of block coal. The whole building is covered with an iron truss roof. Said boiler house is located at its nearest point 110 feet west of the main buildings. Twelve tubular steam boilers are in use for the generation of steam, and are set in batteries of four of each, viz: Four of these boilers 14 feet long by 66 inches in diameter with 54, 4-inch flues, and four boilers 14 feet long by 60 inches in diameter with 100, 3-inch flues, are now used for the generation of steam for heating purposes (low pressure). And 4 of same size and capacity are used for the generation of steam for high-pressure purposes, for the purpose of furnishing steam motive power for engines for laundries, carpenter shops, coffee-roasters, ironing rooms, for cooking purposes, and also for the green-house. All these boilers are connected to the low-pressure main steam pipe, as well as to a high-pressure main steam pipe and are provided with the necessary valves to make them interchangeable. The main low-pressure steam pipe is a 14-inch rod iron riveted and flanged pipe. The high-pressure pipe is a 6-inch rod iron lap-valved tubing; both pipes are properly supported and suspended to the roof of the boiler house. The low, high and return pipes connect from the boiler house with the Department for Women and are 559 feet long; they are at present lying under ground, wood tunneled. All these pipes are covered with hair felt and a wooden jacket. The connection is made to the Department for Men with eight (8) inch low-pressure tubing and 4-inch high-pressure, and also 4-inch water return pipe 400 feet long. Two receivers, 6 by 16 feet, are placed in the boiler house to receive the return of water of both departments, and two steam force pumps, one a No. 5 Dean Bros. improved steam boiler and feeder, and one a No. 4½ Delameter, are employed for the purpose of feeding said boilers with the necessary water for generation of steam out of those receivers, using the water at a very high degree of temperature.

A water-works has been erected, and consists of a Delameter duplex steam pump. The capacity of said steam pump is 500,000 gallons per day; but it has been tested to its double capacity to obtain the necessary water through ten 4-inch driven wells 60 feet in depth. So far it seems that these wells are inexhaustible. The pump-house is a stone and brick building, and connects with the boiler-house by means of an underground passage 49 by 16 feet. Above this, connecting the boiler-house and pump-house, are the necessary repair and pipe-fitting shops and a fire department (reel-house). For fire protection this pump-house connects with both buildings by means of main water pipes and ten water plugs or hydrants. These are arranged on the grounds in convenient and suitable places near the D. F. M. and D. F. W. Stationary fire ladders, with pipe uptakes for water, are provided in both houses, and said fire plugs are easily connected with water uptakes by means of hose kept at said reel house.

The chimney, newly erected, is a brick construction 100 feet high and seven feet in the clear, of cylindrical form; also possessing the necessary draught. It may be advisable, in order to accommodate the same to the surrounding buildings, to raise it at least twenty five feet.

I should recommend that the steam connections between the D. F. M. and the D. F. W. should be surrounded by brick tunnels in order to make the pipes more easily accessible for repairs, and also underground passages between the boiler-house and the two departments.

In the summer season we are using water directly out of our water-works. Facts have shown that the water used is composed of such matter as to form heavy crustations in boilers (scale), which are detrimental to metal of boilers as well as to the consumption of fuel. It is a well known fact that one-sixteenth of an inch of scaling or crustation is equivalent to 20 per cent. of saving of fuel. I should therefore recommend a system of heaters and lime extractors to be used for the purpose of extracting the impurities of the water before it enters the boilers. The boiler-house coping, which is now made of brick, should also be replaced by stone coping.

Very respectfully yours,

JACOB W. LOEPER,
Engineer and Sup't of Construction.

NEW HOSPITALS.

It behooves you, gentlemen, to urge the immediate completion of the new hospitals, which have been provided for by the laws of 1883. This institution now contains at least 300 patients more than its actual capacity, and the number still remaining unprovided for in the county poorhouses, according to reports received in June, 1886, was 338 males, insane; 198 females, insane; likewise, there are 304 idiotic males, and 186 idiotic females in poorhouses. There are 134 male epileptics, and 109 female epileptics;—168 of these are constantly in some form of restraint; this entire number should be immediately provided for in State institutions, as the condition of the majority of the poorhouses in the State is reported bad. Thus far the State has never made provision for the idiotic or epileptic, who especially demand the care and sympathy of the public. No class of mortals outside of Hades could possibly suffer as much and be so neglected. It is their misfortune to die daily, and alas! awake to life again, only to undergo further terrible suffering and again, a death from which they must again awake. There is no doubt that there are many among this class who could be materially improved, who are now turned over to absolute neglect—their condition being regarded as hopeless, they are not admissible to hospitals for the insane.

Finally, gentlemen, as it is provided in the statutes of our State that the Superintendent is elected for four years, and as my term of office expires on the 7th of June next, I desire to return to you my sincere thanks for your confidence and support in all that pertains to the medical management of this, the largest hospital for insane in the United States.

In reviewing the past, it is apparent that many errors have been committed, but likewise that many have been corrected. It is a pleasure to see that, while the population has increased, restraints—with the exception of surgical cases—have been removed; that injuries have been less frequent; that abuse of patients is reduced to its minimum; that the use of therapeutics for quieting patients is less than ever; that alcoholic stimulants are almost entirely abolished; that the diet table has been materially increased; that regular chapel services and Sunday-school have been established; that the number and variety of amusements has been vastly increased, and that a larger number of patients have had the benefit of out-door life in all seasonable weather than ever before; and, finally, that the death ratio per thousand is less than at any time within the history of the hospital.

I would only bespeak for my successor, whoever he may be, as cordial a support in the management of the insane as I have had at your hands.

I can not close this report without tendering my most cordial thanks to those attendants who have proved efficient and valuable aids in the direct care of the patients, and to the medical staff, who have ably supported me.

Upon Dr. A. J. Thomas has devolved the direct management of the Department for Men. I have held him responsible for its success; in all things he has carried out my views. Without his able assistance it would not have been possible to have administered so large an institution to the best interests of the patients.

Respectfully yours,

W. B. FLETCHER,

Medical Supt.

We call your special attention to the Superintendent's report, which is hereby appended.

The pressing needs of the Institution are set forth in detail. The building is too small to accommodate this unfortunate class of people in our State. The population of the State has outgrown the capacity of the Institution. This matter has long been neglected by the General Assembly, while other public institutions have been kept up with the growth of population.

We feel assured in saying that the appropriation for maintenance of $55,000, and for repairs, $3,000, will meet the expenses under the present capacity of the Institution.

The Superintendent, teachers and employes have all been faithful in the discharge of their duties.

Respectfully submitted.

THOS. H. HARRISON, Pres.,
STEPHEN E. URMSTON, Treas.,
JOHN B. GREENE, Sec.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Board of Trustees:

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to submit the following statement of the progress of the Institution during the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886.

In doing so I take this opportunity of thanking you on behalf of the officers, teachers, pupils, and their parents for the lively interest shown by the Board of Management in the welfare of the Institution. While the duty is directly prescribed by law, I know that indirectly your actions have been prompted by a loving consideration for the particular class of unfortunates for whose education and welfare this Institution was founded.

THE OFFICERS AND EMPLOYES

have been competent and faithful in the discharge of their various duties, and have taken a pride in their daily work, their guiding principle being, what is worth doing at all, is worth doing well. There has been zealous co-operation among all in advancing the prosperity of the Institution. Petty clashes of ideas and interests have been carefully avoided, all uniting in a common cause, recognizing that the Institution was and is intended for the benefit of the deaf mutes of Indiana, and not for those who may be called as servants, be he Superintendent or be he subordinate.

THE HEALTH.

During the year there has been no epidemic or endemic form of disease prevailing among the pupils or in the immediate vicinity, and, as the registered complaints of those pupils who have been compelled to seek the care and attention of the nurse of the Institution during the year have been of a mild and trivial nature, the general health of the Institution may be classed as good. Great care has been given to the hygienic and sanitary condition of the Institution, and close attention has been directed to sewerage, sinks, wash and bath rooms, and the ventilation and warming of the building.

One death, however, occurred during the year. Catharine Reddy, of Jeffersonville, seventeen years of age and in her third year at the Institution, sickened and died, December 23, 1885; cause, erysipelas. Every attention possible, both in nursing and medical attendance, was given her, but with all she crossed the silent river. Her body was sent to her home for interment.

The Institution is fortunate in possessing as physicians Drs. John E. Lockridge and Charles N. Metcalf. Thoroughly versed in their science, careful and correct in diagnosis, kind and loving in their treatment, and patient with the desires of the afflicted, they possess the confidence of pupil, teacher and officer.

ATTENDANCE.

The scholastic year begins the first Wednesday after the 15th of September, and closes the third Wednesday in June, while the fiscal year of the State, with which the law requires this report to conform, closes October 31; hence the number of pupils present during the school year is never so large as is reported present during the fiscal year. With this explanation, I will state that the number of pupils admitted to, enrolled and having received instruction in this Institution during the fiscal year just closed was as follows:

	BOYS.	GIRLS.	TOTAL.
Number admitted	207	165	372
Number dismissed	13	11	24
Number remaining on roll	194	154	348
Number in actual attendance at end of year	181	135	316
Leaving enrolled and not in attendance	13	19	32

NEW PUPILS.

The number of new pupils received during the year was as follows:

Boys	35
Girls	31
Total	66

CAUSES OF DISMISSION.

The causes of dismission during the year were as follows:

Graduated from academic department	5
Graduated from primary department	3
Dismissed on account of expiration of time	12
Dismissed on account of incapacity to receive instruction	2
Moved from State	1
Death	1

Making the whole number of pupils who have ended their connection with the Institution during the year 24, of whom 13 were boys and 11 girls.

Your attention is called further to a tabulated statement in a subsequent part of this report, showing the number of pupils received from the several counties of the State, the number dismissed from each, and the number remaining and entitled to the benefits of the Institution. From this statement it will be seen that pupils have been admitted from 87 of the 92 counties, those counties not represented being Jasper, Putnam, Scott, Warrick and Washington. The counties having ten or more representatives are: Marion, 33; Vanderburgh, 15; Laporte, 11, and Wayne, 9. The average of representation for the 87 counties has been 4.2 and a fraction.

Your attention is also still further called to the accompanying catalogue containing the names of the pupils received into the Institution during the year, and the counties and towns where they reside.

EDUCATIONAL.

The school is divided into eighteen classes, taught by as many teachers, and in addition instruction is given in articulation, or the oral and aural method, and in painting and drawing, by special teachers skilled in those special branches. These will be considered under their appropriate heads. A teacher of deaf mutes must be intelligent, conscientious, faithful and patient in order to be successful. While these qualities are required for teaching speaking and hearing children, they are preëminently required in teaching deaf mutes. Considering the limited number of persons trained for this peculiar work and the great number of persons to be taught, bearing in mind also the fact that as large classes of deaf mutes can not be as successfully handled as can speaking and hearing classes, it can readily be seen that a successful instructor of the deaf is, and should be, highly prized by the institution possessing his services, and not to be dispensed with. Such a teacher is not born to his work; he must grow into it, and this takes time; hence the necessity of great care in making a new selection, else much valuable time will be lost and irreparable injury done to the classes improperly and carelessly taught. They should enter upon their calling with the intent of making it a life business (and a mistake is made if not entered into with that view), and their compensation should be adequate to recompense them for their arduous life task.

The teachers employed in this Institution, the most of whom have been here a number of years, have proven themselves by their work to be intelligent, capable and painstaking in their labors, and have been highly successful as instructors, bending every energy to achieve success. How well their work has been done can be seen in the brightened eye and quickened intellect of the pupils under their charge. Too much praise can not be accorded them; they are as the key-stone of the arch. During the past year a graded scale of salaries for instructors has been adopted. Starting in with a minimum, a stated increase is made each year till the maximum be reached, thus offering an inducement to permanency and for better work. They appreciate the aid and encouragement afforded by your honorable board, as they deserve, and will strive the harder for better results.

During the year two new teachers were appointed—Misses May Williams and Fannie Lamme—to take the places made vacant by the resignations of Wm. H. Caldwell and Jennie Williams, the former of whom went to the Philadelphia institution and the latter married. Both the new appointees possessed a knowledge of the sign language, and will make good teachers.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The course of study during the year has embraced instruction in reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, geography, both political and physical, history, moral and natural philosophy, and thorough instruction in Scripture lessons. The pupils have been quick to learn and their minds retentive of the knowledge acquired.

DISMISSALS.

At the close of the school year the annual commencement exercises took place, five graduating from the Academic Department, as follows:

Edgar A. Mullendore, Franklin.
John A. Mills, North Manchester.
Gabriel Mattox, Attica.
Maud Byerly, Knightstown.
Aida McCarty, Selma.

From the Primary Department three graduated, as follows:

Theo. Holtz, Evansville.
H. C. Dunham, Jeffersonville.
Pinckney C. Sheetz, Remington.

In addition to these twelve pupils were dismissed because of expiration of time, seven years being allowed by the rules and regulations for each pupil to complete the Primary Department. Of the twelve dismissed not one had reached the seventh or last year grade. I feel that this is wrong and that some provision should be made to remedy the evil. The very fact that a pupil has failed to pass the different grades in the time allotted is strong and sufficient reason, in my estimation, why they should not be dismissed, but continued longer in the school. A speaking and hearing child can learn at all times, in school or out, by reason of being able to talk and hear, and consequently mingling with the world. But not so with the deaf-mute. After leaving his Alma Mater he can not by reason of his misfortune mingle with the world at large as does his more fortunate brother, and this source of receiving knowledge is denied him.

It is but justice to this class that the great State of Indiana—great in her wealth, great in her intelligence and in her school facilities—should extend every privilege possible to them and should provide adequate means for furthering their education and thus perfecting good citizenship. Shut out from the common schools, of which every citizen of Indiana is so justly proud, this Institution remains the place and the only place in the State where deaf-mutes may receive their education, and it does seem that a grievous wrong is being done them in limiting their opportunity, their salvation almost, to the period named.

The cause of this limitation your Honorable Body well know—'tis because of lack of accommodation for the number seeking admission, and hence, the time has been limited in order to give all an equal chance. For this same reason, the ages at which pupils shall be received has been fixed at twelve to twenty-one years for boys, and at ten to eighteen for girls, thus adding another wrong to the limitation of time, though probably it is a necessary outgrowth of the former, and the whole wrong is perpetrated because of want of room that would be necessitated by taking them in at an earlier age, and extending the limit of time allowed, consequently extending the scope of studies.

I am of opinion that deaf mutes should commence receiving their education at six or seven years of age, in a "kindergarten," to be established in this Institution, and that the time allowed them in which to receive their education should be equal to that allowed speaking and hearing children, and I recommend that your Honorable Body take such steps to bring this about as you deem most wise and expedient. I feel that there is a wrong done in the matter, and that this wrong should be righted, and that speedily. Is it justice for the State to say that a more fortunate class shall receive greater benefits than a less fortunate one?

ARTICULATION.

During the year special attention has been bestowed upon what is called the oral method. Fifty-eight pupils have received instruction in articulation and lip-reading. These were divided into six graded classes, coming from the sign classes for a short time each day for instruction. Believing that all who could articulate, even in the slightest degree, should do so upon all occasions, I requested that the instruction in this department should be supplemented by practice in oral talking and lip-reading in the various sign classes, among the pupils themselves, upon the play-ground and in the study-room, and especially while in intercourse with the speaking and hearing teachers, officers and employes. A fresh interest has been awakened among the children by this practice, and can not fail to be of great benefit to them. The result has been that upon all occasions where possible, those who can, articulate their desires and responses, thus bringing them a step nearer the class from which they are cut off by their misfortune. Previous to issuing this request these very pupils—a great number of whom could articulate well—confined themselves entirely to the use of signs in their daily intercourse with those with whom they were thrown in contact. Speech retained or acquired can not but be of the very greatest importance to the pupil in after life when thrown out upon the world in social and business intercourse with his fellow man, be that speech ever so small and defective. In order that this benefit may accrue to them, special pains will be taken during the coming year to increase and educate this faculty. Miss Harriet Goode, the teacher in charge of this department, is a faithful and painstaking teacher, and I feel that this important instruction is in good hands.

PAINTING AND DRAWING.

The Art Department was instituted in this Institution at the beginning of the fiscal year, and anticipations have been fully realized. The class is in charge of Miss Mary Corwin, a competent and faithful teacher. During the year, twenty-one have received instruction, taken from the Academic Department and the seventh grade of the Primary Department. During the first six months the instruction was confined to the study of drawing from "flats" and sketching from nature, followed by decorative painting in oil colors, and flower studies from nature. During the last two months of the year the class has been engaged upon object and still-life drawing in charcoal. The primary object of the department has been to teach free-hand drawing and sketching from nature in order that the pupils may find all the enjoyment possible in the faculty spared them—sight, for, without thoroughly mastering the art of sketching, much of the pleasure will be lost to them; for being able only to copy the thoughts and expressions of others is not the true idea and pleasure of art. I believe these people, so shut in from the world by all but sight, may be able to accomplish more than others more fortunate in their faculties in the study of nature, events and people, as they pass silently among us. While art is a life-time study, our pupils have made much progress, and I am confident will excel their past record the coming year. The progress made can be estimated by the words of surprise and praise bestowed upon the class' paintings in oil and sketches that adorn the walls of the Drawing Academy.

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.

As your body is well aware, the shops connected with the Institution for the purpose of industrial education, to the end that upon leaving school the boys may possess sufficient knowledge of the trades to earn a livelihood, have been leased, with all the tools, etc., to lessees, who agree to teach the boys the various trades in consideration of the shops being leased to them as stated. The trades taught are cabinet and shoemaking and chair caning, the last being only useful in that it serves to give employment to a number of the boys too small to find employment at the other trades, and the only result commendable is, that it teaches them habits of industry. These small boys are transferred to the other shops as soon as age and size permit.

While this system was in vogue when I came to the Institution, and is far better than none at all, I am strongly of opinion the modus operandi could be vastly improved upon. I feel that much more benefit would result to those employed therein if a teacher should be employed by the Institution and paid so much per month for his services, in the same manner as a teacher is employed in the intellectual department. The one is as important as the other, and as much care should be bestowed on education-industrial as on education-intellectual. Of course the employment of a foreman of each shop, directly under the control of the Institution, would necessitate an increased expense over and above the usual appropriation, unless the law could be so arranged as to allow the proceeds from sales of furniture made in the cabinet shop, from shoes repaired in the shoe shop, and from chairs caned in the chair shop to revert to the Institution instead of reverting to the Treasurer of State as earnings, and by him covered into the General Fund, under which arrangement the shops could be made nearly if not quite self-sustaining, and I would therefore recommend that you take such steps as you may deem best to take the Industrial Department from under the ban of the lease system, and that such a fund as is necessary be set aside in each year's appropriation for this Institution for the proper maintenance of the shops connected herewith, and that provision be made that all proceeds therefrom be placed to the credit of such fund. I feel that the very existence of many deaf mutes in after life depends upon a proper industrial education while here, and I most respectfully urge that steps be taken to better their condition in this respect. Under the lease system a thorough knowledge of all parts of a trade are not, will not, be taught to the pupils engaged therein, for reasons so palpable to human nature they need not be stated.

As to the addition of printing to the industrial pursuits taught here, I desire to repeat what I stated in my last annual report, to-wit: "I am of opinion, and hereby recommend that some steps be taken to add to our industrial pursuits that of printing. That deaf mutes are peculiarly adapted to type setting is generally acknowledged; and good printers can at all times find occupation and at good living wages. This being true, it at once becomes apparent that the greatest good will result from its establishment here. The west end of the chair shop could be roomed in, making a large, commodious and well-lighted work room. The expense of purchasing type and press, and the employment of teacher, compared with results, would be but trifling. As a matter of fact, a great deal of the printing for the Institute could be done on its own press, thereby saving quite a sum yearly. It would also afford the pupils the opportunity of publishing a monthly magazine, as is now done in nearly all other institutions, and would be of incalculable benefit to them." I feel more than ever the necessity of this action, and believe that finally such a course will be adopted, and that present delay would be just so much time lost.

The girls have been instructed during the year in common and fancy needle work by Mrs. Kate Gorman, who has devoted herself faithfully to her work. They have also participated in light house work, and have acquired habits of industry, useful to them.

IMPROVEMENTS AND REPAIRS MADE.

During the year general improvements and repairs have been made on the buildings and grounds. During the past summer much painting and white-washing were done in the building, and several brick walks were relaid. Several rooms were repapered, and two recarpeted. Doors and windows were repaired, where out of shape, and, taken altogether the entire place is in good repair. The last Legislature appropriated for specific repairs $7,900.00, available April 1, 1885, to April 1, 1886. During the last fiscal year there was expended from this amount $7,173.73, as reported in my last annual report. During this year there has been expended from this fund $195.35, the balance unexpended April 1, 1886, and amounting to $530.92, being covered into general fund.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AND NEEDED.

For the reasons stated above, under the heading "Education," which I care not to repeat here, and for other reasons mentioned below, there is an imperative demand for additional buildings. As stated in this report elsewhere, there are at the present time on the roll entitled to admission 348 boys and girls, and you must bear in mind that all of these are over ten years of age if girls and over twelve years of age if boys, as all admitted to the privileges of the Institution during the past few years have been governed by the rules and regulations above referred to. True, only 316 of this number have returned this scholastic year, but this fact does not signify they will not wish to return some time this or next year. If all had desired to return this year they could not have been received, because the limit of accommodation is little, if any, greater than the present number here—316; thus, 32 pupils are really denied school privileges. In the past year or two at times more than 316 have been crowded into the buildings, but such crowding is not conducive to health. As a matter of fact, the State Board of Health visited this Institution during the month of October, and in their report published subsequently complained of the "crowded" condition of the sleeping and living rooms, and were strongly of opinion that sanitary reasons demanded more room. Now, if the age of admission should be lowered, as justice demands, the increased demand for admission would amount to 100 more at least. This would show lack of accommodation for 132 deaf-mutes seeking an education. It must not be forgotten either, in this connection, that as the general population increases so does also the deaf-mute population, and in Indiana in a greater ratio. Now, if the term of years allotted for their education be lengthened as it should be, the number present at school each year would be much greater than in the past. A study of deaf-mute statistics in Indiana, the number of applications for admission and the correspondence in this office, and the plain reasons for making the changes in regard to age of admission and time allotted for education, but too painfully show the great need of more room—room for at least 100 of each sex, if not 150. Several years ago plans and specifications were drawn by Edwin May, architect, now deceased, contemplating additions to the present buildings capable of accommodating 100 of each sex. The estimated cost at that time, September, 1878, was as follows:

For extension of dining room	$3,030 49
For extension south wing school house	4,979 89
For extension north wing school house	4,979 89
For south wing for boys	21,688 71
For north wing for girls	21,688 71
Total	$56,367 69

A drawing of the principal story has been lithographed and is herewith presented, which will exhibit the size and location of the proposed additions. It will be seen that the improvements can be made without any expensive alterations of the present structure, and, when completed, will add much to the appearance and convenience of the Institution. This estimate, though old, is here given, with the ligthographed drawing, simply to give an approximate idea of what is needed, and probable cost. As a matter of fact, I believe the same additions can now be made at a much cheaper figure than in 1878. Again, it may, after consideration, be deemed wisest and best to build additions on other plans.

Your attention is also called to the fact that a gymnasium is badly needed—a place of exercise for the boys, as are, also, play and lounging rooms for both boys and girls. As it is at present, the only place under cover for them, in cold or wet weather, is the study halls. No elaborate argument is needed to prove that this is as it should not be. Our sister States have provided their institutions with these necessary accommodations. Indiana stands alone without them.

REUNION OF GRADUATES.

Although the Institution has been in existence since the year 1844, no effort had ever been made, till last summer, to bring together, in reunion, the former graduates and pupils. Early in the summer preparations were made, and Tuesday, August 24, the first triennial reunion of graduates and former pupils of the Indiana Institution began its session. All parts of the State were represented, as were, also, many States of the Union. Addresses were made and papers read narrating the early history of the Institution. A most beautiful and touching tribute to Mr. McIntyre, now deceased, formerly Superintendent, was rendered in signs. After a three days' session, during which time they were entertained by this institution, the reunion was declared adjourned. Immediately preceding this, however, resolutions were adopted, one of which read as follows:

"Resolved, That we, members of the Association of Graduates and Former Pupils of the Indiana Institution for the Deaf, petition the Governor to recommend to the Legislature to make an appropriation for the erection of suitable buildings to accommodate all the deaf children of the State, who are entitled to its benefits, and that a sufficient appropriation be made to enable the Superintendent to employ the best talent as instructors as the needs of the Institution may appear."

I deem it necessary to submit only a very brief summary of the financial and business transactions of the year, and refer you to the very full and complete exhibit in the succeeding part of this report, as prepared by the Secretary, for such further information as you may desire.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

FOR THE

ADMISSION OF PUPILS.

I. The Institution is open to all the deaf and dumb of the State, of suitable age and capacity for receiving instruction, free of charge. For the present, and until additional accommodations shall be provided, boys can be admitted only between the ages of twelve and twenty-one; and girls between the ages of ten and nineteen.

II. Pupils will be admitted on the following conditions: 1. The pupil, well provided with clothes, is to be brought to the Institution punctually at the commencement of each session, unless detained at home by his or her sickness. 2. The pupil is to remain in the school until the third Wednesday in June in each year. 3. No parent or guardian shall be allowed to take a pupil out of the school in session time without assigning satisfactory reasons.

III. The annual sessions of the school commence on the first Wednesday after the 15th day of September, and close on the third Wednesday of June. Every pupil is to come promptly on or before the first day of the session, and is to remain until the last day of the same. The only exceptions allowed are cases of sickness.

IV. The Institution will provide for each State pupil, regularly admitted, boarding, lodging, washing, superintendence of conduct, manners and morals, medical attendance, instruction, school books, slates, and all other incidental expenses of the school room, without charge, but will not pay the traveling expenses of pupils in coming to or returning from the Institution, nor supply them with clothing.

V. Those who are unable to pay for the necessary clothing, or whose parents neglect to supply them, it is made the duty of the Superintendent to furnish in accordance with the following legislative enactment: "That when the pupils of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb are not otherwise supplied with clothing, they shall be furnished by the Superintendent, who shall make out an account therefor, in each case, against the respective counties from which said pupils were sent, in an amount not exceeding forty dollars per annum for every such pupil, which account will be signed by the Superintendent and attested by the seal of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, and the Treasurer of State shall charge the account thus certified to the county from which the pupil was sent, and collect the amount due from such county at each settlement with the Treasurer thereof, and such moneys shall be covered into the general fund of the State Treasury." [Act March 6, 1879.]

"SEC. 3. When such account shall be received by the Treasurer of the proper county (to whom it shall be immediately sent upon its reception by the Treasurer of State from the Superintendent), such County Treasurer shall cause the same to be paid out of the County Treasury to the Treasurer of the State; and such County Treasurer shall collect the amount of such account from the estate of such pupil, if he have any, by suit, if necessary, in the name of the county."

VI. Each applicant for admission should come well supplied with clothing, and on all articles on which it is possible to mark the name of the pupil, it should be written with indelible ink. In all cases, except those clothed by the county, besides the ordinary supply of clothing, the applicant should deposit with the Superintendent a sum not less than five dollars, to defray incidental expenses, repairs of shoes, etc., any part of which remaining unexpended at the close of the session, will be returned. Each pupil should be supplied with a trunk.

VII. The Institution is not an asylum, but a school of learning; hence no one can be admitted or retained as a pupil, who, from sickness or from other cause, is unable to pursue his or her studies successfully.

VIII. The course of study in the Primary Department embraces spelling, reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and grammar, and ordinarily requires seven years to complete it. All the pupils who wish it, and who will avail themselves of it, are allowed the full benefit of this course of study.

IX. For the benefit of those who wish to qualify themselves for teaching, or for other intellectual pursuits, the Trustees have established a High Class, and adopted a course of three years' study in the sciences. From among those who complete the primary course of study, the Superintendent may select each year the most promising pupils and admit them as members of this class.

X. It is the intention of the Trustees to render the pupils self-supporting, so far as practicable, and that every pupil, on leaving the Institution, shall be proficient in some useful occupation or trade, so as to be able to procure a livelihood without reliance on the charities of others. In accordance with this design, all the scholars will be required to labor a portion of each day—the girls performing the lighter kinds of housework and various kinds of needlework, as plain sewing or ornamental work, and dress-making; and the boys at various trades, the necessary work about the Institution, and in the cultivation of the farm and garden.

XI. All business letters or letters of inquiry in regard to pupils in the Institution, or those whom it may be designed to place there, should be addressed to ELI P. BAKER, Superintendent Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Indianapolis, Indiana.

XII. Those persons bringing pupils to, or taking them away, can not be furnished with board and lodging at the Institution.

XIII. No pupil, unless under extraordinary circumstances, can be received at any other time than at the commencement of the session.

XIV. The pupils will be sent home to spend the vacation, which extends from the third Wednesday in June to the first Wednesday after the 15th of September.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND,
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., October 31, 1886.

To the Board of Trustees:

GENTLEMEN—In compliance with the provisions of an act of the General Assembly, I have the honor to submit herewith my Fourth and the Fortieth Annual Report of the Institution for the Education of the Blind, showing its progress, condition and expenditures for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886.

CONDITION OF THE INSTITUTION.

The period covered by this report, I am gratified to be able to state, has been one of unusual prosperity in this Institution. The total number of pupils enrolled and the number in daily attendance were larger than during any previous year; positive earnestness and activity seemed to characterize the efforts of both instructors and pupils in the several departments of the school; the teachers have been considerate, patient and conscientious in the performance of their work of instruction, and have endeavored to train their pupils to habits of perseverance, industry and promptness in the discharge of their duties, and to an earnest endeavor to succeed in fitting themselves to earn their own living and be independent. Most of the pupils have shown a proper appreciation of the advantages afforded them here; they have evinced a deep interest in their studies, and have made commendable progress in all the branches of work in which they have been engaged.

There has been a steady and encouraging improvement in the discipline of the whole Institution. The utmost harmony and enthusiasm have prevailed among the officers and teachers, and an effort at self-control, obedience, politeness and care, with but few exceptions, has marked the conduct of the pupils. Taking everything into consideration, we feel that it is not assuming too much to say that we doubt, very much, whether, during any previous year in the history of this Institution, it came nearer filling the high and noble purposes for which it was established, than during the one just closed.

It ought to be a source of profound gratification to the people of Indiana, who have always manifested a deep solicitude for the deficient classes in the State, and have been most generous in the provision of the necessary means for their comfort and the improvement of their condition, to know that the blind have been well cared for, and that the State Institution established for their education, is in a prosperous condition, and has more than a local reputation for successful operation. It not only stands high in the estimation of those of our own land, but also of foreign countries, who have made a systematic and thorough examination of institutions of this character, and a careful study of the methods of instruction employed in them.

But, though we speak with a degree of complacency of our progress and achievements, and the place this Institution occupies among the many benevolent enterprises in this country for the improvement of the unfortunate classes, we still feel that our system of work is not complete—the Institution has not yet reached the limit of its usefulness,—but much remains to be done to raise it to the highest plane of efficiency, that it may meet, as nearly as possible, the purposes it is intended to accomplish—namely, the fitting of the blind children of the State to become self-sustaining, and useful and independent citizens, tax-payers instead of tax-consumers. A system of instruction in an Institution of this kind, does not spring to perfection at a single impulse; but, like any other system of education, it is a thing of gradual development and growth. In the course of time, new interests are presented, and, by experience, we discover additional capabilities in those whom we teach, and discern that better results are attainable, all of which lead to the improvement or abandonment of old methods, and the adoption of new ones. We have endeavored to divest our instruction of everything that was impracticable and superficial, and to make it as thorough and practical as possible; and, while we feel that we have been building upon a sound basis, and our efforts thus far have been crowned with a reasonable measure of success, we can see room for improvement. Hence, we shall not hesitate to make such changes and additions to our plan of working, to reach the highest degree of success, as time, observation and experience shall suggest and the means at our disposal will permit.

CHARACTER AND PURPOSES OF THE INSTITUTE.

There is little to be said under this head that has not been repeated over and over again, in substance, in these annual communications to the Trustees, and, through you, to the citizens of the State. But, judging from the contents of many letters that I have received, there seems to be a lack of information relative to the real character and purposes of the Institute among all classes of people. They fail to comprehend that it is not an asylum for helpless and aged blind people, nor a hospital for the special treatment of diseases of the eyes, but that it is educational in its aims and purposes—a school, essentially and practically, as its title would indicate. Strictly, it is a branch of the grand system of free education of Indiana, established for the purpose of affording the means of education to a class of afflicted children in the State, that can not receive an education in the schools for the seeing.

It is the aim of the State, through her excellent public schools, to give all her children capable of mental improvement a good practical education, to the end that they may become good citizens and be able to discharge the ordinary duties of life. But here is a class of unfortunate blind children who can not be thus educated in the ordinary school for the seeing; most of them are as capable of being taught and of attaining to a high state of intellectual activity as any other class of children, but they must be taught by particular methods, and subjected to special training; therefore, the State, as a matter of justice to them, has come to their aid and has generously provided an institution in which the particular methods are employed and the special training is given. But the State has not only thus liberally provided for the mental improvement of the blind, it has also furnished the means by which they may be taught some mechanical art or other wage-earning accomplishment, that they may be prepared, as far as it is possible to prepare them, for the battle of life.

This benevolent Institution is indeed a credit to the State. It has done much for the moral and intellectual development and social elevation of a class of children, especially deserving our compassion and help, and stands as a testimony of the wisdom and foresight of our law-makers of forty years ago, in passing an act providing for the founding of an establisment of this kind; for time and experience have demonstrated that educated blind people, as a class, are not a public charge, are not seen on the street-corners of our cities and towns asking alms; but they succeed in supporting themselves by engaging in some honorable occupation. Many of them are useful citizens, and take an active and intelligent part in the affairs of life. Indeed, a most interesting chapter might be written about educated blind persons who, in spite of their infirmity, have attained to distinction in music, mathematics, literature and other pursuits of life. But sufficient, we think, has been said here, to show that it is wise, and but a matter of justice, to provide liberally for the education of this unfortunate class of people, who, otherwise, would be compelled to spend their days, not only in physical darkness, but also in mental gloom.

THE SCHOOL SESSION.

According to the rules of the Institution, there is but one session of the school annually, which commences on the second Wednesday of September each year, and continues through a period of forty consecutive weeks.

The last session commenced September 9, 1885, and closed on Tuesday, June 15, 1886. The whole number of pupils enrolled during this period was 130—60 males and 70 females.

The following figures show the attendance of pupils for the session and the number present each month:

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Number of pupils enrolled who were in attendance the previous session	49	56	105
Number readmitted who were not present during the previous session	1	1	2

Number of new pupils admitted during current session	7	9	16
Total number of pupils on roll from October 31, 1885, to date	69	80	149

The total number of pupils enrolled during the last session was the largest in the history of the Institution, and the average number in attendance considerably exceeded that of any previous year.

*NOTE.—Governor Gray, in examining this report in manuscript, for the purpose of collecting matter for his Biennial Message to the General Assembly, carelessly mistook this 93 per cent. for the "average monthly attendance," instead of taking the 121 in the line above, and in consequence thereof, he made some very erroneous statements with regard to the per capita expense of maintaining pupils at this Institution.

Pupils were admitted during the last session from the following sixty-one counties of Indiana and one of Iowa, viz.:

The law does not limit the number of pupils that may attend the Institution from the several counties. It is intended for all the blind children of the State, of proper age, and capable of receiving instruction.

CONDENSED STATISTICS.

While it is intended by this report to give an account of the condition and operations of this Institution for the last year, I feel justified in taking a limited amount of space here to present the following condensed statistics, for the purpose of answering many questions relative to the number and proportion of blind people in the United States, and giving information to those who are especially interested in the welfare of the afflicted classes; for those who seek information relative to the number, ages, condition and improvement of the blind, will naturally expect to find it in these public documents:

According to the tenth census, there were 48,928 blind people, of all ages and conditions, in the United States in 1880, less than 1,000 for every one million of population. Of these, 26,748 were males, and 22,180 females. The total number enumerated in Indiana was 2,238—1,226 males and 1,012 females.

The whole number has been divided into six classes, or divisions, according to age, as follows:

Number under 1 year old	108
Number 1 year old and under 6	1,103
Number 6 years old and under 16	4,820
Number 16 years old and under 21	2,948
Number 21 years old and under 60	19,651
Number 60 years old and over	20,298
Total	48,928

It will be seen, by these figures, that 39,949, or 82 per cent. of the whole number of blind in this country in 1880, were adults, and that but 8,979, or about 18 per cent., were under 21 years of age.

We also learn from the census of 1880 that there were, in the United States, 7,173 blind children between the ages of 8 and 21 years, or about 145 to every one million of population. These are the minimum and maximum ages at which pupils are usually admitted to institutions for the blind. During the same year there were enrolled in the twenty-nine institutions then in the several States, according to the reports of the Superintendents, 2,245 pupils, or 31 per cent. of the whole number of school age. In 1885 the number of pupils enrolled in all the institutions in this country was 2,567, which, allowing for a reasonable increase of the number of school age, could not have been more than $33\frac{1}{3}$ per cent. of the whole number between 8 and 21 years of age.

Upon the basis of the ratio of 145 to every one million of inhabitants, there are in Indiana to-day about 290 blind children of school age, of all states and conditions. We enrolled, during the last fiscal year, 149 pupils, or $51\frac{1}{2}$ (nearly) per cent. of the whole number. It will thus be seen that the per cent. of attendance at this Institution is much larger than the average per cent. of attendance at the several Institutions for the blind in the United States, and that it compares favorably with the attendance of the more densely populated States.

INSTRUCTION.

No material change has been made in the division of the work of the school. As heretofore reported, instruction is given in three distinct departments, namely, Literary, Musical, and Industrial. In making additions and improvements to the work of these several departments, in the line of progress and to increase their efficiency, we have carefully avoided interfering with the division of instruction as here indicated.

We endeavor to be thoroughly practical in all our instruction. We are not governed by a mere sentiment, and have little to do with the artificial or superficial in school work, but we aim to train our pupils for the actual duties of life, and the lines of effort they will hereafter follow.

While it is not always an easy task in any institution of education, to provide a system that will meet the wants of all students of every grade, yet this must be done to insure success. With us the evidence of true method consists in a careful adaptation of the schooling to the individual bent of mind, capacity, wants and temperament, of each single pupil. Therefore, while we maintain a proper gradation of the whole school, we assign to each pupil such studies and pursuits as are best suited to his bent of mind and physical condition, and in which he can make the most rapid progress, and achieve the best resuts.

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.

There are six grades in this Department, in charge of five faithful and competent teachers, namely, Mr. D. W. Nelson, Miss Helen A. Daggett, Miss Marie Robellaz, Miss Lizzie Hopkins and Miss Jennie Schofield, who have charge of the grades in the school in the order in which they are named. It is due them to say, in this connection, that they evinced a lively and commendable interest in the progress and success of their pupils; that they have employed the most progessive methods of teaching, and have conducted their work of instruction with energy and regularity, and that the results of their labor have been highly satisfactory.

Number in the first class	13
Number in the second class	18
Number in the third class	19
Number in the fourth class	23
Number in the fifth class	24
Number in the sixth class	28
Number not in literary classes	5
Total	130

The primary object in this Department is to give the pupils, if possible, a sound English education.

It is hardly necessary to say that the course of study and drill for the accomplishment of this object should be carefully prepared and systematically carried out. In every exercise there should be a specific aim to unfold, develop and strengthen all the mental powers of the child, to train it to habits of attention, reflection, concentration of thought, and proper use of language.

Here, as in any system of training, we regard intellectual culture as the foundation of all educational work, and as furnishing the most valuable aid to all true success in every important effort in life. It is a potent agency in opening to our students avenues of usefulness, industry and social equality.

But yet there are people, and not a few of them, who do not think a blind child is susceptible of much mental improvement. They seem to think that because a child is deprived of the sense of sight by accident, disease, malpractice, or any other cause, that, therefore, its mind is closed to all educational influences; it lives in a sort of animal state, and is incapable of culture.

The ancients had the greatest horror of all that was feeble and infirm. They classed the blind and deaf and dumb with imbeciles and idiots, and, therefore, hardly worth attention. But science and experience have demonstrated how very erroneous these views were. Blind children are as capable of being taught and of having their minds aroused and quickened into activity as any other class of children. Their mental condition is just the same as that of any other branch of the human family. They receive impressions from external objects which attract the attention, the imagination is employed and an impression is made upon the soul, the same as with other people, and hence, the same line of logical procedure is followed in developing and training their mental powers, as is followed when educating seeing people. Indeed, the teacher's object is to get blind children to learn, as far as possible, like seeing children. But, of course, he must resort frequently to special appliances to aid him to attract the attention, to make the impression and to keep alive an interest in study. His success as an instructor of the blind depends, in a great degree, upon his ability to properly manipulate these appliances, for impressions that are made upon the minds of seeing children through the sense of sight, must be made in some way through the other senses, in the process of educating the blind.

MUSICAL DEPARTMENT.

In reviewing the operations of the school for the past year, it is a pleasure to report that the instruction in the several branches of this department has been conducted with marked ability and scrupulous care, and the results have been most gratifying. The teachers, Mr. R. A. Newland, Miss H. A. Hanvey and Miss Addie Carman, are, by education, experience and skill in mechanical execution of music, particularly fitted for the important positions they occupy in the Institution.

Theoretical and practical music is taught here as thoroughly as our means will permit, and in a manner worthy of the real value we attach to it. That training in music should be regarded as an important element in the education of the blind, is but natural, for, while "The love of music is a universal gift of God to man," it is a doubly rich gift to the blind. For them, it casts many sunny lines along the dark path of life in which they move, and diverts their thoughts, for a time at least, from their affliction and deprivations.

We are not one of those who question the wisdom of making music a prominent part of institution work, and who think the time devoted to it could be better employed, but, on the contrary, we believe the most munificent provision should be made for it. While we can only expect those of our pupils who possess a natural bent or inclination toward the art, to attain to a reasonable degree of proficiency in it, and use their knowledge as a means of earning a living, yet we feel that the moral and æsthetical influence it exerts upon all who engage in it, is worth all the time, labor and means expended in teaching it. Horace Mann says that, "Music is a moral means of great efficacy; its practice promotes health; it disarms anger; softens rough and turbulent natures; socializes and brings the whole mind, as it were, into a state of fusion, from which condition the teacher can mold it into what forms he will, as it cools and hardens."

That the musical culture we give our pupils tends to make them more tractable and more companionable, and aids to bring them into better social relations with the world, no one doubts. Therefore, we give them all some general instruction in the rudiments of music, while those who have natural taste and talent, are given special training in the higher and more important branches of the art.

For general instruction the school is divided into two singing classes, called the larger and smaller (senior and junior) choirs. Three hours each week are devoted to the former for practice, and two hours to the latter. Twelve pupils received instruction on the cabinet and pipe organs, sixty-nine on the pianoforte, twelve on brass-band instruments, and eighteen received private lessons in voice culture.

During the past year more attention than formerly was given to instruction on the cabinet and pipe organs. Six girls were given lessons on the first named instrument, and six boys on the second. Of course, a boy who learns to perform on a pipe organ can also perform on a cabinet organ. Outside of eight or ten of the largest cities in the State, fully four-fifths of all the musical instruments to be found in private families, churches and Sunday-school rooms, are cabinet organs, and hence, most of our pupils who expect to teach music for a living, after they leave the Institution, will be forced to give their instruction, in most cases, on these instruments; or, if they are employed as organists in churches or social gatherings, they will be compelled to use a cabinet organ. Therefore the necessity for giving special attention to the instruction on the organs referred to, that these pupils may be able to make practical use of the knowledge they acquire.

One of our pupils, Chas. F. Hansen, who is about nineteen years old and totally blind, has been serving as organist for nearly a year, in one of the churches of this city, at a fair salary. So satisfactory were his services to the pastor and the congregation last year, that before he left the city at the close of the last school term, to spend his vacation at home, they re-employed him for the present year. Another of our boys, Willie Shannon, who is also totally blind, has recently been employed to play a cabinet organ in a church of this city.

Increased attention and care were given during the last year to our normal-teaching exercises, in which many of our advanced pupils participated. These students are being prepared to teach music after they leave the school, and, as in the case of the organ practice, an opportunity is given them here to gain some practical experience in the line of work which they expect to pursue, before they are thrown upon their own responsibility; to find out their deficiencies in time to supply them, and to learn the best and most advantageous methods employed in their profession, that they may pursue their avocation with success.

Instruction in the art of tuning and repairing pianos is also a branch of the musical department, into which we have endeavored to infuse new life and energy, that the results might be commensurate with the real importance we attach to it.

There is probably no attainment a blind man can possess, that he can turn to better account in an effort to find congenial and lucrative employment than the ability to repair, regulate and tune pianos and cabinet organs. Good tuners are always in demand. One of our pupils, Chas F. Hansen, to whom we have already referred, tuned fifty-two pianos, at good prices, during the last vacation of the school. His earnings in this work alone averaged over ten dollars a week. Another pupil, Frank Ballou, earned between twenty-five and thirty dollars in eight days, at the same employment. Both of these young men have tuned a number of pianos in this city, during the current school term, to the satisfaction of the owners.

The tuning class last year consisted of thirteen pupils in various stages of progress. The instruction was given by Mr. W. E. Reed, a blind man, whose ability to tune and regulate pianos and organs is, indeed, remarkable. We regret, however, that our facilities for teaching tuning are very inadequate. We have neither the room nor the appliances we should have to enable us to conduct this work successfully.

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.

The work of this department, I am pleased to say, has been carried on with commendable energy and diligence and with a fair measure of success. No pains have been spared to increase its efficiency and make the instruction given therein more thorough and useful, for we regard it, in many respects, as the most important part of our system of education.

While we place a high value upon the practical and elevating advantages derived from literary and musical culture, we are not unmindful of the fact that the mental stamina and natural inclination of many of our pupils are such, that, if they ever succeed in supporting themselves, it must be done by engaging in some industrial employment. Evidently, then, it is our bounden duty to try to teach them some useful trade, and, to do this, the most effective ways and means should be employed. There are a number of trades that willing and industrious blind boys and girls can learn, more than many people suppose; but the question with us is not what can they learn? but what will pay? what offers the greatest possibility of success after it is learned, and the surest means of honorably earning a living? We confess that the circumstances of locality, possibility of sale of product, machinery, material, etc., are so many and so various that it is extremely difficult to answer these questions aright.

For practical purposes the instruction in this department is given in two distinct sections—namely, the work-room for the girls and the work-shop for the boys.

WORK-ROOM FOR THE GIRLS.

The work of this section of technical instruction has been conducted during the year, as heretofore, with fidelity and singular skill. This room most of the time is a scene of cheerful activity and interest. Much of the earnestness exhibited here and the good progress made by the pupils, are due to the ingenuity and judgment of the teacher in charge, Miss Livonia A. Mason.

With only one or two exceptions, all the girls in the school regularly spend a part of each day in the employments of this room. They are taught to sew, both by hand and with a machine, to knit, to crochet, and to make a variety of plain and fancy articles of thread, worsted and beads, in all of which they have made rapid advancement. They have also been taught to make different kinds of garments, and to mend, darn and keep in repair their own clothing.

We have placed in the work-room, notwithstanding our space is limited, several forms for cane-seating chairs, and have given instruction to a number of our older girls in that trade. They entered upon this work with cheerful enthusiasm, and by assiduous industry they have made excellent progress in it. It has opened to them a new avenue in which to find employment and earn money.

All our small boys, also, spend one hour a day, of three days of each week, in this room in bead work. Although this work has been abandoned in some Institutions, we have found it of much practical value as a means of discipline of young and new pupils, and in training them in the use of their hands, and in habits of attention, industry, patience and precision.

The following is a list of the articles made in the work-room by the pupils during the past year:

THE WORKSHOP FOR THE BOYS.

Special attention was given to this branch of our handicraft department during the year, and we are gratified to be able to say that our efforts have not been without reward. The shop was never under better control and in a better condition than at the present time.

Most of our older boys, and some of the younger ones, have been regularly employed in the shop from one to three hours a day. They have been carefully and skillfully instructed in the several steps of the trades of broom-making and cane-seating chairs. Excepting the tuning of pianos, these, we are sorry to say, are the only trades that blind boys can pursue in this State with any degree of success. The former is taught by Mr. J. M. Richard, and the latter by Mr. A. J. Cochran. Both are skilled mechanics and judicious and trustworthy instructors. They have the confidence and respect of their apprentices, in whose progress and success they exhibit a deep interest.

In this, as in all our teaching, we endeavor to train our pupils to habits of industry, perseverance and economy, and to cultivate a spirit of self-reliance and independence—to help themselves when they can, and not permit others to help them.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

A class consisting of thirteen regular students, namely,

Lizzie Durst,	Maggie G. Kelley,
Maranda E. Benson,	Eckla O. Spore, graduated at the Institution at the close of the last school term. Two other pupils, John N. Shepherd and Henry Wilson, completed their trades in the handicraft department during the year, and also withdrew permanently from the school.

Commencement exercises were held on Friday afternoon, the 11th day of June last, in the chapel of the Institution. The hall was crowded with an intelligent and appreciative audience. The following programme of exercises was rendered throughout in a manner that was highly creditable to the class, and received many hearty commendations from those present.

The orations and essays, in thought, composition and delivery, would have been highly creditable for a graduating class of any high school or academy where the pupils have the advantages of sight. The choruses, vocal solos and instrumental numbers were, without an exception, well rendered and especially enjoyed by the audience.

The valedictorian, Miss Lizzie Durst, presented the subject of her essay, "Standing on the Threshold," in a most interesting manner. She is quite an intelligent little lady, and in closing her essay, before saying the word "farewell," with a face beaming with sweetness and intelligence, she so beautifully and pathetically referred to the endearing associations here, to the great blessing the Institution has been to her and her classmates, and to the tender, loving kindness of all who had contributed so much to their progress and welfare, that many in the audience were moved to tears.

The addresses of Mr. Briggs and Dr. Harrison were well-timed, replete with good advice to the graduates, and highly appreciated by all.

MORAL INSTRUCTION.

We regard the moral and social training of our pupils as a matter of the utmost importance. Without a careful development of their moral nature our instruction would, indeed, be incomplete. That the education of the blind should be a moral and religious one is so well established in the minds of those engaged in their training, that there seems to be an entire absence of controversy upon the subject among them. All, in this matter, are willing to put aside their religious differences, and to be intent only upon doing the best they can for these afflicted members of society.

But, that our instruction in this regard may be effective, a high moral standard of sentiment and action must be maintained among the employes of every department of the Institution. In a school of this character, pupils are impressed with a sense of right conduct from high and noble motives, more by example than by precept. Of all lessons, the best is the living lesson—the example of the teacher himself.

The Bible is our code of moral instruction. It is read every morning as a part of our regular chapel exercises, but nothing is permitted to be said or done at any time to give a sectarian bias to the mind of any one, or that a sensible person of any denomination would object to.

When the weather is favorable, and the health of the pupils will permit it, they are required to attend public worship at least once every Sunday, at such place or church as their parents may select. Many of them also attend Sunday-school and other services held at the several churches in the neighborhood of the Institution.

HEALTH.

It is indeed a source of profound gratification and thankfulness to be able to state that the health of the household during the past year was exceptionally good.

No deaths, and but very little sickness of a serious nature occurred in the Institution during the year. Althongh many of our pupils come from the malarial districts of the State, and are exposed to such diseases as exist in the neighborhood of their homes, and besides, some of them have enfeebled constitutions and are physically frail, they were almost entirely free from sickness here last year. The number of cases of chills and malarial fever was much less than during any previous term of the school, and of the various contagious diseases, which were very prevalent, if not epidemic, in several districts of Indianapolis and in neighboring towns last winter, none invaded our Institution.

Excepting two or three cases of pneumonia, all of which yielded readily to treatment, and two cases of pulmonary disease which had been progressing for more than a year, the only cases of illness were such mild ailments which result from taking cold, over-indulgence in eating, etc., and which may be found, at almost any time, among a large family of children.

The good health of the household is attributed to the excellent sanitary condition in which the Institution has been placed, to the variety and superior quality of food and the manner of preparing it, and to the close observance of hygienic and sanitory laws.

I avail myself of this opportunity to express my hearty appreciation of the faithful and intelligent service rendered us by the attending physician, Dr. B. French Stone, of the promptness and cheerfulness in which he responded to every call made upon him, and to the kind care and attention he gave the children placed under his treatment.

For further particulars regarding the health of the Institution and the causes of blindness, I respectfully call your attention to the physician's report herewith appended.

FINANCES.

By referring to the Treasurer's statement of moneys received and disbursements, herewith presented, it will be seen that the finances of the Institution are in a satisfactory condition, and that the appropriations for its support have been carefully and judiciously managed.

Notwithstanding the fact that every provision, consistent with thoughtful and judicious management, has been made for the comfort and welfare of the inmates of the Institution, and the further fact that extensive and necessary repairs were made to the buildings and premises, involving considerable expense, the total amount expended during the fiscal year was only $25,888.67—$23,892 for current support, and $1,996.67 for repairs, leaving a balance of the resources ($29,463.27) of $3,574.60 to be covered into the General Fund of the State Treasury. This balance, less $3.33, is all from the fund for current support, and is more than 13 per cent. of the amount appropriated for that purpose. It must not be inferred, however, that this saving was accomplished by denying the school anything that, with our present surroundings and advantages, would have added to its practical efficiency and success; that would have been, indeed, very unwise economy. But it has been accomplished by making judicious purchases and avoiding extravagance and waste. The pupils' tables are always abundantly supplied with a variety of good and wholesome food. We have endeavored at all times to purchase the purest and freshest articles of food, and insist that no other shall be used.

The cost for support per pupil, based on the total number enrolled during the last school term, was $183.78; the cost for support, based on the average monthly enrollment, was $197.45. During the two years previous to the one covered by this report, a balance of $8,376.29 of the resources of this Institution remained in the State Treasury, which, added to the balance of this year, makes a total saving of $11,850.89. If these annual balances could be placed to the credit of the Institution, as they should be, in a few years more, a large portion of the funds required to make such additions to the buildings as are necessary to accommodate the increased attendance of pupils, and to enable us to better conduct the several departments of the school, could be accumulated.

INDIGENT GRADUATES' FUND.

To explain the origin of this fund and the purposes for which it is to be expended, I have only to quote the following paragraph from my report of October 31, 1884:

"This fund was a bequest left in trust to the Superintendent of this Institute by Mrs. Nancy Fitzpatrick, of Muncie, Ind. She was the mother of Margaret Louisa Fitzpatrick, a former pupil of this school, now deceased. Mrs. Fitzpatrick died, childless, on the 15th day of March, 1871, but she left a will, in which, after giving a certain sum of money to each of several blind persons named, friends and associates of her blind daughter, and providing for the payment of certain expenses, she bequeathed the rest of her property to the Superintendent of this Institute, and his successor, to be held in trust for the benefit of the indigent blind of Indiana, who may attend this Institute, and to be given to them on leaving, in such sums as the Superintendent may judge proper. It has been used principally in assisting our needy graduates to obtain an outfit of tools and other articles with which to commence the broom-trade."

The following is an exhibit of the condition of the fund at this date:

Cash on hand November 1, 1885, and placed at interest for one year	$462 52
Interest on same for one year at 5½ per cent., due November 1, 1886	25 44
Total	$487 96
Only one pupil received aid from this fund during the last year. John N. Shepherd was furnished a broom machine valued at	16 30
Balance of fund available	$471 66
Amount due the fund from Beckner & Sayce, blind young men manufacturing brooms, at Arlington, Indiana	22 15
Value of one set of broom irons on hand	8 00
Total balance in favor of the fund	$501 81

IMPROVEMENTS AND REPAIRS.

During the summer vacation a most systematic and thorough cleansing of the building and premises was made, and everything was put in perfect order.

A number of the pupils' dormitories in the main building, the dormitories and halls on the third story of the shop, the hospitals, the pupils' wash-rooms, the kitchen and several ceilings on the first floor of the building, were calcimined or whitewashed, and otherwise put in good repair. A new floor was laid in the large boys' wash-room and the sides wainscoted.

The calcimine on the ceiling and walls of the halls on the fourth floor of the building, was washed off, and the ceiling and walls on the west side were painted with oil and lead paint. The walls on the east side of the building looked so clean and fresh after the calcimine had been removed that it was not deemed necessary to paint them. The ceilings, walls and woodwork of three school-rooms; the ceilings of several private rooms, and the ceiling and woodwork of the library were also painted.

The walls of a number of private rooms were papered, and for several new carpets were purchased. New Body-Brussels carpets were purchased for the Superintendent's office and for one of the music teacher's rooms, on the third floor. The ceiling and walls of the teachers' dining-room were papered with tinted paper, and the floor was covered with linoleum of a handsome pattern.

We also made some very important improvements and additions to the system of plumbing work on the west side of the house. There had never been any direct means of protection against fire in the building; but last summer we put in a line of two-inch lead pipes, extra heavy, extending from the cellar to the fourth story of the west wing of the building. It is conveniently located, and on every floor there is a valve, to which can be attached a line of two-inch hose. This pipe will be connected with a three-inch supply pipe, which will be in direct connection with the city system of water-works. For ordinary distribution of water through the house, we have placed a large tank under the cupola on the west wing, which can be kept filled with water from the city supply. By this means we secure ordinary tank pressure of water for domestic purposes, and the direct fire pressure of the city, if it should become necessary to use it.

Five new water closets of the best modern pattern were purchased and put in place, on the same side of the building—four on the first floor and one on the fourth; new attachments, traps, connections, caps, valves, etc., all of modern improvement and best quality, were supplied. We have now overhauled and almost entirely renewed the whole system of plumbing work in the building, and, we think, it is as nearly perfect throughout as it can be made. None but the best material was used, and the workmanship is of a superior quality.

Repairs were also made on the outside of the building. The cupolas, all the cornice, moldings, window-frames and window-sash were painted with linseed oil and lead paint. The front of the main building, the columns at the front entrance, and the sides of the steps were also painted. The roofs of the main building, wings and verandas, were all repaired and painted with mineral and oil paint.

A new roof of good pine shingles was put on the building in which is our carpenter-shop, bakery and woodshed, and the walls and woodwork were painted. The greenhouse was painted outside and inside; a new oven and flue were built and other necessary repairs made to it.

The grounds about the buildings have been well kept, and always present an attractive appearance. The fences and pavements which surround the premises, have been kept clean and in good repair.

Much of the beauty and attractiveness of the yards is due to the energy, taste and skill of our gardener, Mr. Geo. Graham. These grounds are advantageously located, and are surrounded by some of the best residences of this city. The condition in which they are kept is a credit to the State and highly appreciated by the citizens of Indianapolis.

THE PRESENT SESSION.

The present session of the school opened under the most favorable auspices, on Wednesday, September 8. One hundred and twenty-one pupils have been enrolled to date. Of these sixty are males and sixty-one females. Number readmitted, 105; new pupils received, 16; all are present.

The general health of the Institution has been very good. The officers, teachers and pupils seem to have entered upon the work of the session with renewed energy and enthusiasm; the utmost harmony prevails in every department, and everyone seems intent upon making this an interesting and profitable school year.

SUGGESTIONS.

The main building of the Institution was erected about thirty-five years ago, and was intended to accommodate a school of about eighty pupils. But, though the population of the State has increased greatly in the last three decades, and with it also the number of blind children, but very little has been done to increase the capacity of these buildings.

It requires much more room to properly conduct the work of the several departments of a school of blind children than is required to successfully manage a school of the same number of seeing pupils. We are doing the best we can with our limited facilities and increased number of pupils, but it is apparent to any one who inspects the Institution that we are greatly in need of more room, and that the buildings ought to be enlarged.

We need more dormitories. We are compelled at present to use our hospitals for regular sleeping apartments. We need larger and better ventilated school-rooms; we need separate rooms in which to give instruction in piano-tuning. At present we are without comfortable sitting-rooms for the pupils, and we have no room in which to keep their books properly classified. We also need a larger and better arranged store-room, kitchen and dining-room for the pupils.

In this connection, I would again respectfully call the attention of your honorable body to the following paragraph which appeared in my report of two years ago:

"There are in the State a large number of blind people, between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-five years, who, on account of poor health or other causes, were deprived of the advantages of this Institute before they arrived at the maximum age (twenty-one years) at which we receive pupils into the school; or, may-be, they lost their sight, through sickness or by accident, after they were twenty-one years old. They are without employment, and, consequently, many of them are without the means of self-support. If something is not done to aid them, in a few years, a majority of them will become a public charge, and remain so during the rest of their natural lives. It seems to me some provision ought to be made by the Legislature to give this unfortunate class a trade, or some other employment, by which they may be able to assist, at least, to gain a living."

I deem it proper to call your attention, also, to the following statement made by the State Board of Health. The Board visited this Institution on the 8th instant, and made a thorough inspection of the buildings and premises, and, in its report to the Governor, relative thereto, it said:

"This Institution we likewise carefully inspected. The rooms are clean, well ventilated and in most cases well lighted. The beds are clean and well provided with suitable covering. We were especially pleased with the system of plumbing which has been perfected by the present management. There are only a few mild cases of sickness among the inmates; all the rest are either in school, caning chairs, making brooms or engaged in some other useful manner. It is to be regretted that the building is not considerably larger, as the Superintendent is almost daily in receipt of applications from those who have become blind after mature life for admission to enable them to acquire the means of making a livelihood and relieve them from the necessity of relying upon public charity for support. The Legislature should see to it that the proper addition to the building is made. The cellar is clean and free from offensive odors. The yards and grounds are beautifully kept and well drained. The kitchen, bakery and store-rooms are all in excellent condition."

CONCLUSION.

Before concluding this report, which has been extended beyond the usual length of such documents, and may be regarded as unnecessarily minute in detail, I beg leave to say that each year's experience deepens my conviction of the importance and value of this work and the sense of my responsibility.

I have endeavored to carefully guard every interest of the Institution; to administer its affairs in a judicious and impartial manner, and to increase its efficiency and advance it to the highest possible plane of usefulness. As to the measure of success or failure that has attended my efforts, I let others judge.

Sincerely thanking you, gentlemen, for the deep interest you have always manifested, for the generous support you have given me, and for the great freedom you have allowed me in the work under your care, this report is most respectfully submitted.

I hereby affirm that to the best of my knowledge and belief the inventory and accounts herewith presented, under appropriate headings, are correct.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Board of Trustees of the Indiana Institute for the Blind:

GENTLEMEN—In compliance with the request of the Superintendent, Prof. H. B. Jacobs, the following report concerning the health of the pupils, the sanitary condition of the Institute and other facts which may be of public interest, so far as they relate to the past school term, is respectfully submitted.

In a former report it was stated that statistics, general observation and experience confirmed the opinion that the blind, as a class, have less vitality than those who have sight. As a factor, this want of vitality appears associated with blindness both in cause and effect. Many who are not born blind are yet born to become blind; and while a want of vitality is one predisposing cause of blindness, it is equally evident that a lack of vitality is in consequence of being blind, which leads to a more sedentary life than is usual with those who are not deprived of vision.

The general causes of blindness have been regarded as both ante-natal and post-natal. Of the former causes, as regards the pupils of this Institute, no cases are traced to either psychological influences or the intermarriage of near relatives, but are mostly due to scrofula or other hereditary diseases. It is known that in intermarriages, where parents are imperfectly developed, that there is liability to want of development of the nerves of special sense, as well as a double tendency to transmit hereditary disease in case it should exist. If, however, such parents are perfectly healthy, the tendency in this direction is probably no greater than if nowise related by consanguinious ties. The records of this Institute, for many years, have been carefully searched and certainly confirm this conclusion. Of the forty-one cases of congenital blindness among the 130 pupils enrolled during the past school term, we find but three whose parents were reported as cousins. Neither is hereditary blindness frequent, as there are but two cases of congenital blindness, which would appear to be due to this cause: in one case one of the parents was blind, in the other both parents were blind. But most cases of ante-natal and post-natal blindness appear to result from imperfection or disease of the organs of vision, which are accessory to the nerves of special sense, the defect most frequently existing in some part of the globe of the eye. The majority of pupils have, however, become blind at different ages since birth. Some of them from special diseases, as purulent ophthalmia, inflammation of the cornea and of the iris, cataract or opacity of the crystalline lens, and amaurosis or paralysis of the optic nerve. Many are blind from general diseases, whose sequelæ attack different parts of eye, as scrofula, measles and inflammatory fevers. A few have been deprived of vision from blows, wounds and probably from improper treatment. Out of the 130 pupils in attendance during the term, we enumerate the following as causes of their blindness: Congenital, 41; inflammation, 35; scrofula, 21; accidents, 9; cerebro-spinal fever, 7; cataract, 4; measles, 3; malpractice, 2, and 1 each from erysipelas, small-pox, rheumatism and whooping-cough. The remaining four cases are reported as of unknown cause, but are probably due to amaurosis. In this connection, it should be stated that of the sixty boys and seventy girls in attendance, fifty-two are totally blind and seventy-eight are partly blind. The number partly blind comprises those pupils who possess some power of vision, but not sufficient to enable them to distinguish clearly the forms of objects. It also includes those who are only and barely able to distinguish light from darkness.

Two cases of pneumonia occurred during the month of January, constituting the only serious sickness during the term. As usual, however, at the beginning of the session, several pupils were entered already suffering from malarial disorders, contracted while home during vacation, but entirely recovered shortly after their admission to the Institute. The more anaemic pupils and those whose natural resistive powers were below the average, were more or less affected by slight changes of temperature, easily contracting colds and suffered to some extent from bronchial and neuralgic affections, and some from derangement of digestion, due to over-eating. Our escape from zymotic disease is to be attributed to the superior condition of plumbing and drainage which has been recently established, and it may now be said that the sanitary condition is fully equal to the requirements of modern science. While but few of the pupils have been troubled with attacks of acute diseases during the school term, yet some of them have required tonics, alteratives, or other constitutional remedies to build up and maintain their general health. To assist in these results and to improve their physical development, such hygienic measures as bathing, the influence of sunlight and open air or gymnastic exercises, have been systematically resorted to, and persistently, but judiciously enforced. The food has been of a very wholesome and excellent quality, and the diet varied to suit the demands of health. In consequence of this management, a marked improvement is to be noticed in the physical as well as mental condition of the pupils, but, owing to their peculiarly unfortunate natural defects, to meet all requirements the duties of the officers, teachers and attendants are laborious and of great responsibility, and such as can only be faithfully performed by those who take an especial interest in the work before them. In securing the most excellent results in the general management of the Institute, much praise is due the Superintendent for the superior judgment, untiring industry, uniform kindness and unceasing care and vigilance, that he has constantly exercised.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

The Indiana Institute for the Education of the Blind is located at Indianapolis, the capital of the State, occupying a beautiful and healthful site in the northern part of the city.

It is strictly an educational establishment, a branch of the noble public educational system of Indiana, and has for its object the moral, intellectual and physical development and training of the blind children of suitable school age, of both sexes, residing in the State.

Pupils from this State are admitted to the privileges of the Institution free of charge. They are provided with tuition, boarding, washing, medical attendance and everything necessary, except clothing and traveling expenses.

The school term commences each year on the second Wednesday of September, and continues forty weeks. It is highly important that pupils should be present at the opening of the term, and remain, if possible, to the close.

All pupils are required to come provided with an adequate supply of good, comfortable clothing, embracing suitable articles for both summer and winter wear, in such quantities as to admit of the necessary changes for washing and repairing.

Each article of clothing should be distinctly marked with the owner's name, in order to prevent confusion or loss, and must be sent in good condition, not only upon the first entrance of the pupil, but also at each subsequent return from home after the vacation.

It is positively required that every pupil shall be removed from the Institution at the close of the term, each year, as well as at any other time when such removal may be deemed necessary by the proper officers; and, in case of the failure of the friends of any pupil to comply with this requisition, provision is made by the law for the sending of such pupil to the Trustee of the township in which he or she resides, to be by him provided for at the expense of the county.

As a rule, applicants who are under nine or over twenty-one years of age are not admitted; but exceptions are sometimes made in favor of those who are over age, at the discretion of the Board of Trustees. The term of instruction is not limited to any definite number of years, but is determined by the attainments of the pupil and his fitness to graduate.

No person of imbecile or unsound mind, or of confirmed immoral habits, will be knowingly received into the Institute; and in case any pupil shall, after a fair trial, prove incompetent to receive useful instruction, or disobedient to the regulations of the Institute, such pupil will be thereupon dismissed.

By a recent action of the Board of Trustees, the use of tobacco in every form, in or about the building, is prohibited. Parents should be especially careful to prevent their boys from forming the habit of using it while at home during vacations. Its injurious influence on all who begin to use it in childhood is not questioned, but it is especially harmful to the blind; therefore, one can not do them a greater kindness than to guard them against its use.

Letters are written once a month, or oftener, if necessary, for those who can not write for themselves. If a pupil is taken seriously sick, the friends are immediately notified of the fact.

All letters and packages sent to the pupils should have, besides the name of the pupil addressed, these words: "Institute for the Blind, Indianapolis, Ind.," to insure prompt delivery.

The Institute is open to visitors on every day, except Sundays, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 3 P. M.

Persons bringing pupils to the Institute, or visiting them while here, can not be accommodated with boarding and lodging during their stay in the city.

Persons desiring to procure the admission of a pupil should apply, by letter or otherwise, to the Superintendent of the Institution for instructions as to the manner of procedure, and no pupil should be sent to the Institution until such instructions shall have been received and fully complied with.

EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

OF THE

INDIANA SOLDIERS' ORPHANS' HOME

AND ASYLUM FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN,

FOR THE

FISCAL YEAR ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1886.

TO THE GOVERNOR.

INDIANAPOLIS:
WM. B. BURFORD, CONTRACTOR FOR STATE PRINTING AND BINDING.

THE STATE OF INDIANA,
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
December 3, 1886.

Received by the Governor, examined and referred to the Auditor of State for verification of financial statement.

OFFICE OF AUDITOR OF STATE,
December 17, 1886.

The financial statements of this report, so far as they relate to the appropriations drawn from the State Treasury, are correct, having been paid upon the requisitions of the proper officers.

The financial statements and the vouchers show that the following amounts have not been returned to the Treasury as the law requires:

Balance in the maintenance fund	$45 80
Balance in fire-protection fund	184 00
Balance in library fund	175 39
Total	$405 19

The Institution having been destroyed by fire the Trustees assumed the responsibility of having these balances turned into the current repair fund, as is shown in this report. The report states that these amounts have been loaned to the repair fund, and that the repair fund shows an overdraft as above given.

The statute provides for the support of the Asylum "the sum of ten dollars per month for each child therein actually supported by the State, counting the actual time such child is an inmate and supported by the State." This is the "supply fund" from which the expenses of the Asylum are to be paid. The report shows that the amount expended for the actual time the children have been inmates and supported by the State is in excess of the statute allowance therefor. After the fire and upon consultation with State officers, a liberal construction was placed upon the law, and the Trustees assumed the responsibility of drawing on the fund, knowing the necessity for immediate action in the reconstruction of the building and the protection of the children.

JAS. H. RICE,
Auditor of State.

DECEMBER 17, 1886.

Returned by the Auditor of State with his certificate, and transmitted to the Secretary of State for publication upon the order of the Board of Commissioners of Public Printing and Binding.

PIERRE GRAY,
Private Secretary.

Filed in the office of the Secretary of State this 17th day of December, 1886.

OCTOBER 31, 1886.

TRUSTEES' REPORT.

To His Excellency, Isaac P. Gray,

Governor of Indiana:

The Trustees of the above combined institutions have to report that during the past year, by strict and close economy, they were enabled by July 31, 1886, to pay a large portion of the floating debt that was left on hands by their predecessors. This was done without taking away from the comforts of the inmates, either in the articles of clothing or food. The wages of the employes were, however, reduced and their number decreased.

FIRE.

On the 21st of July, 1886, the buildings of the Orphanage were discovered to be on fire, and in a few hours the "Home" was a total wreck. The Trustees find reason for congratulations and fervent thanks that no lives were lost, and that none of the inmates or employes were even slightly injured. Temporary shelter was immediately provided for the orphans and feeble-minded children, making them as comfortable as possible under the circumstances.

An examination of the ruins convinced us that the fire had originated from the kitchen flue. First, because the fire, when first discovered, had made the greatest headway in that vicinity. Second, because there was a defect in the construction of the flue, it having been partially cut away to set a joist.

Some criticisms have been offered because greater facilities were not provided for extinguishing fire. When the present Board of Trustees took charge of the Institution, there was nothing in or about the building that could be utilized in putting out fire. An appropriation made by the General Assembly of 1885 (Acts 1885, page 187) as follows, "For buckets, ladders, and other fire apparatus for Soldiers' Orphans' Home, three hundred dollars," was not available until November, 1885. The Trustees anticipated the appropriation by using a part of the maintenance fund in purchasing "Hand Grenades" and constructing a hydraulic to conduct water to the building. It would have required at least $2,000 to put in appliances for extinguishing fire. This outlay, under our crippled financial condition, we did not deem it our duty to make.

PROVISION FOR THE CHILDREN.

In September, the Trustees rented the Valley House, in Knightstown, and moved the soldiers' orphans to that house, and on the 25th of October opened the school for them. The frame school building was fitted up for the use of the feeble-minded children, but for want of room no school has been organized for these wards.

REBUILDING.

The former Board of Trustees contracted and paid for $20,000 insurance upon the buildings, and reported to the present Board that the buildings were insured for that amount. Owing to the lack of fire protection the present Board took $5,000 additional insurance. Of the $20,000 insured by the old Board, $5,000, said to have been in the Commercial Union Insurance Company of London, is now being contested.

The actual insurance collected by the Board is as follows:

Aug. 21, 1886, London Liverpool and Globe	$5,000
Oct. 4, Insurance Company of North American	2,500
Oct. 4, Underwriters	1,250
Oct. 4, American Insurance Company	5,000
Oct. 19, Fire and Marine of Springfield	1,250
Nov. 9, Phenix of Brooklyn	5,000
Total	$20,000

The State owned property with values as follows:

57 acres of land	$4,500
Old walls and foundations	17,000
Boiler house, boilers and engine	4,500
Laundry, bakery, school-house, nursery, barn and other buildings	2,500

The Board of Trustees deemed it their duty under all the circumstances to at once commence the work of repairing the building.

Expenditures have been made from the following account:

Received from maintenance fund	488 29
Total	$20,488 29

Paid Watts & Parker on brick	1,981 60
Paid C. E. Whitsitt & Co., contractors	2,500 00
Total paid to date	$8,479 11

The contract to repair the buildings, after the repairs were made to the foundation, was let to C. E. Whitsitt & Co. for $54,400.00. The two last named items are payments made upon that contract. The contractors have bound themselves to have the south wing completed by December 10, 1886. The cost of that work and the brick delivered will exhaust the money received from the insurance companies. There will be a balance due on contract of C. E. Whitsitt & Co., $37,912.42. It will leave unpaid, or to provide for, the following:

Extra expenses not included in contract	$5,000 00
Steam heating	5,000 00
Plumbing	2,500 00
Lighting, electric light	4,000 00
Furniture	5,000 00
Fire apparatus	5,000 00
Necessary repairs on the grounds	1,000 00

Private property of employes was destroyed in the fire, amounting to $1,863.70, this amount including the Superintendent's private library. In our opinion these parties should be reimbursed by the State. These employes are all poor and to many of them it was a loss of all the property they had in the world.

The question of completing this building rests with the General Assembly, and we ask that you make such recommendations to that body as you may deem proper from the foregoing facts.

Respectfully submitted.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Honorable Board of Trustees:

At the close of another year, in obedience to the requirements of the law, I have the honor and pleasure of submitting to you, and through you to his Excellency and to the Legislature of the State, the eighth annual report of the Indiana Soldiers' Orphans' Home and Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children. Aside from the unexpected and greatly to be deplored calamity that befell us July 21, 1886, in the burning of the main building, nothing has occurred to mar the happiness or interrupt the enjoyment of the inmates of these combined institutions. The smiling faces of the children betoken the good health they enjoy, and their cheerful songs, heard somewhere at almost all times, are unmistakable signs of their contentment and happiness. Through the goodness of a kind and beneficent Providence the shadow of death has not fallen across the threshhold of the Orphanage during the year, and in the Asylum only one case of fatal illness is to be reported. The various agencies for the social, intellectual and religious advancement and education of the children committed to our charge have been faithfully, and, we trust, successfully employed. The combined efforts of officers and employes, in their several departments of service, to fulfill the expectations of the founders and friends of the Home have been attended with success, and are here acknowledged with pleasure. At no time since the present management assumed control had there been such a feeling of satisfaction as to the past and such bright prospects for the future as at the Board meeting in the early part of July. In a few days all our plans for the future were disconcerted. Through dint of courage and perseverance, however, the orphans are now snugly ensconced for the winter in the Valley House, at Knightstown, and the Asylum children are comfortably situated in the frame school building at the Home.

DESCRIPTION.

The Indiana Soldiers' Orphans' Home is located in Rush County, two miles south of Knightstown, on a farm of fifty-seven acres. The institution became the property of the State of Indiana and was placed under the control and management of officers selected under State legislation in 1867 as a home for the maintenance of sick and disabled Indiana soldiers and seamen, and their orphans and widows, to be called the "Indiana Soldiers' and Seamen's Home." The formal opening took place June 15, 1867. Provision was made for the admission of necessitous or disabled persons who had been in the service of the United States, in the army or navy, and the widows and orphans of Indiana soldiers and seamen; but the institution became, in fact, a home for Indiana soldiers' orphans. By an act of 1869 the trustees were made the legal guardians of the persons of such orphans, and were authorized to indenture them during minority. The building occupied was a frame hotel situated on the west side of the pike. The number of admissions to the Home increased so rapidly that steps were taken looking to the erection of a new and more suitable building. About five acres of ground on the east side of the pike were purchased, and in March, 1869, ground was broken for the new building. Its total cost was $56,360.

It was deemed expedient to transfer the old soldiers to this new structure, and allow the children the entire use of the hotel. The number admitted, however, increased so rapidly that the accommodations were insufficient, and in 1870 the old soldiers were re-transferred to the hotel and the children were placed in the new building. On Christmas night, 1871, the old hotel, not the Orphans' Home, was destroyed by fire, and the inmates, thus left homeless, were sheltered temporarily with the orphans until arrangements were perfected and they were sent to the National Home, at Dayton, Ohio. On the night of the 8th of September, 1877, about eleven o'clock, the Home was discovered to be on fire, and very soon was completely destroyed. Happily, there was no loss of life. It was immediately rebuilt and the work contemplated by its founders successfully carried forward until July 21, 1886, when, for the second time, it was consumed by the flames. This second conflagration occurred, fortunately, in the daytime, the fire being first discovered breaking through the roof at two o'clock in the afternoon. All the children were at once removed to places of safety, and only the building and such contents as could not be rescued were consumed by the flames. It is here sought to correct the erroneous impression that the Home has been destroyed by fire three times. It is lamentable enough that twice unexpected disaster has overtaken the Orphans' Home, and it is to be hoped that no such calamity will ever again befall it.

NUMBER OF INMATES.

It would be highly gratifying to be able to report the exact number of orphans that have been inmates of the Home since its organization, but the records having been consumed in the fire of 1877, it is impossible to furnish this desirable information. It seems altogether probable, however, judging from the enrollment during the past eight years, that at least twelve hundred children have found shelter and protection within its walls.

Many applications for admission have been rejected, because the paternal parent of the child was living, and the law contemplates only the admission of such children as are soldiers' orphans, the father being deceased. The appeal frequently made by the soldier and invalid father in behalf of his motherless and homeless child, would naturally suggest that the law might very justly be amended so as to embrace within its provisions this helpless and dependent class. It can not be denied that in many instances the father is wholly unable to care for himself, and must share his pittance of a pension with his children, who are compelled to be partakers of his suffering because he is heroic enough to still cling to life. If he were dead they could be admitted to the Home, but so long as he lives he is compelled, by the present law, to care for them, if possible, or submit to the humiliation of seeing them become inmates of some county asylum. Justice demands that the sorrows of the old soldier should be assuaged and the suffering of the child alleviated by granting to it the privilege of becoming a ward of the State and a sharer of the beneficence that patriotism is always glad to provide. It is a matter of just pride that no child that could be lawfully admitted has ever knocked in vain at the doors of the Indiana Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

After the fire our facilities for taking care of the children were so limited that requests were made of their friends and relatives to make, if possible, temporary provision for them. Our occupancy of the Valley House embraces only one month, and, as a result, many of the children in this short time have not yet returned. Further, no new applications have been considered by the Board since its meeting in July. These facts will serve to explain the reduced number of inmates at present as compared with last year.

APPLICATIONS FOR CHILDREN.

Parties making application for children are required to furnish satisfactory recommendations and also sign the following:

This indenture witnesseth that I, ..., have this day received from the Superintendent of the Indiana Soldiers' Orphans' Home ...., a child, age ..... years. I hereby agree to furnish ..... a home in my family and as one of my family, to care for ..... in sickness and in health, and to give ..... such advantages, socially and religiously, as we, as a family, enjoy; to provide for ..... attendance upon the public schools during their terms in my school district; to treat ..... kindly and not impose labor upon ..... that is beyond ..... strength and ability to perform; to provide ..... with comfortable clothing at all seasons; to give ..... such instruction and direction as will fit ..... for usefulness in life.

Witness my hand and seal this .... of .....188.....

A correspondence is kept up with these parties and the welfare of the children is carefully looked after and given constant attention. Generally the reports received are favorable and encouraging. A few extracts from letters recently received are herewith appended:

"* * * Walter is well and is getting along nicely. He is just a splendid boy. I havn't had to correct him but once since he has been with me. He can do most any kind of work on the farm. In fact he is a good boy in every respect."

"* * * Willie is still with us and seems perfectly satisfied. He worked nicely on the farm this summer, and is now in school doing well. He seems to be quite interested in all he undertakes."

"* * * Willie makes great headway at school. He is a good boy, and my family and myself are well pleased with him.

My wife says if she could get as nice a little girl there, as Willie is a boy, she would come and get one. You are working in a noble cause and I hope you will have a long and useful life. * * *."

"* * * Emma is a very good girl and is doing well in school. We all like her very much and hope she will be satisfied to remain with us. * * *."

CARE OF THE CHILDREN.

When necessity compels the loving mother to turn her thoughts toward the Home as a place of protection for her child, the first thought that presents itself to her mind must be, "Who will have the care of my boy?" Letters of inquiry upon this point have frequently been received, and some mothers have even visited the Institution before making application, that they might learn for themselves as to whose hands their children were to be committed. The selection of faithful and conscientious attendants to take charge of these children has been our constant aim and purpose, and believing that women are better adapted to such work than men, all our attendants the past year have been females. The results demonstrate the wisdom of such a course. Preference has been given, in filling vacancies, to the soldier's widow and the soldier's daughter, and as a result nine widowed mothers, some of them having children in the Home, have been given employment. Two of our teachers and two governesses are soldiers' daughters. Regard has also been paid to the claims of children brought up in the Home. Four of this class are now on the pay-roll and are drawing salaries aggregating $59 per month. One old soldier is also an employe.

The proper care of the orphan children necessitated their separation into five divisions, three groups of boys and two of girls. It is the duty of the governess in charge to keep a strict watch over them, in every particular, to wait on them at their meals, to attend them on rising in the morning and on retiring at night, and to exercise at all times such a general supervision as may be required to prevent accidents and harm of every description. How faithful these excellent governesses have been may be known from the character of their work, not a single serious accident having happened to any of the children during the entire year. This must be regarded as remarkable, especially when it is remembered that they passed through the terrible ordeal of the fire and all the dangers incident thereto, and have been subjected since then to inconveniences and have been surrounded by circumstances so unfavorable as to require ceaseless vigilance in order to keep the children safe from harm and at the same time protect them against sickness and disease. Their heroism and their patience in all the trying circumstances under which they have been placed, entitle them to the lasting gratitude of the management of the Home and the grateful remembrance of the children and of all their friends. Being compelled to resign their positions, many of them, after the fire, because there was no work for them to do, and leaving behind them, as they did, in the ashes, all their personal effects, they richly deserve to be fully reimbursed for the losses they sustained. The same simple act of justice is due to all the other employes who were sufferers on account of the fire. The State has only to consider the material ruin that has been wrought, and can afford to be magnanimous to those who disregarded every personal interest and put forth every effort to save the property of the State and rescue the children committed to their care.

THE HEALTH OF THE CHILDREN.

The report of the physician of the Home, found elsewhere, presents in detail the cases of sickness that have been treated, and it is only intended here to call attention to the remarkable fact that not a single death has occurred in the orphanage during the year. From a careful study of the tables of mortality of public institutions, it has been ascertained that 7 per cent. is regarded as a proper estimate of the number of deaths that are likely to occur during a year. That not a single death has taken place with us, is a just cause for rendering our sincerest thanks to Him who holds our lives in His hands and has so graciously preserved and kept us as a family through every danger. Aside, however, from the divine care, great praise is due to the attending physician for his faithful discharge of every duty, and for his skill in the treatment of all the diseases that have demanded his attention. The speedy restoration to vigorous health of children, pale and thin, who come to us, and the uninterrupted good health, year after year, of the inmates, would seem to verify the statement often made, that the location of the Home is most excellent and possibly could not be improved upon anywhere in the State.

THE OCCUPATION OF THE CHILDREN.

It has been urged in every annual report that some industries should be inaugurated whereby the children might be usefully employed, but the appropriations each year being barely sufficient to meet the demands of maintenance and school expenses, no steps have ever been taken in that direction. As a result, all the employment afforded the children has been, for the boys, work on the farm and in the garden; and for the girls such housework and sewing as could be done without interfering with the general system of work that must be carried on in an institution. While gratifying progress has been made in these little matters, it is certainly high time to give serious consideration to the propriety and necessity of enlarging their sphere of usefulness and establishing such industries as will serve to prepare them to enter upon life qualified for some position and able to occupy some place of honor and trust. To send forth boys who do not know how to work and with idle habits, is to send forth loafers, drones in society and candidates for the poor-house. They need to be taught in a practical way that work is honorable and should be cheerfully performed. How can this be done when a boy has little or nothing to do in the way of manual or mechanical labor? "But what branch of industry, if any, can be established?" may be asked. It is freely admitted that the question is easier asked than answered, and easier answered than put into practice, but in other institutions such departments as blacksmithing, carpentering, shoemaking, painting, glazing, tailoring, brush-making, baking, laundrying, brick-making, brick-laying, plastering, telegraphy and printing have been either in part or wholly successfully carried out. Any comparison that might be made with older and larger institutions as to the probable results that would be accomplished by establishing any of these industries would be unfavorable to the Home unless it were borne in mind that we have children ranging in age from six to sixteen, and not men full-grown, thoroughly developed in muscle and body. Children could not perform the same labor as men, and the expectation that they should do so would be unreasonable.

A school of technology might be established, the course of instruction to embrace the use and care of tools, drawing and designing, modeling, wood carving, carpenter and joining work. Our boys, when they go out into the world, should be able to take with them the accomplishments of the artisan and be prepared as useful and respectable citizens to perform their part in the work of life. It would be possible also to send some forth as farmers, well qualified to battle with the world for an independent living; but we have only a few acres of tillable land, and can not gratify the wishes of those who may have a decided preference for the cultivation of the soil. True, the larger boys have done something in this direction, but we need to cultivate and for pasturage. Previous reports have urged attention to this matter, but it becomes necessary to restate the facts, which have hitherto been disregarded. It has been found a necessity ever since the year 1879 to rent about a hundred acres of land each year for pasturage and for purposes of cultivation. This outlay to the State has amounted to $2,380, and we are still compelled to rent, and are largely, as to terms, at the mercy of the owners of the land. It must be conceded that it is poor economy to depend on renting, especially when land adjoining the Home can be bought at reasonable figures. It is therefore most respectfully suggested that an adequate appropriation would be eminently proper for the purchase of these adjacent lands. The Ohio Reform School for Boys, with four hundred and seventy-one inmates, has a farm of 1,210 acres. The Indiana Home for Soldiers' Orphans, with an Asylum attached, and having an enrollment on an average of two hundred and fifty children—good boys and good girls—has a farm of about fifty acres. A similar comparison with many other institutions would bear the same disproportionate relation. Indiana is certainly as able to provide amply for her soldiers' orphans as Ohio is to provide for her juvenile offenders.

EDUCATION.

Our schools, after a session of nine months, closed May 28. The experienced teachers in charge of the different grades rendered satisfactory work, and the children made very excellent progress. The eight common school branches were taught, and the latest and most approved text books were used. Miss Margaret Weakley gave instruction also in vocal music the last half hour of each day, and the singing ability of the children, as well as their progress in the rudiments of music, was very marked, and became a noticeable feature on the part of all visitors. Written examinations were held the last Friday of each month, and correct reports of the standing of the child, in school, sent to the mother or guardian. The school privileges enjoyed by these children are held to surpass every thing else in importance, and every child is therefore required to attend school every day. Our enrollment was consequently equal to the number of children in the Home, and they were divided into four grades: First Primary, Second Primary, Intermediate and Grammer Grades.

On October 25, very pleasant rooms were secured, and the schools reopened with the following corps of teachers:

Miss Laura Wachtstetter.

Miss Emma Windeler.

Miss H. E. Beane.

Miss Mary T. Wilson.

The indications are flattering for very successful work.

The many literary entertainments given by the children afforded them great pleasure, and proved to be a source of great enjoyment. Visitors always filled our chapel to overflowing on these occasions. The ease and grace with which our children appear in public are to be attributed to this source and the excellent training given them by their instructors. Letter-writing is also given special attention, and the knowledge obtained in this line of work is put into practice the first Friday of each month, when the children write to their friends and relatives. At chapel they are advised of any event of special importance and the incidents connected therewith, and thus are kept fully informed upon all matters of general interest. It is sought to afford these children every educational advantage necessary to fit them for usefulness and happiness, and extra attention is given in cases requiring it. One crippled boy, paralyzed in his lower limbs and who will never be able to walk, receives special instruction in bookkeeping, with the hope that he may be able, in due time, to make his own living.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING.

Some years ago, a frame building two stories high and containing four rooms was provided for the education of the orphan children. It was seated with the uncomfortable double desks of the years gone by, and only one room, the first primary, has been reseated with the single and modern desk. It has been the constant hope of the management that a new building would be erected, and little money has been expended, therefore, on this old school house or its furniture. It may be mentioned with pride that ample and commodious buildings, beautiful in architecture and suited in every particular to the education and refinement of children, have been erected throughout the State, where the rich and the poor alike may share the benefits of our grand school system, and no complaint is made that there is an enormous outlay each year for school apparatus, globes, charts, maps, and other facilities for imparting knowledge in the most successful manner; but it must be conceded, with some degree of humiliation, that the soldiers' orphans have not been the partakers of these delightful privileges, but have had to content themselves with the occupancy of a building that had no claim on their pride, and be satisfied with such meager aids as were afforded, all because the State has provided nothing better for their comfort and welfare. Shall not this ancient landmark be removed and such a building be erected in its stead as will reflect credit upon the State and discharge the obligation that it owes to these orphan children?

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Every Sunday afternoon one hour is passed in the study of the international lesson, and the good results accomplished are manifest. Portions of the Scriptures, committed to memory, are recited in concert, with a view to impressing the sacred word, and by it controlling the conduct of the boy and molding the life of the man. At the end of each quarter every "Golden Text" and every "Leading Thought" can be given by the whole school, and their information as to the lessons is a great surprise to the visitor and stranger. Sunday-school papers are supplied and other religious reading matter for their perusal. Regular services are also held for their edification at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, and again in the evening. Also each evening during the week, except Saturday evening, short chapel exercises are held, consisting of singing, devotional exercises, Scripture recitations, and frequently the reading of a good, interesting story or a short talk by the Superintendent.

During our stay, however, in Knightstown the children will attend services and Sunday-school at the different churches, and our own services on Sunday will be dispensed with.

LIBRARY.

A list of choice books for the library was made out early in July, and it was intended to invest the two-hundred-dollar library fund in September, when the schools reopened. This arrangement was disconcerted by the fire, and no books have been added to the library except some volumes donated during the holidays by the Women's Relief Corps. The library was not destroyed by the fire, but many volumes were more or less injured. In due time our shelves will be replenished with such reading matter as will interest and profit the children.

DONATIONS.

It is with pleasure that we make mention of the generous gifts to the children during the holiday season by the G. A. R. Posts and Women's Relief Corps. The great interest manifested in this substantial way signifies a due regard and affection for this great charity, which is gratifying in the highest degree. It is regretted that a complete list of all the donations and donors can not be reported, some packages having been sent without a name, and in a few instances we failed to record the contribution, but they are all known to Him who rewards the giving of a cup of cold water even to the little child. Upon all we invoke His divine blessing.

NUMBER OF CHILDREN IN THE STATE.

An erroneous impression is often entertained as to the number of soldiers' orphans in the State. One editor, in his issue of August last, employed this language, "Where the soldiers' orphans are coming from and especially to come from in the future, we do not understand, unless we have another war." We have been at some pains to obtain correct information upon this point, and are enabled through the kindness of Hon. Ben D. House, Adjutant General of G. A. R. Department of Indiana, to submit facts and figures worthy of attention. From the official enrollment required by act of the last Legislature, it is shown that at present there are six hundred and seven soldiers' orphans; also eight-five thousand four hundred and sixty-two children of soldiers, under sixteen years of age, any one of whom might, by the death of the father, be entitled to the benefit of the Home. This list embraces only sixty-five counties, and it is but a reasonable supposition that if all the ninety-two counties were fully reported that the number of orphans would reach one thousand, and the number of children one hundred thousand. The following table shows the number of soldiers' children in sixty-five counties:

THE DISCIPLINE.

To secure order and system there must be discipline, but it need not be harsh or cruel. It is believed that gentleness and kindness will accomplish far more in most cases than severity, and our discipline, therefore, is mild but firm. Any misconduct is carefully considered, and if moral suasion will reach the case and remedy the evil the end sought has been accomplished. By the aid of good books and good example, coupled with good advice and an appeal to his pride and better nature, the ordinary boy may be successfully managed and controlled. It is this kind of discipline we employ, and any departure from it is the exception and not the rule. Subordinates are not allowed under any circumstances to administer excessive punishment, and all offenses of a serious character are referred to the Superintendent. The rare instances of this kind is proof conclusive that "It is better far to rule by love than fear."

RECREATIONS.

The children have time for recreation morning, noon and night; also on Saturdays and holidays. They are always allowed the full benefit and pleasure of all national holidays, attending the exercises or services conducted, and invariably are provided at such times with all the delicacies of the season both for dinner and supper. The list of entertainments, published elsewhere, shows the manner in which many hours are happily passed. Privileges are occasionally granted children to visit for a day or two some friend or relative. This practice is not encouraged, however, for the reason that on their return they are discontented for awhile and the peace of the division is thereby disturbed. In favorable weather the children, in companies of twenty or thirty, attended by their governess, take frequent walks to different places of interest, and such freedom is allowed them as the child nature requires. The monotony of institution life is thus relieved as much as possible by these varied seasons of enjoyment.

THE NURSERY.

A frame house, remote from the main building, is occupied for nursery purposes. This removal of the sick from the other inmates affords quiet to the afflicted and prevents the annoyance arising from too frequent calls. The nursery has been made as comfortable as possible, and every precaution is taken to secure the best sanitary results. A new building, with all the modern conveniences for the proper care of the sick, is greatly needed. The house now used was once abandoned as not suitable for occupancy at all, but by repairing, papering, white-washing, and other improvements, it has been made to answer the purpose until the present. Everything has been done that was possible under the circumstances, to make the suffering of the sick bearable, but with increased facilities for bathing and other necessary conveniences, the arduous labor of the nurse would be greatly lightened and the restoration of the sick to health would be far more speedy.

FIRE PROTECTION.

With the Institution in ruins, it needs no argument to prove the necessity of adequate fire protection in the future. The constant menace to the property of the State, and the danger, always present, to the lives of the inmates, because of the possibility of fire at any moment, require the most complete and perfect protection against this destructive element. What shall it be? This question of responsibility, for fire protection, having been duly considered by the Illinois State Commisioners of Public Charities, they submit the following in their seventh biennial report:

"Protection includes:

First. A supply of water, not only ample, but available.

Second. Ample pumping capacity to draw upon the store of water provided.

Third. Inside fire lines, that is, stand pipes and hose so distributed as to admit of throwing water upon any given point inside the building.

Fourth. Outside fire lines, that is, iron pipe under ground running completely around the buildings, with fire plugs at suitable intervals, enabling the engineer to throw water from the outside over the roof.

Fifth. Force pumps, of which there should always be two, so that in case of either breaking down the other will be in reserve for throwing water; and such pumps should be sufficiently powerful to throw four one-inch streams at once from the ground entirely over the building.

Sixth. Chemical fire extinguishers, properly placed for instant use in case of necessity.

Seventh. Fire buckets kept full of water at all times.

Eighth. A fire organization of the employes, and a regular drill, so that when an alarm is given, every man will proceed at once to his post, and know from whom he is to receive his orders, and what particular duty is expected of him.

Ninth. Fire escapes, for the saving of life, as a last resort.

Tenth. The electric fire alarm, for the more prompt notification of peril, when it exists."

THE FARM.

Under the skillful care of Mr. Mike Duane and E. J. Brown, the garden and farm yielded most bounteous supplies. They report as follows:

MATRON'S REPORT.

It is customary to insert in the annual report of these Institutions an itemized statement of goods issued from the store-rooms and of the number and kinds of garments made in the sewing-room during the year, but a number of the Matron's monthly records having been destroyed in the fire, it is not possible to give a satisfactory statement of these items for this year.

SANTA CLAUS'S MISTAKE.

The joy of the children knows no bounds when the curtain rises and discloses to them the snow-clad residence of Santa Claus. A knock at his door brings the old gentleman out, and he dispenses sleds, knives, drums, dolls, dishes, wagons, skates, etc., with a lavish hand. After short speeches from Hon. Ben. L. Smith, Capt. J. H. Harris, Hon. Chas. S. Hubbard and others, Mrs. S. E. Pittman, on behalf of the Williamson Post of Paoli, organizes and equips a military company. To the sound of the "Star Spangled Banner," the children retire from the hall, led by the Williamson Guards.

After the presentation speech by Mrs. Pitman, and a response on behalf of the baby by Judge Smith, followed by some remarks by Captain Harris, Miss Margaret Weakley sings Emmett's "Lullaby." The evening's enjoyment is concluded by the employes in their play, "Jack and the Bean Stalk."

JAMES H. HARRIS,

OCTOBER 31, 1886. Treas. Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To the Superintendent and Board of Trustees of the Indiana Soldiers' Orphans' Home and Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children:

I am pleased to report to you that the year ending October 31, 1886, has been one of comparative good health, considering what, as an institution, we have passed through. Up to the time of the fire the main building and all the surroundings were kept in such good sanitary condition, the new-comers were subjected to such close inspection, that no zymotic or contagious diseases at any time made their appearance, all the sickness up to this time being from constitutional, local and accidental causes, and the simple ailments to which children are liable.

The only death which occurred during the year was from phthisis pulmonalis. The patient was a feeble-minded girl, aged fifteen years, whose generative functions were just being established. She had had on two occasions before her admission to the asylum vicarious hemorrhages from the lungs, following which she developed the disease rapidly. She was in the nursery forty-seven days.

The fire and the changes consequent upon it has been the cause of the majority of the serious sickness of the year. The excellent sanitary condition in which the building and surroundings had been placed is best demonstrated in the fact that the children of the asylum who were kept on the grounds in the old school building, and who have enjoyed the same preventve influences as before the burning of the building, have almost entirely escaped sickness of any kind. The children of the Orphanage, being moved to a more commodious and better adapted building in Knightstown where the sanitary arrangements at first were not perfect, have developed the only miasmatic complaints we have had. It has been the care and work of the Superintendent and Trustees to get the surroundings of this temporary home such as to prevent these influences as far as possible. The health of the children at present exhibits the result of that work.

The nursery, situated quite a distance from the main building, remains in as good condition as it can possibly be made for the reception of our sick, and to the nurse in charge, as well as the lady attendants of the Home, must be attributed no small amount of credit for the successful treatment of the cases coming under our care.

Respectfully submitted.

O. E. HOLLOWAY, Physician.

INDIANA ASYLUM FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN,

KNIGHTSTOWN, IND.

To the Board of Trustees:

Some persons who are not familiar with the design of institutions for the training of feeble-minded children incline to the opinion that the money spent in the education of this defective class is wasted. As a convincing proof that such opinion is erroneous, we point with satisfaction to the living evidences of the success of the patient training afforded those who for the past few years have been permitted to enjoy the benefits of this Asylum. One boy, who came to the institution five years ago, has a history as follows: At the age of eight he entered the public school. It soon became apparent that he was deficient, and after a few months of trial he was withdrawn. The combined influence of lessons beyond his comprehension and the slights and criticisms heaped upon him by bright and active children rendered him timid and irritable. The circumstances of his widowed mother were such that she was obliged to find a place of refuge for him in the Indianapolis Orphan Asylum. In company with the other children connected with that institution, he attended the public school, but after a few months, upon request of the school authorities, he was withdrawn. As a last resort, application for his admission here was made. He was accepted, and, upon reporting, he was at once introduced into the school. Gathering courage from the smiles of the children and the patient kindness of the teacher, he entered into the work with interest, and to-day he reads in the Second Reader, has a knowledge of the addition of numbers, and writes a hand that would be creditable to many bright boys of age. He sings well, and has developed, through careful training, into an easy, graceful gymnast. He is helpful in the care of younger children and is painstaking in any work assigned him. His mother says: "My boy is doing so well in your school that I can never be thankful enough that I sent him there." What would have been the result had this boy been compelled to grow up in idleness and ignorance? He would have dragged out a dreary and miserable childhood —a burden to himself, his friends and the community. His future would hold nothing brighter than his past contained, and finally, with others of the same class, he would have drifted into the poor-house, there to remain an object of public charity until existence should end—a victim of "man's inhumanity to man."

In the Asylum he is passing a busy, happy childhood; he is learning to read and write, and is receiving such instruction and direction as will make him self-reliant and ultimately self-sustaining.

Another case: A girl coming to us at the age of eleven has a record as follows: When eight years old she entered the district school in the neighborhood. To an imperfect articulation was added a slight deafness, the one exciting the mirth of the children and the other the annoyance of the teacher, who, with large classes to bring up, could not, in justice to them, stop for individual training. The consequence was that the child was allowed to stay in school and amuse herself as best she could with slate and pencil. As months passed and the child made no progress, the mother deemed it her duty to put the child where she could receive such attention as her condition demanded. In March, 1883, she was admitted to this Institution, and now, after three years and eight months of training, she reads in the Third Reader, has gained a knowledge of the rules of arithmetic, writes well, sings sweetly, and in the use of the needle is an expert. Her mother says: "My daughter has brightened up so that we hardly realize she is the same dull child we sent to you."

We could cite other cases where progress has been quite as marked, but these will suffice to give some idea of the results attained in this work, that we sometimes hear spoken of in disparaging tones. The question may be asked, "Are there not other cases where little or no improvement is made?" We can safely say there has never been a child admitted here, and kept for any reasonable length of time, that has not been materially benefited. The fact that some have been discharged as non-improvable, must not be taken as proof that there is no hope for their advancement. The law organizing the Asylum provides only for those children who are susceptible to school training—"such as are hardly distinguishable from ordinary children, and yet through some subtle default in functional action of the brain, or other nerve tissue, in their mental expression and moral trait, are imperfect and exceptional." To the lower grades of intellect the Asylum should be opened. Their habits can be corrected, and life thus made happier for them, while to the over-taxed mother and family it would bring a sense of relief and gratitude that some special care and training had been provided for the child whose presence in the household was the source of much anxiety and sorrow. And, then, the question may come up, "Why should the State relieve such households?" Argument will not be necessary when the following family history is written: A boy of seven came to our institution in November, 1882. He could not talk, but seemed to understand simple commands. He was attacked, at short intervals, with great mental excitement, and during these times would jump up and down and jabber in a manner wholly unintelligible. In the following June he was, at the request of his parents, sent home for a short vacation. His teacher being in the neighborhood of their city during this time, she called at their house to make inquiries as to the boy's welfare. On entering at the front door her ears were greeted with excited screams from a back apartment, and on entering this room she saw there the little boy in company with a girl, some years older, whose actions were the same as those of her brother. Upon inquiry, she learned that this girl was the oldest of four children, two of whom were dead, and whose mental condition was the same as that of the two living children. The parents are in ignorance as to the cause of the idiocy of their children, but it is natural to suppose that had the mother been relieved of the care of this first imbecile child, the home would not have been darkened by the presence of three others affected with the same peculiarities and actions. While the little boy did not derive any material benefit from the school training, yet he brightened up and was attentive to habits of cleanliness, and had become quiet and docile. Not being a fit subject for the school-rooms he was returned to his parents, and there to-day he is shut up in the room with his idiot sister waiting for—what? The physical constitution is good. They may outlive their parents, and at last become objects of the State's care. Why not throw the arm of protection about them while there is hope that their condition may be improved, and not delay until the spark of intelligence has wholly died out for want of cultivation, leaving them but little better than animals? If we conclude to provide, then, for these helpless ones, what return may the State expect for the outlay? A provision for these children takes out of communities and families such objects of pity as above cited.

It is told of a certain legislator in one of the Eastern States that he refused his vote to a bill appropriating money for the extension of an asylum for feeble-minded children in his State, asserting that his "town and county had no interest in this thing;" but when he was reminded that a little idiot boy, of violent and destructive habits, who had once lived near him, the terror of his own and his neighbors' children, was at that moment an inmate of the asylum in question, he immediately changed his vote, declaring that his people would sustain him when they knew the facts. The founding, therefore, of these asylums relieves homes and neighborhoods of an influence at once saddening and disturbing. Another and better view of the matter is, as these institutions are organized and the study of this defective class is thereby made possible, it is reasonable to suppose that much valuable knowledge of mental infirmities, their causations and preventatives, may be gained. A table elsewhere showing the causation of idiocy in fifty cases that have been cared for here may be of interest.

A careful study of these matters will lead thinking people to change their manner of living and thereby save from misfortune their innocent offspring. The work commends itself to every man whose heart is warmed by the instincts of mercy and pity for the unfortunates of his race. We are commendably interested in the care and education of bright children, but we must not forget that we owe a sacred duty to those less favored.

Following the example and teachings of Him who during his mission on earth was ever attentive to the weak and helpless, let us go on in this work and let its growth in our State be the exponent of our onward march toward higher civilization and more perfect christianity.

The fire of July 21 made it necessary for us to send a number of children to their homes with the request that, if possible, they be detained there until spring. It may be supposed from the fact that only one hundred and seventy-five children have enjoyed the privileges of this asylum since its organization that the number in the State is probably not large enough to warrant extensive buildings. The census of 1881 shows five thousand imbecile and feeble-minded persons in Indiana, and allowing that a number of these are beyond the age of eighteen, we may safely put the number of feeble-minded children at one thousand. The State has been magnanimous in her provisions for the insane and has justly earned for herself a place in the front ranks with other great States of the Union. The claims of the feeble-minded children of Indiana have not yet been recognized fully, but we trust the time is not far distant when we can point with pride to an institution designed for their care and education, one which will reflect honor upon Indiana's citizens and allow them to keep pace with Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and other States, in this great charity. The limited capacity of the asylum restricted the rules of admission to such an extent that the number rejected has equaled the number admitted.

THE SCHOOLS.

May 28th closed a very successful year in our schools. The advancement made warranted us in the belief that when school should re-open, we would find the children ready to make more rapid progress, and well prepared to take up the new occupations planned for them. The fire interfered with our arrangements to such an extent that at present we have no room for school purposes. In the building destroyed by fire we had three pleasant, well-lighted and well-ventilated school-rooms, well furnished and supplied with needful appliances for the instruction of the different grades in the school. This well-selected apparatus was destroyed, and in taking up the work again an entire new outfit will be needed.

School was held each day during the week, and the programme of work embraced instruction in articulation, spelling, reading, writing, arithmetic and geography. A singing class of twenty voices received instruction each day. Every child in the school participated daily in the calisthenic exercises, and all seemed benefited materially by this health-giving practice. Our hope is that we will soon be enabled to reorganize our schools and carry them on with the same success in the future as has characterized our efforts in the past.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

Each morning before entering the school-room the children all assembled in the hall for devotional exercises.

On Sunday mornings at 9 o'clock they listened to a short talk from the Superintendent, or from one of their teachers. Singing and scriptural recitations followed.

On Sunday afternoons they were divided into three classes, and instructed in the International Lesson.

The attentive interest which these children give to moral instruction has excited much comment from visitors, and has borne such fruit as gives evidence that the word fell not "on stony ground." Sunday-school papers and other interesting reading matter are distributed for their entertainment and instruction.

AMUSEMENTS.

Each national holiday is appropriately observed among these children, and they are given, on such occasions, all the pleasures that table luxuries and unrestrained mirth afford.

The employes entertained them frequently with dramas and tableaux, and on one occasion they enjoyed a magic lantern exhibition. The officers and employes were occasionally entertained by the children with singing, dancing, and the graceful evolutions of dumb-bell, Indian club and ring drills. On one occasion a party was given for the children, refreshments were served, and they were amused by the antics of a masked couple on roller skates. The Christmas entertainment, and an operetta given in March, were both creditable entertainments, and spoke much for the ability of the children in this direction. They attended the Knightstown Fair, and were very kindly treated by the authorities, and returned delighted and profited by all they saw.

OCCUPATIONS.

Some of the girls render valuable assistance in the ironing-room, in the dining-room and in the division-room. Several of them have learned to sew on the machine, and the majority of them can mend and darn with neatness that speaks volumes for the patient direction of the governess as well as for their own perseverance.

A number of the boys have shown themselves very useful on the farm and in the garden, and proven themselves skillful with the hoe and other agricultural implements. Physical labor is quite beneficial to them, serving to employ the mind as well as the body, and is conducive to refreshing sleep and quiet rest at night.

CUSTODIAL DEPARTMENT.

Paralytics and epileptics, constituting so large a class of feeble-minded children, are, under the present law, disqualified for admission. The wisdom of this decision is not called into question, since if only a few can be accommodated it would seem they ought to belong to that class that would derive the greatest benefit and hence should be freest from bodily ailments and imperfections. But the obligation still remains to care for those helpless ones who have been rejected and discharged, and this obligation can only be met by adding to the Asylum, as now organized, a custodial department commensurate with the number and needs of this excluded class. The necessity for such a department becomes more apparent as the number of applications increases, and those of the lower grades now in the Institution approach manhood and womanhood. In reference to this class Dr. F. M. Powell, of Iowa, speaks as follows:

"The adult portion of our great family of defectives continue to present their interests for adjustment. A large per centum fail to possess adequate mental or moral conviction to cope successfully with the realities of life, and are unfortunate in being without the guardianship of kindred ties to direct them. The possibilities connected with such a life are likely to be freighted with crime and degredation, and more especially is this applicable to the unguarded idiotic female. Happily the solution of this question is persistently dawning upon the public. New York has taken the advance step in providing special accommodations for this division. The results have verified the wisdom of the act. The strongest letters of appeal for admission to the Iowa Institution come from parents or guardians who have advanced to that period of life when thoughts of the future welfare of their progeny crowd heavily upon them. The mother, bound down by an imbecile child, is one of the most pitiable objects in the world, for her burdens of helplessness, grief and care must increase rather than diminish with passing years; and to many an aged parent has come and will come the thought: Who will care for and guard my afflicted child in the future? The very thought of a child of this nature being without suitable protection is painful not only to a parent, but to all good citizens. It is not only justice to the individual, but to the commonwealth, that persons thus deprived should have the strong arm of the State to shield and protect them. It is not enough that the State provide temporarily for this division of our unfortunates; it must be a life-school for them, thereby preventing the transmission of infirmities to a still more degraded progeny. Bearing upon this subject, I quote from the report of the Visiting Committee of the Twentieth Iowa General Assembly: 'Your committee are unanimous in the opinion that this Institution should be made perpetual, and so enlarged at the earliest possible date as to accommodate all this unfortunate class. This should be done, not so much upon the theory of charity, as on the ground of public safety. To turn these out upon the world with such fearful possibilities before them, especially that of reproducing their kind, is, in the opinion of the undersigned, not only cruel, but a high crime against the spirit of our laws, both human and divine.'"

We will welcome with joy the day when the Asylum for the care and education of feeble-minded children is no longer regarded unfavorably and spoken of as an experiment, but is assigned a permanent place among the noble charities which in Indiana are encouraged and sustained by a sympathetic and Christian people.

Conclusion.

Having now as briefly as possible stated the condition of these combined institutions, and presented their needs and purposes, attention is directed to the various tables and reports embodied, which will furnish, it is thought, all the necessary details of the different departments represented. It is our desire that a committee be appointed early in the coming session of the Legislature to visit the institution and become thoroughly acquainted with its purposes, its workings and its needs. An intelligent presentation of the matter to the Legislature will, we think, result in an appropriation sufficient to meet all demands. It is with great pleasure that we acknowledge the many courtesies extended us by the Board of Trustees, and gratefully tender our thanks for the wise counsel that has been given. Notwithstanding our calamity and misfortune it is pleasing to know that the divine blessing has attended the humble work performed, and we are thereby encouraged to use greater diligence and zeal in the year to come.

With the earnest hope that unanimity of purpose and harmony of action may prevail to the fullest extent among all connected with these great charities, I now submit to the Honorable Board of Trustees the eighth annual report of the Indiana Soldiers' Orphans' Home and Asylum for Feeble-Minded Children.

Respectfully,

A. H. MORRIS, Superintendent.

MINE INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

KNIGHTSVILLE, IND., December 30, 1886.

To His Excellency, ISAAC P. GRAY,
Governor of Indiana:

SIR—In accordance with the statutes, relative to mines and mining in Indiana, I have the honor to submit the Seventh Annual Report of the Mine Inspector. This report contains the estimated coal production, capital employed, list of fatal and non-fatal accidents, number of scales tested, itemized statement of money used in the transportation of sealed weights, number of persons employed in all mines, the names and addresses of owners and location of all mines that have employed ten or more men, a short description of their general condition and the improvements made, some suggestions for the improvement of the mining laws. This report is for the year ending October 31, 1886. I also hand you herewith a printed copy of amendments that the miners are anxious to have enacted into laws. All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOS. McQUADE,
Inspector of Mines for Indiana.

In my last report complaints were made about being unable to give accurate statements of either the coal tonnage or capital invested in the mines of the State, because I had failed to get answers to printed blanks sent out asking for such information. This year no such blanks were used, as I considered them a bill of expense from which no benefit would be realized. I am therefore placed in the same position regarding the out-put and the increased capital invested in the mines that I was last year, having no information of any value on either subject. The coal trade for this year has been remarkably good except a few months in the summer season. All the mines connected with railroads have been operated to their full capacity. In addition, several new mines have been opened and but few have been abandoned. Add to the fact that Indiana has had fewer strikes and less disturbance of all kinds among her mines this year than ever before, it will then be safe to say that the productions of coal for this year must be greater than any preceding year. I have therefore put the production at 3,000,000 tons, or 25,000 more than was reported last year.

In estimating the capital invested in mines, it is safe to say there is an increase over the amount reported last year of at least $125,000, making the total amount now invested in mines $1,975,000. It was my desire to give the actual amount of money invested in new mines, improvements, etc., in the various counties, and upon inquiry being made, it appeared that the bank bosses (the men the Inspector sees oftener than any one else around the mines) knew nothing and could not give the desired information. In some instances I applied in person to the offices of the coal company, and then owing to the fact that those in possession of such information were not in, I was compelled to estimate with the above result.

ACCIDENTS, FATAL AND NON-FATAL.

Below is given a list of fatal accidents, the total number being seven; one more than the number reported last year. This, if correct, is a remarkably good showing for our State, but I am of the opinion all are not reported. The total number of non-fatal accidents is nine. Total number of fatal and non-fatal, sixteen, as against thirty-two reported last year. In my report last year I was of the opinion that all accidents that had occurred in the State had not been reported to me. I am still of that opinion. It seems that in a State like ours, where so many men are employed in mines, and where the danger is so great, that there certainly must be more accidents. Why they are not reported I can not tell, unless that bank bosses and mine owners, not compelled by law to keep a record of such accidents, either forget their occurrence or willfully neglect to say anything about them. The statutes require the Inspector to report all accidents occurring in the mines. They should also require owners and operators to report such accidents to the Inspector, and upon failing to report such accidents a fine should be imposed; it would in all probability sharpen their recollections and enable the Inspector to give more complete reports of accidents occurring in the State. The accidents here given are all such as are liable to happen to the unfortunate miner at any time, with the exception of Geo. Haurshier, who lost his life while attempting to light a shot after five others had been fired, near the face of entry where he with his father was making a break-through to the air course. The white damp overcame him, and, when taken out, life was extinct. It seemed that the boy had gone to the mine after supper to fire this shot, leaving his father at home without any knowledge of the danger he was in, and the consequence was, he walked to his death, and lost his life. I have repeatedly called the attention of men in charge of mines to the fact that they should not allow men to work in places that are turned beyond the last break-through from an air course to an entry. But it seems whenever there is a good demand for coal, that they crowd men into every available place regardless of whether there is air circulation in them or not, and to the discredit of the miner be it said that they often ask for and insist on being allowed to work in places that they know are ahead of air. To prevent this, there ought to be a stringent law placed upon our statutes which would prevent mine bosses from putting men to work in places that are ahead of air, or allowing them to turn either rooms or entries ahead of the last break-through, made from an entry to an air course. John McCafferty, lost his life by premature explosion of a blast, he was at the time working in No. 4 Mine, owned by the Parke County Coal Company. It appears he intended to fire two shots and had fired one, and returned to light the other, and just as he put his light to the squib and turned to get away from the coal that was liable to fly from the explosion of the powder, the shot went off, the coal striking him about the head and face, knocking him down, where he was found two hours after by friends who went in search of him. Now, I do not hold the company for which this man worked responsible for his death, but I do think the men who worked near him were to blame. Had any one been at hand when the accident happened to render assistance to get him out of the powder-smoke, he would have probably lived; miners should remember their vocation is a dangerous one, and the most careful may be caught at any time. They should be very careful of both themselves and their fellow miners, and never under any circumstances leave one man alone to fire two shots.

Joseph Elliott, who was also killed by a blast, was drilling out the tamping in a hole where powder had been placed with fuse to ignite it, and after igniting the fuse and waiting for a few minutes for the powder to explode he returned, and began drilling out the tamping, when, without a moment's warning, the powder exploded. It appears the fuse had not become extinguished; instead, it had been burning all the time. There must have been a part of it that there was no powder in. Hence the delay in igniting the powder, resulting in Mr. Elliott's death. This kind of accident is hard to avoid. The only prevention I know of is for men never to drill out the tamping until all chances of the fuse still burning have disappeared, and never under any circumstances use an inferior grade of fuse. In England men are prohibited by law from drilliug the tamping out of holes after powder has been put in them and failed from any cause to explode; such a law in Indiana would save life.

SCALES.

Since my last report, forty-six tests of scales have been made. Of this number twenty-four were correct and twenty-two incorrect; of the whole number found incorrect, four weighed against the companies and eighteen against the miners.

Below is given an itemized statement of how the money appropriated by the State Legislature, to defray the expense for transportation of sealed weights used in testing scales, was expended for 1885–86, the total amount being $122.00 and the total number of scales tested seventy-two. I do not advise the further appropriation of money to defray the expenses of carrying weights unless the mining laws are amended. See recommendations to mining laws.

In making suggestions as to what amendments should be made to the laws relative to mines and mining, I again recommend the amendment suggested last year, with some additions. They are:

First.—A permanent place should be fixed by law for the office of the Inspector with a suitable appropriation to furnish such office, to provide it with furniture, books, stationery, etc. Also works of competent authors containing treatises on mines and mining. The mine owners throughout the State should be compelled by law to report all accidents, of any kind, affecting the life or safety of the men employed by them in the mines. They should also be required by law to fill out such blanks as the Inspector might see fit (at the end of each fiscal year or at any other time) to send to them for information. Under the present law, the Inspector is expected to give all the information about mines that are operated in the State that is worth knowing, but no provision is made whereby the Inspector can get such information from the owners or agents of mines, and the consequence is, when the time arrives for him to make his report, he has nothing to compile that report from, except such notes as he may be able to make while on his semi-annual tour of inspection. For this reason the Inspector's reports for Indiana do not contain as much information as they should to make them interesting and sought for by those they should benefit.

Second.—All expenses connected with the office of Inspector should be paid by the State. If this were done, I am of the opinion the Inspector would be better able to carry out the provisions of the mining law. Under the present statutes the Inspector is required to make at least two visits a year to each mine in the State the law applies to. Some of the mines need his attention oftener, but owing to the fact that he has made two visits to the mine he does not return again because the expense connected with the trip comes out of his own pocket. In Ohio there are four Inspectors, one chief Inspector and three assistant Inspectors. Each is paid the same salary that our Inspector gets. In addition to this all traveling expenses of the four are paid. By doing this they are much more serviceable.

Third.—Section 5477 of the Revised Statutes of 1881 provides that no boys under the age of fourteen years be employed to work in any of the mines of this State, but there is no means provided for ascertaining the ages of boys. On my rounds through the mines I frequently see boys at work, who are not, in my opinion, the required age, and when asked, they in almost every instance answer fourteen, and the men they work with will verify their statement. It seems the boys are taught to say fourteen whenever anyone asks them about their age, when in reality they are not more then eleven or twelve years. As a remedy for this growing evil, all men who have boys at work with them should furnish an affidavit from the parents or guardians of the boy, stating the boy's age, and such affidavit or copy of it to be furnished the Inspector when he calls for it.

Fourth.—Section 5480 of the Revised Statutes of 1881, amended by the Acts of March 3, 1883, provides for the testing of scales at the mines, and if found incorrect, notice to be given to the owner or agent of such incorrectness, and after such notice, it is made unlawful for any owner or agent to use or suffer the same to be used until they are adjusted so that they will give the true and correct weight. In trying to enforce this section of the law, I have, in every instance where a scale was found incorrect, given the required notice to either the owner or agent, and, so far as I know, the owner and agents (with one exception) have not used scales after such notice until they were adjusted. But in many instances I have been requested by the miners to return to test a scale that had just been tested a few days before, and complaints have been made to me by responsible men that the scale that had been found to weigh anywhere between fifty and five hundred pounds to the ton, in favor of the company, had not been giving any better satisfaction in the matter of weight after being adjusted by the company. Thus it will be seen that great dissatisfaction exists among the miners about weight. To strengthen the law in this respect, there should be an amendment making the company or individual operating a mine finable whenever the Inspector tests and finds them incorrect. The fines should be made large enough to make it interesting for the individual whose scales are found incorrect, and inspire an earnest desire on the part of the law-breaker to be sure that he had his scales adjusted before they were again used; in addition to this, the weighman employed by either the company or the men to weigh coal should be sworn to weigh all coal honestly, and see that all coal that was dumped into the flat or other instrument of transportation is properly credited to the miner, and that in the event any falls off the flat or wagon, that it is supposed to be weighed upon, that such coal shall be put on again, before any attempt is made to weigh the coal that was last dumped.

Fifth.—That section third of the act of the Fifty-fourth General Assembly, relative to mines and mining, approved March 6, 1885, be amended, making it read as follows: Section 3. The owner, agent, or operator of any coal mine shall keep a sufficient supply of timber at the mine so that the workmen may at all times be able to properly secure the workings from caving in, and the owner, agent, or operator shall select and deliver all props and timber of proper lengths, to the rooms of the workmen when needed and required. If this section was amended as suggested I think that it would tend to advance the security of the man who works under ground, and lessen the danger to which he is continually exposed. In many instances the miner has to quit work on account of timber not being brought to him, after he has selected and told the driver that he needs them badly. It is not always the fault of the driver that the timber is not brought in. In many of the mines now in operation in this State, the coal is hauled a long distance, and there is in mines what the miners call partings (a place where coal cars are changed from one driver to another). In some mines there are two or three of those partings, and although the driver requested to bring in the timber delivers his message to the driver at the parting, who takes his trip of coal, and the timbers may be sent down from the top, yet the man for whom they are intended does not get them on account of them having to change hands so often. The miner has then to go out and again select timber, which has the same routine to go through, and may not reach him the second time. In some of the mines men are not required to select timber. All they have to do is to order them whatever length they are wanted, and if the first order does not reach them, all they have to do is to order a second or third time, if necessary, but they seldom fail to get them the day they are ordered, while under the system of selecting and ordering them they may lose them several days in succession. This amendment to section 3 would not in any way injure the companies, as they might have their timber (in most instances when it was being delivered) put convenient to the mouth of the mines, thus enabling the workman who attends to the timber, to have any length required at hand, without any additional cost to the company.

Sixth.—Section 5 of an act relative to mines and mining, approved March 6, 1885, provides that approved safety catches be put on all cages used for the purpose of hoisting or lowering persons. Quite a number of catches have been put on cages during the year, but some of them are of very little, if any, use. Men who operate mines get the cheapest catches there are in the market, many of which are useless, and would not, in my opinion, prevent a cage from falling in case an accident was to happen and the rope to break. Those men who put such catches on their cages evidently do not care very much for the safety of the men who are in their employ. All they want is to put on something that complies with the law, in form, but not in reality. To make this section of practicable benefit to the miner, it should be so amended that the Inspector may be able to reject any catch that was put on a cage that would not answer the purpose for which the law intended it, namely, a security for those who are compelled to risk their lives daily by riding up and down on cages.

Seventh.—Section 1 of an act passed by the Fifty-fourth General Assembly and approved March 6, 1885, providing for an escape-shaft, should be amended so that operators working mines over two hundred feet deep would not be compelled to put in stairways in escape-shafts where there is an appliance that could be used to hoist men out of the mine in case an accident should happen to the main hoisting shaft. Shafts of this depth often have only an air-shaft in addition to the hoisting shaft, and if compelled to put in a stairway to comply with this section of the law, it would, in many cases, seriously injure the ventilation of the mine, and would not materially benefit the miners for the reason that they would not use this escape-shaft as a means of either ingress or egress, unless in case of an accident, and if, on such occasions, there were other appliances used that could be utilized at any time, such appliance should be all that the law would require for shafts of this depth. Such an amendment should be made in justice to the operator.

Eighth.—Section 5467 of the Revised Statutes of 1881 requires a traveling way cut around the bottom of the shafts, sufficiently high and wide to permit persons passing from one side of the shaft to the other to do so without crossing either under or over the cage. This section should be amended by stating that the entrance to such passageway shall not be more than three yards form the bottom on either side of the shaft. This section of the law is taken advantage of because there is no limit as to distance. In some cases those manways are fifteen yards from either side of the bottom. In such places the cager is expected to cross under the cages when he goes from one side of the shaft to the other. Other men cross under the cages also, who would not if the manway was nearer the bottom of the mine.

Ninth.—The law should prohibit men from turning either rooms or entries ahead of the last break-through made from an air-course to an entry. In most instances where men are at work driving either entry or air-course, there is not any more air at the head or face of such workings than is needed by the men driving such places, and when men are put to work turning rooms beyond the last break-through, they deprive those in the narrow work of the air intended for them. The result is the men in the narrow work often are compelled to quit work on account of not having sufficient air to work upon.

Ventilation by Fan.

In my last report attention was called to the advantage of fan ventilation as against that by furnace. My experience, both as miner and Inspector, is, that economy in costs as well as in results is always on the side of the fan, and it has been my aim to introduce fan ventilation in preference to the furnace wherever it was possible to be done at anything near the first cost of the furnace. In the record of improvements, given elsewhere in this report, it will be seen that fans are rapidly taking the place of furnaces in this State. To such an extent are the fans being adopted that in no instance has a furnace been built where there was steam-power used, in or about the mines, and so satisfactory have the fans proven to those who have adopted them, that a return to the furnace would not be looked upon favorably. The first, and, also, greatest, advantage in the use of a fan lies in the additional security it affords to life in case of accidents in shaft mines.

In trying to enforce an act of the Fifty-fourth General Assembly, relative to escape shafts, I have experienced considerable difficulty with some operators that were ventilating their mines with furnaces. They held that they were complying with the law when they had such an outlet as an air shaft with a furnace at the bottom of it would afford. In such cases I would ask what material they intended to make their stairway out of to withstand the action of heated air constantly passing upward? or, in case of accident, where the only means of escape would be by the air shaft, and where every moment was valuable in saving life, how could men pass up to the surface in safety through the hot and poisonous gases filling the air shaft, where, in nineteen cases out of twenty, the fire in the furnace would have to be drawn before the bottom of the air shaft could be reached? Where a fan is used as a ventilator, no difficulty of this kind can exist. A wooden stairway can be erected in the air shaft, when such shaft is large enough to allow it without being detrimental to the ventilation of the mine, which, not being exposed to the heat of the furnace, can always be kept available, and nothing would stand in the way of reaching, speedily, the outside in case of an accident. The numerous accidents in the past few years in neighboring States are well calculated to bring the matter forcibly to the minds of all parties interested. Where life is at stake, too much care can not be exercised nor too many legislative enactments be thrown around the miner who toils under ground at his dangerous vocation.

In most shafts in this State the hoisting shaft is used for either the inlet or outlet of air: but I notice that operators of mines desire to have the main shaft the outlet or upcast wherever it is possible, so that the air coming up out of the mine will prevent the water (that is always found in a shaft) from freezing, and thereby save the expense of cutting the ice out of the shaft, which freezes along the guides and sides of the shaft to such an extent that it becomes almost impossible in cold weather to run the cages. Where a fan is used it is very easy to make the main shaft the upcast by simply reversing the fan. Where a furnace is used this can not be done, as the air always travels to it and can not be changed at a moment's notice throughout the entire mine the same as air supplied by a fan. In most of the mines of the State that are ventilated by fans the air shafts are located near the main shaft, and the steam to run the fan is turned on from the boilers that create the steam for hoisting coal, thus saving the cost of a boiler to furnish steam for the fan and a man to attend it, making the cost of running a fan very small, leaving the only cost in connection with fan ventilation for mines in the first cost of the fan. This cost is but little in excess of the furnace, as the fan for ventilation of mines is being improved every year, making it more valuable as a ventilator for mines, and at the same time reducing the price for manufacturing. While at work on this report I have been furnished with a price-list of fans made in our own State that puts the fan in reach of every mine owner in the State. With those few remarks in favor of the fan as a ventilator, we will now proceed to discuss a few other subjects before giving a short account of each mine visited.

Among the improvements made since my last report are the following: Safety catches, twenty-one; escape shafts at mines that heretofore had none, eleven; air shafts, four; furnaces, four; fans erected, nine. All of these tend to show that the Inspector has not been idle, and, though he has many things to attend to, the work of improvement has gone steadily on.

NATURAL GAS

Has been found in some of the States east of ours. It has also been discovered in parts of Indiana. In other States it is rapidly taking the place of coal for fuel. In this State it has not been discovered in any place in sufficient quantities to seriously impair coal trade. In different parts of the State companies have been formed for the purpose of searching for this hidden treasure. What the result of their labors may be remains yet to be seen. If a permanent gas supply can be found in Indiana it will add much to the wealth of the State and materially injure the demand for coal.

CONDITION OF TRADE.

As before stated, trade has been remarkably good in Indiana during the past year, with the exception of a few months during the summer season. The demand for coal has never been better than now. So great has it been that many companies were unable to meet the demands made upon them by their customers.

NEW RAILROADS

Completed into Indiana have had much to do with this increased demand for coal. The extension of the C. & I. C. Ry. from Yeddo to Brazil has enabled the coal companies to secure cheaper transportation for their coal into the Chicago markets, and aided them to get a better supply of flat-cars than formerly. The E. & T. H. R. R. built a switch from Farmersburg to New Pittsburg, a distance of ten miles. This switch has opened a new field of coal hitherto undeveloped, which promises to be very extensive. The extension of the I. & E. R. R. from Washington to Worthington, where it was connected with the T. H. & S. E., has given Southern Indiana an opportunity to get into the northern market, such as they never had before. In addition to those mentioned, there are a number of other railroad improvements made in the State of less importance that have aided in making the increased demand.

MINERS

Have also been in good demand, and some of our mine owners were compelled to visit our sister States of Ohio and Illinois in search of men.

STRIKES

Have been few. None of very great importance have taken place anywhere in the State. Of course, the State was not entirely free of them. The only one of any significance was at P. Ehrlich & Co.'s mine, south of Brazil, in Clay County. This one was caused by some of the men being discharged from the employ of the company on account of some petty offense. The men offered to arbitrate all grievances with the company, but they would not listen to the proposition of the men, and a strike was inaugurated, which lasted several weeks. It was finally settled, and all the men allowed to return to work. In my report last year I spoke of strikes and how they are to be deplored. I am still of the same opinion. I say to the operator and miner, avoid strikes. There may be momentary satisfaction gained through them for either of the interested parties, but no practicable benefit. Therefore meet as friends, discuss your grievances, settle your difficulties without recourse to strikes, and in the end all will be benefited.

Mention was made in my last report of the prospects of a settlement on a plan for making yearly prices for mining coal in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and other States. Such a plan was formed at Columbus, Ohio, February 23, 1886. The price for mining Indiana block coal was placed at eighty cents per ton, and the bituminous sixty-five and seventy-five cents per ton. This contract to go into effect May 1, 1886. In many places it was put in force, in others it was not recognized by either operators or men. In the block coal district the men have been governed by this scale, but it has not given very good satisfaction, as there was some disagreement about the hight of coal that was to be paid at the rate of eighty cents per ton. The miners claim that coal four feet and over was to be paid at that price, and coal below that thickness was to be paid additional. The operators do not seem to understand the agreement that way. The consequence is the miners have not worked contented, as much of the coal now being worked in the block coal mines of Clay County is not over three feet thick. They have tried to settle this dispute by arbitration, but all efforts in that direction have failed, and at the last meeting held for the purpose of settling the question, it was referred to the national convention that will convene in Columbus, Ohio, February 1, 1887, when the difficulty will be settled, but whether in favor of the miner or against him no one can foretell. One thing is certain, the miner who mines the low coal is entitled to more pay per ton for it than the miner who mines coal that is four feet and over in thickness. And it is to be hoped that the men who meet at the coming convention will recognize the justice of the miners' claims and award them accordingly.

Before entering upon a short description of the mines, etc., let me say that the mines in every part of the State that have been in operation during the past year have all been undergoing improvements. I do not claim that all are good or up to the requirements of the law, but I know that changes for the better have been made in a great many places, and that the mines in this State are in better working condition than ever before. In some cases it was found necessary to file affidavits against men who made no efforts to comply with the law. In one or two other cases I did not file affidavits because the Prosecuting Attorney could not be found. On the whole, my relations with the operators and miners have been agreeable and pleasant. When first appointed there seemed to be a feeling of dread of the Inspector existing among the miners in parts of the State. This feeling I have tried to dispel, and feel that it is to-day, in a great measure, done away with. To those that so kindly rendered me assistance in divers ways, I return my sincere thanks. To the miners in general I say, always assist the Inspector in the discharge of his duties, for whatever he accomplishes is for your benefit.

We will now consider briefly the location of the various mines, to whom they belong, the improvements made, and what is promised for the future.

CLAY COUNTY.

No. 3 Mine,

Owned by the B. B. Coal Co., located one and a half miles west of Cardonia, was worked out and abandoned January 15, 1886.

No. 5 Mine,

Owned by the B. B. Coal Co., located just west of No. 3. This mine was visited three times. On my first two visits the mine had not sufficient air in circulation for the number of men at work. The doors and breaks through were not given proper attention. In fact the mine seemed to be worked without any system. On my last visit I was pleased to find great improvements, and the work of improvement was still being pushed, a force of men being employed for that purpose.

Abby Mine,

Owned by the B. B. Coal Co., successor of T. Watson & Co., is located one mile west of Cardonia. The tunnel spoken of in my last report is completed, and this company is now taking out coal from the top vein, where the great majority of the men are now at work. This vein is being ventilated by the fan that is used in ventilating the bottom vein. By the use of an air shaft that was put down, near the face of the main entry, the air is allowed to come up through this shaft. When it reaches the top vein it is split and part of it taken on either side of the main entry. And finally it is allowed to return to the bottom of the hoisting shaft. The air is not as good in the top vein as it is in the bottom vein. But the general condition of the mine was fair on my last visit.

Chicago,

Owned by the B. B. Coal Co., located at Carbon. This mine was not worked from January 15 to September 20. There is about 130 men working in the mine at present, and the general condition of the mine is good. During the year they have put safety-catches on their cages.

Morris Mine,

Owned by the B. B. C. Co., located just north of Brazil, was worked out and abandoned August 1.

Bartlett,

Owned by the B. B. C. Co., located one mile north of Brazil. Their dump buildings and engine house were burned down October 9. The company then decided to connect this mine with the Campbell and not rebuild.

Campbell,

Owned by the B. B. C. Co., located three-quarters of a mile north of Brazil. This mine is in fair condition, except that part called Bartlett, which is in reality the Bartlett mine. This part of the works is ventilated by a separate fan from the one used to air the Campbell proper, and is poorly ventilated. The Superintendent of the company has promised to put in a good stairway, in the Bartlett, and use it as an escape shaft for this mine. During the year they have put safety-catches on their cages.

Gartsherie No. 1,

Owned by the B. B. C. Co., successor to Drew & Wasson, located on the north branch of the T. H. & I. R. R., one and a half miles north of Knightsville. After making the improvements that were considered necessary (spoken of in my last report) to give their employes the required amount of air, and finding that they were not sufficient, the air-shaft from the surface was enlarged down to the top vein, and an entirely new one was sunk from there to the bottom vein. The work was not completed on my last visit, but was being pushed, and when completed I think the mine will have plenty of good, pure air. The company put down an escape-shaft during the year. It is accessible from this mine and also Gart. No. 2. They also put safety-catches on their cages.

Gartsherie No. 2,

Owned by the B. B. C. Co., successors to Drew & Wasson, located one mile north of Harmony, on the Harmony Branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. Coal I, or top vein, is almost worked out in this mine, there being only fifteen men at work in it on my last visit, most of those working on pillars. On my last visit I found that although there were two fans used in ventilating this mine the air was very bad. Upon investigation it was found that the engine used in running the fan was not capable of doing the work intended, and that the air courses leading from the other fan were almost filled up with slate. The Bank Boss in charge of the mine promised to have the air courses cleaned, and I have the promise of the Superintendent of the company that the engine will be replaced by one capable of doing the work. There is a good traveling way from this mine into the escape-shaft, which was put down in Gart. No. 1 works. They have put safety-catches on their cages.

Hancock,

Owned by the B. B. C. Co., located three miles south of Knightsville, on the south branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. This mine is almost worked out, there being no coal in places and very bad roof in others; besides there is considerable water. The company put down a water shaft during the year. They expect to abandon the mine about April next. They have also put safety catches on their cages.

Crawford Mine,

Owned by Crawford Coal Co., located one-half mile southwest of Gartsherie No. 1. This company has worked and abandoned the top vein, or Coal I, since my last report. They are now working the bottom vein exclusively, and have a large force of men at work. The air is generally good, although they are bothered at times with damp from an abandoned mine near by; their coal is good, and the general condition of the mine is good.

Star Mine,

Owned by Zeller & Sigler, located one and one-half miles north of Harmony. This mine is almost finished. The company does not expect to operate it after the first of February, 1887. There is just a small force of men at work, and they are drawing pillars, and may finish the mine before the time designated.

Peanut,

Owned by the Knightsville Block Coal Co., successor to Zeller & Sigler, located one-quarter of a mile southwest of Knightsville. This company has driven a tunnel from the bottom vein to the one above, and are now working about twenty men in Coal I. The general condition of the mine is good. Like many others, there are parts of it bad. They have put safety catches on their cages.

Nickel Plate,

Owned by the Jackson Coal and Mining Co., located one and a half miles north of Knightsville, on the north branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. This company is still working the two seams I and J; one is worked at night, the other in day time. They are ventilated by two fans—one for the top vein almost exclusively, while the other is used for ventilating parts of both veins. This is done by forcing the air down to the lower vein first, then letting part of it escape through small air shafts made for the purpose to the top vein. By this means there was too much allowed to go to the top vein, and while it was pretty well ventilated, the men in the bottom vein did not have what the law required. I requested the bank boss to remedy this by not allowing any of the air to go to the top vein while the men in the bottom vein were at work. To do this it was found necessary to make quite a change in the system of ventilation. To make the contemplated change the boss proposes to bring the air to the top vein first, then bring it through a continuous air course past all these air shafts, and then, by means of another air shaft, to drop it down to the bottom vein, at or near the working face of the bottom vein. This plan is to be put in force when the bottom vein men are at work, and when the men are at work in the top vein the air is to be changed and forced to the bottom vein and allowed to come up again through these air shafts spoken of above. This plan, if carried out, will, in my judgment, make the desired improvement, and all parts of the mine will be well ventilated. For some time this company has not had the safety catches that were put on their cages last year in use. I called at the office of the company to ascertain the cause, and found that the catches they had been using were not giving satisfaction, and they had ordered other catches, and would put them on just as soon as they came from the foundry.

Centennial,

Owned by C. B. Reddie, located one and a quarter miles south of Brazil, is without an escape shaft, and proper attention is not given to the ventilation of the mines. Upon waiting on Mr. Reddie, for the purpose of asking him to get his mine up to the requirements of the law, I was told that he could not afford to go to so much expense, and that he would reduce the force of men that he was then employing until his mine did not come under the law.

Phœnix,

Owned P. Ehrlich & Co., located five miles south of Brazil, on the south branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. At this mine the roof is bad, and it falls a great deal in the air courses and stops them up, in some cases almost completely. When I visited this mine last I found that this was one of the greatest difficulties they had to contend with in the ventilation of the mine. Coupled with this is the fact that the mine was opened without any seeming knowledge of how a mine should be opened. The bank boss promised to keep a watchful eye over the air courses and keep them as well cleansed out as possible at all times, and to get the mine into such shape as to work it systematically. There was a traveling way made to the slope, just north of this mine, but it was closed on my last visit so that the men could not travel through it. The boss promised to put men at work immediately to clean it out. They have put safety catches on cages.

South Slope,

Owned by P. Ehrlich & Co., located about two hundred yards north of the Phœnix. This company has erected a new fan, but it is small and will not be adequate for the wants of the mine, if it is worked very extensively. The dump building was burned last year, and it was supposed that they would reopen the mine about January 1 of this year, but they did not resume operations until June.

Newburg,

Owned by P. Ehrlich & Co., located in the town of Newburg. This mine was shut down June 1 and reopened October 1. On my first visit to this mine this year great objection was made to the manner of ventilation, and after some consultation with the Superintendent of the company he agreed to change the current and bring it in near the face of the workings. This was fulfilled, and when I returned again I found they had opened a slope and had made it the inlet, and the men had plenty of pure air, and also a convenient place to go out and in.

Wheeler Mine,

Owned by Gounter & Croasdale, located just east of Newburg, is shut down. There was an air shaft put down at this mine in the spring, and one of the company who was then operating it promised to make some necessary improvements, but do not know whether they were made or not, as the mine was not in operation when I visited it the second time.

Staunton Mine,

Owned by Joseph Somners, located west of Newburg. When this mine was last visited it was found necessary to stop one entry, as it was quite a distance ahead of the air. There were some air courses which needed driving, and the boss promised to drive them immediately.

Burgherville,

Owned by the Gartsherie Coal and Mining Co., successors to Samuel Pryor, located one-half mile west of Newburg, on the line of the T. H. & I. R. R. This mine is now in good working order, the air being good, a nice escape shaft being made, and a safety catch on the cage.

North Mine,

Owned by Benjamin Simpson, located two miles west of Carbon, on the I. & St. L. R. R. On my first visit to this mine I found there was poor air in it. After talking with the bank boss awhile regarding necessary improvements, I went away. When I returned again I found that Mr. Simpson had reduced his force of men so that his mine did not come under the jurisdiction of the mine laws, and since that time he has not increased the number of men worked, but has put safety catches on one of his cages.

Paw-Paw,

Owned by Morgan & Powell, located one-half mile west of Cardonia, on the north branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. This firm has erected a small furnace during the year and are now ventilating with it. The general condition of the mine was fair when last visited.

Litchfield,

Owned by the Coal Bluff Mining Co., located just north of Carbon. The two seams are still being worked at this mine. There have been very few changes made here during the year. On my last visit to this mine I did not find as much air in circulation as there should be. I called at the office of the company and saw the Superintendent and he promised to so repair the fan that it would produce enough air for the number of persons employed. I do not know whether this promise has been fulfilled or not, but have heard no complaints of any kind since my visit. They have put safety catches on their cages.

Vandalia Mine,

Owned by Zeller & Sigler, located one and a quarter miles west of Centerpoint. This shaft was put down some years ago, but never worked any. The two veins, I and J, are worked here. The mine is ventilated by a fan. They have an escape shaft put down, but had no stairway in it when I was there last.

Watson's No. 1,

Owned by Gartsherie Coal & Mining Co., located four miles south of Brazil, on the south branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. This mine was opened October 1. Coal I is being worked. They have put down an escape shaft, but had no stairs in it when visited, but they promised to get them in right away; also, safety catches and covers on their cages. This mine is ventilated by a fan.

Chicago,

Owned by the Jackson Coal Co., located just east of the little town of Benwood, on the north branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. Coal J is worked, The mine is a new one, it being opened in July. It is thirty-seven feet deep. Ventilated by a fan.

Diamond, No. 2,

Owned by Zeller & Sigler, located four miles southeast of Knightsville, on the south branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. The company finished sinking this the latter part of October.

Clay City Shaft,

Owned by the Clay City Block Coal Co., located about half a mile north of Clay City. This mine is a new one, it being opened last September. This shaft is seventy-two feet deep. They had just started on the double partons when I was there.

DAVIESS COUNTY.

Sulphur Springs Mine,

Owned by Cable & Kaufman, located south of Washington one half mile. This mine is being worked out rapidly. They have nearly all the men at work on pillars, and have added all the work of the south branch mine to this one. The mine was visited three times during the year and was always found in fair condition. The greatest difficulty to contend with in the ventilation of this mine is the damp that comes from old and abandoned works that this mine is connected with, that were operated years ago.

South Branch,

Owned by Cable & Kaufman, located one-half mile south of Washington, was connected to the Springs mine, and is thus abandoned.

Eureka,

Owned by Cable & Kaufman, located three-quarters of a mile southeast of Washington. This is an old mine and will be abandoned after this winter.

Maple Valley,

Owned by Cable & Kaufman, located two miles southwest of Washington. This mine is ventiled by a furnace, the main shaft being the down cast; there is a pile of slate-slack and sulphur taken out of the mine. It is just a little southeast of the main shaft, and when the wind comes from that direction it blows directly over the shaft and some of the smoke enters the mine and makes the air very obnoxious. With this exception the ventilation of mine is good.

No. 4 Mine,

Owned by Cable, Kaufman & Co., located two miles south of Washington. This is a new mine; it was opened last year, and upon being visited was short of air, but the company has erected a new fan since then, and it was found on my last visit in good condition. It is worked on the double-entry plan, and there was good air in all parts of the mine, and there is a splendid slope for the men to go out and in by.

Buckeye,

Owned by the Cannel Coal Co., located at Cannelburg, on the line of the O. & M. R. R. At this mine two kinds of coal are worked, one being cannel coal and the other bituminous. This mine was found on both visits to be in pretty good condition. They had no safty catches on their cages, but Mr. Cable promised to put them on at once.

Union No. 1,

Owned by Unity Coal Co., located half mile south of Cannelburg, was shut down and abandoned about March 1, 1886.

Union No. 2,

Owned by the Mutual Mining Co., located just north of No. 1, was reopened by the present company, but is not working very many men. Like the Buckeye, they are working two kinds of coal. At present they are ventilating by natural draft.

Wilson's,

Owned by Cable-Wilson Coal Co., located on the line of the O. & M. R. R. Since my last report the company has begun to operate this mine quite extensively. The coal is three feet six inches high, with a little slate in the center of the coal. The coal bins spoken of in my last report are completed, fourteen in all, each one holding 3,000 bushels of coal; they have also erected a fan. The mine is worked on the double-entry system. The bottom is very soft, and the mine was in good condition when last visited. They are also at work on a slope to be used for an escapement for the men. It will be completed about the middle of September.

DUBOIS COUNTY.

Rosebank Mine,

Owned by J. C. Futes, located three miles north of Huntingburg, on the Air Line Railroad. This mine was not running on my first visit, but on my return I found it running full time and pretty well ventilated.

Baroman's,

Owned by Alexander Baroman, located just east of Huntingburg. On my first visit I found they had no artificial means of ventilation. As a consequence the ventilation was poor; no covers on the cages; neither had they safety catches on nor anything else. The bank-boss promised to erect a fan right away; also, to comply with the law in other respects. I allowed him plenty of time to do this work, and when I returned I found that the erection of a fan was the only improvement. When I asked why the other improvements had not been made, the bank-boss used abusive language. I then filed an affidavit against him for not having safety catches on his cages. The State won the suit.

FOUNTAIN COUNTY.

No. 2,

Owned by Woodruff, Trunkey & Co., located one mile west of Stringtown. This mine was reopened November 1, 1885. During the year they have put down an escape shaft and put safety catches on their cages. The ventilation of the mine is good.

No. 3,

Owned by Woodruff, Trunkey & Co., located half mile west of Stringtown; was abandoned April 1, 1886.

Yeddo Mine,

Owned by H. Porter & Co., located just north of Yeddo; was abandoned January 1, 1886.

McVey's Mine,

Owned by James McVey, located half mile east of Stringtown; was abandoned March 1, 1886, but McVey has opened another mine close to the old one. There is only a few acres of coal where new one is; it can not last long. He intends to ventilate with a small fan used at the old mine.

Bunker No. 2,

Owned by T. Tyly, located one mile west of Stringtown. This mine was abandoned during the month of October, 1886.

Island City No. 1,

Owned by Island Coal Company, located one and a half miles south of Linton, on a branch of the I. & V. R. R. This mine was visited twice, and was found in good condition. The only error was the lack of proper attention to doors and brakes-through. The Superintendent promises to give both more attention in the future.

No. 2 Mine,

Owned by Island City Coal Company, located one-half mile southeast of No. 1; was abandoned June 1, 1886.

Price's Mine,

Owned by Dugger & Neil, located two miles west of Linton. This mine is a new one; was put down in August. They were just beginning the double partons when I was there first. It was put down by another firm and sold afterward to the present owners.

KNOX COUNTY.

Indian Creek Mine,

Owned by Indian Creek Coal Company, located one and a quarter miles south of Bicknell, on a branch of the I. & V. R. R., was visited twice. On my first visit I did not go into the mines, as the machinery was not in running order and there were no men in the mine. On my second visit all things were in splendid condition. They had put safety catches on their cages and a stairway in their air shaft, making a good escape shaft.

White River Mine,

Owned by Wright & Curry, successors to Michael Aitkins & Co., located one mile northwest of Edwardsport. This mine was abandoned by Aitkins & Co. February 1; was reopened by the present company August 6, 1886. They are now working a small force of men. The condition of the mine was fair.

OWEN COUNTY.

Lancaster Mines Nos. 1 and 2,

Owned by the Lancaster Block Coal Co., located three and a half miles northeast of Clay City, on a branch of the T. H. & S. E. R. R. No. 1 was abandoned during the month of April. No. 2 is in good working order. They were at work on my last visit making a traveling way to No. 1, intending to make it the escape-shaft for No. 2. They have put safety-catches on their cages.

PERRY COUNTY.

Sioux No. 1,

Owned by the American Cannel Coal Co., located two and a half miles northeast of Cannelton. On visiting this mine the first time this year, it was found necessary to put in a furnace for the better ventilation of the mine. On returning I found they had sunk an air-shaft and built a furnace, thus making the ventilation good.

Sioux No. 2,

Owned by the American Cannel Coal Co., located just a short distance from No. 1, was found on both visits to be in good condition.

Windy Creek,

Owned by Burgenroth Bros., located one mile up the Ohio River from Troy, was almost finished on my last visit. This company is only working a few men, and they expect to finish it this winter.

PARKE COUNTY.

No. 2,

Owned by the Parke County Coal Co., located at Rosedale. The dump buildings and engine house were destroyed by fire in June. The company did not rebuild, and consequently the mine was abandoned.

No. 3,

Owned by the Parke County Coal Co., located on a branch of the T. H. & I. R. R. This mine was visited twice, and found in fair condition. They had no safety catches on their cages, but promised to have them on by September 29.

No. 4,

Owned by the Parke County Coal Co., located one-half mile from No. 3, was visited twice, and found in good working order.

No. 5,

Owned by the Parke County Coal Co., located near Rosedale, is a new mine, being put down after No. 2 mine was abandoned. This mine is ventilated by a fan. The coal on the north side is mined by hand, on the south side by machinery. This company has no safety catches on any of their mines, but have purchased them, and promised to put them on all their mines within a week after the date of my first visit, but have not heard whether they put them on or not.

Black Diamond,

Owned by Stephens Coal Co., located one mile north of Carbon, on a branch of the I. & St. L. R. R. The fan erected at this mine last year has not given satisfaction, as it could not be run fast enough to ventilate the mine properly. In addition to this, proper attention was not given to breaks-through, doors and air courses, and the mine was on my last visit in very poor condition, but the man in charge had been there only a short time and was doing all he could to better the condition of the mine. I have been informed since my last visit that the mine was in pretty good order and being steadily improved.

Blaine Shaft,

Owned by the Brazil Block Coal Co., located one and a quarter miles northeast of Carbon, on a branch of the I. & St. L. R. R. During the year they have put safety catches on their cages and made an escape shaft, and when last visited was in good condition.

Blaine Slope No. 2,

Owned by the Brazil Block Coal Co., located near Blaine Shaft, was in fair condition when last visited. They were working thirty-five men, with five thousand two hundred cubic feet of air in circulation per minute.

Blaine Slope No. 3,

Owned by the Brazil Block Coal Co., located near No. 2 slope, was opened in June, and is now working twenty-two men. When visited last it was ventilated by natural draft, but the company intends to put in a furnace immediately.

Note.—Batty & Harrison's mine, mentioned in my last report, have not employed the required number of men to come under the mining law, and are not mentioned in this report.

PIKE COUNTY.

Ayershire Mine,

Owned by D. E. Ingle, located about seven miles from Oakland City, on the Air Line R. R. This mine is poorly managed. They ventilate by a fan, but pay very little attention to breaks-through. When visited last was found to be in very bad condition. I intended to return November 1, but had not the time. They have raised their dump buildings and opened a new slope just over the old one. They are now making large quantities of coke. It is of good quality and they find ready sale for all they can make.

Whitman Mine,

Owned by C. Townsend, successor to C. O. Godfrey & Co., located about three miles east of Oakland City, on the Air Line R. R This mine was visited twice and found in good condition.

Hazel Dell Mine,

Owned by Stephen Betaman & Co., located three miles north of Petersburg, on the E. & I. R. R., was improved some during the year, but was still bad when visited last. Mr. Betaman promised to put in a furnace or fan by the first of November, but have not heard whether the promise was fulfilled or not. They have put down a slope during the year, and are now taking coal out of it instead of the shaft.

Rogers' Mine,

Owned by Roger Bros., located about two miles north of Hazel Dell. was poorly ventilated when last visited, and yet they had required returning to what they call a furnace; but this air did not circulate through the mine as it should. This firm has put down a shaft a short distance from the drift now used. When completed they expect to abandon the drift they are now taking coal out of and use the shaft for hoisting coal. They also intend to erect a fan and ventilate with it.

SULLIVAN COUNTY.

Pioneer,

Owned by the Curriesville Coal Co., located one-half mile north of Shelburn, on the E. & T. H. R. R. On both my visits to this mine it was found in pretty good condition. They have put safety catches on their cages, and a stairway in the air shaft to make it answer for an outlet.

Shelburn, No. 1.

Owned by Shelburn Coal Co., located in Shelburn, has not been used for anything except pumping water since it was connected with No. 3 mine last year.

Shelburn, No. 2,

Owned by the Shelburn Coal Co., located a short distance south of No. 1, was found in fair condition. They have put safety catches on their cages. The other mine spoken of in my last report, owned by this company, has not, to my knowledge, worked at any time more than seven men during the year. Bunker Hill Mine, which was also mentioned in my report, has worked on a small scale this year.

Lyonton Mine.

Owned by the Lyonton Coal Co., located on the I. & I. S. R. R., five miles east of Sullivan. It is well ventilated, and during the month of June they put down an escape shaft. On my last visit the general condition was good.

Dugger Mine.

Owned by Dugger & Neil, located on the line of the I. & I. S. R. R. This mine is well managed, and has always been found in fair condition. During the year this company has put down an escape shaft, and raised their dump buildings two feet higher.

New Pittsburg Mine.

Owned by the Pittsburg Coal and Coke Co. This company has opened two new drifts, ten miles southeast of Farmersburg. They are ventilated by furnaces. The average hight of the coal is six feet, of a soft nature. The roof is good and free from trouble. The company has built a number of houses and a store near the works. The coal is shipped by rail, the E. & T. H. having built a switch from Farmersburg out to the mines.

Carlisle Mine.

Owned by Carlisle Coal Co., located north of Carlisle, was put down during the year. They have not commenced active operations yet, as they have just completed sinking.

VIGO COUNTY.

Fountain No. 1.

Owned by Coal Bluff Mining Co., located at Fontanet, on the line of the I. & St. L. R. R. This mine has been worked on a small scale during the summer months, there being only enough men at work to supply the engines with coal, that stopped at Fontanet, and it was the intention of the company to abandon it altogether. But since the fall trade began they have put more men to work, and on my last visit they were working about thirty-two men, and had connected this mine with No. 2; both mines are ventilated by one fan; they have put safety-catches on their cages.

Fountain No. 2,

Owned by Coal Bluff Mining Co., located about one-half mile northwest of No. 1. There are about one hundred men at work in this mine. The coal is mined by machinery. It is ventilated by the fan at No. 1. They have put safety catches on their cages.

South Mine,

Owned by Edgar Coal Co., located one-half mile southwest of Coal Bluff, on a switch extending from the I. & St. L. R. R., was visited three times during the year, and found on each visit in fair condition. There is a splendid fan here. There was some complaint made to me about doors being left open, but the boss promised me it should not occur again, and I have heard no more complaints since.

Seeleyville Mine,

Owned by P. Ehrlich & Co., located at Seeleyville, on the T. H. & I. R. R. The ventilation is good. Complaints were made to me about safety catches not being on the cages. Since then they have put on safety catches and everything is in good condition.

Kay's Mine,

Owned by Coal Bluff Mining Co., successor to Kay, Lang & Co. The present company got control of this mine November 1, 1885, and since that time operated it. The ventilation is not good; but the bank-boss promised me on my last visit to put in a new furnace.

Eppart Mine,

Owned by the Coal Bluff Mining Co., successors to W. Eppart, located about half a mile from Kay's, was reopened October 28, 1886. The general condition of the mine is poor. They promised to put in a furnace.

Union Mine,

Owned by the Co-operative Coal Co., located one-half mile southeast of Fontanet, was shut down May 1, 1886, reopened August 1, 1886, was shut down again after running two weeks and is now idle.

VERMILLION COUNTY.

Hazel Bluff,

Owned by Sherkey Coal Co., located one-half mile northwest of Clinton. After completing their air shaft last year they erected a furnace. On both my visits this year I found plenty of air in circulation, but in the south entry the ventilation was poor on account of the air not being distributed right. The men in this entry were troubled with black damp (carbonic acid gas). The attention of the boss was called to this, and he promised to give it his immediate attention.

Norton Creek Mine,

Owned by the Norton Creek Coal Co., located three miles northwest of Clinton, on a switch built from the C. & E. I. R. R. The old mine was not in operation the day I last visited it; neither was the furnace fire built, but I went through the workings of the mine and found them in good condition. They have opened a small drift near the old one and the coal from both mines is dumped over one tipple. The small drift is ventilated by a furnace. They were opening a new mine about a quarter of mile from the old one, but I do not know whether it is in operation or not.

VANDERBURGH COUNTY.

Ingleside Mine,

Owned by John Ingle & Co., located on the banks of the Ohio River just west of the city of Evansville. The condition of this mine is good; a large quantity of air is in circulation, but is not as pure as the air in new mines where there are no old workings to contend with. This mine has been in operation for twenty-five years. They have black damp to contend with. They have put safety catches on their cages.

Sunnyside,

Owned by the Sunnyside Coal and Coke Company, successors to the Evansville Coal and Mining Company, located northwest of the city of Evansville. The mine was found in good condition on both my visits.

Unity Mine,

Owned by the Unity Coal Company, located north of the city of Evansville, on the P., D. & E. R. R. The company put in a new exhaust fan at the bottom of the hoisting shaft, and it works splendid. This mine was, on my last visit, one of the best ventilated mines in the State. They have put safety catches on one of their cages, and the bank boss promises to put down an escape shaft soon as possible.

First Avenue,

Owned by the First Avenue Coal Company, located north of the city of Evansville. This mine has been improved during the year. On my last visit I found it in better condition than on any previous visit. They put safety catches on their cages.

Echo Mine,

Owned by the Diamond Coal Company, successors to the Echo Coal and Mining Company, located northeast of the city of Evansville, was found in very bad condition. After considerable delay I succeeded in getting the company to sink an air and escape shaft. It was not completed on my last vist, but they were pushing the work ahead quickly as possible. When completed they will erect a fan over the shaft. This will greatly improve the condition of the mine.

The mine the Bill Road Coal Company started to sink was abandoned on account of it being both difficult and costly to sink through the quicksand, which is sixty feet thick where they started to sink.

WARRICK COUNTY.

Star No. 2,

Owned by Lore & Augle, located one mile up the Ohio River from Newburg, was visited once. The mine was not in operation that day. I left intending to call again when it would be in operation; but the owners met with an accident, while rowing a boat, in which both were drowned. Since then the mine has been idle: hence by absence from it.

Chandlier Mine,

Owned by Menden & Hall, successors to M. M. Freed, located on the line of the L., E. & St. L. R. R., six miles southwest of Boonville, has been reopened after being idle since January 1, 1886. There is very little change since last year in the condition of this mine. The ventilation is good, but they have no escape shaft. One of the owners, Mr. Cox, promised to put down an escape shaft, and to put safety-catches on the cages. He was to let me know when this was done, but I have never heard from him since the promise was made.

No. 3,

Owned by Robert Lowder, successor to M. M. Freed, located one-half mile northeast of Chandlier, on the L., E. & St. L. R. R., was shut down during the winter It was reopened by Mr. Louder in the latter part of October. I am unable to give any account of that mine, as it was not in operation on any of my visits.

De Forest,

Owned by Bettram Menden, located one-half mile east of No. 3, on the L., E. & St. L. R. R., was reopened in November, 1885, and operated until June of this year, and was again shut down; was visited a short time before it was stopped, and found in poor condition; in fact there "was" no air in the mine; I went to the owner, who lives in Evansville. He promised to make all the necessary improvements upon returning. The mine was shut down and has not been reopened to my knowledge.

Boonville,

Owned by Robert Goff, located one-half mile east of Boonville, on the L., E. & St. L. R. R., has very little air in circulation, is worked on a small scale, the coal is close to the surface, and Mr. Goff prefers sinking a hole down to the coal for air in preference to a fan or furnace.

Fuller Mine,

Owned by Robert Louder, located east of Boonville half mile. This mine was opened some years ago, but never worked to any extent. The present owner expects to develop the mine: ventilated by a jet at present. He intends putting up a fan.

Below is given tables showing the number of men that work in mines; also the number of mines in each county. The increase or decrease of either men or mines is caused by the opening or abandoning of the large mines. There is some changes in the small mines, but not enough to make any change in the general result, some being abandoned and some being opened in almost every county, leaving the number of small mines about the same, and the number of men working in them about the same as last year:

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE MINING LAWS.

Drafted by the Committees Appointed by the Knights of Labor and Federated Association of Miners and Mine Laborers of the State of Indiana, and Recommended to the General Assembly of the State for Enactment.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That any person who, or a firm, company or corporation which issues or circulates any scrip, token, check, draft or certificate of indebtedness, payable otherwise than in money, or designed, intended, or calculated, or used as money, or in lieu of the lawful money of the United States, or pays the wages in goods or supplies through the intervention of scrip or any other evidence of indebtedness, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars nor less than five hundred dollars, at the discretion of the court, and in default of payment of such fine and costs for the space of ten days the defendant shall be sentenced to imprisonment not more than one year nor less than six months in the county jail.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That section 2 of an act entitled "An act providing the means for securing the health and safety of persons employed in coal mines," and approved March 6, 1885, be amended to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Break-throughs or airways shall be made in every room at least every forty-eight feet, and all break-throughs or airways, except those last made near the working faces of the mine, shall be closed up and made air-tight by brattice, trap-doors or otherwise. The doors used on hauling roads, in assisting or directing the ventilation of the mine, shall be attended to in working hours by trappers, so that they can not be left standing opened, nor shall any driver or other person by prop or otherwise cause the same to stand open. Double entries shall be driven properly adjoining each other and as near parallel thereto as possible, with nine feet of a pillar left between them to secure the roof from falling on account of weight of the superincumbent strata forming the roof over the coal seam. Break-throughs shall be made every forty-eight feet between entries.

That section 3, of the act of the Fifty-fourth General Assembly, relative to miners and mining, approved March 6, 1885, be amended by striking out the words "when selected," making the section read as follows: Section 3. The owner, agent or operator of any coal mine shall keep a sufficient supply of timber at the mine, and that the agent, owner or operator shall deliver all props, caps and timbers of proper lengths to the rooms of the workmen when needed and required, so that the workmen may at all times be able to properly secure the workings from caving in.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That wherever two-thirds of the miners of a mine determine to place a check-weighman on the tipple the one-third be compelled to pay their quota, and the same can be collected as per workman wages law.

That the mining laws of the State of Indiana be printed on one sheet and one side of good, strong paper, and delivered by Mine Inspector to owner, agent or operator of all mines coming under the jurisdiction of the mine law, and they shall frame and place the same inside glass, hanging them in a conspicuous place at the mine so that all persons employed in and around the mine may be conversant with the law.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That all owners, agents or operators of any coal mine shall pay their employes all the wages due and payable every week after the week in which the work was done, and all payments shall be made on Saturday, in the lawful money of the United States.

Sec. 2. Any owners, agents or operators of any coal mine violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars per day until payments be made. Said fine shall go into the school fund of the county in which the violation is made.

Sec. 3. All acts or parts of acts supplied or inconsistent herewith, in the mining law, are hereby repealed.

Amended: That Section 5480 of the Revised Statutes of 1881, and amended by the act of March 3, 1883, be so amended by striking out the words from and after the word "appropriated" to the word "used," inclusive, and insert: That on the scales being tested by the Mine Inspector and found incorrect that each owner, agent or operator whose scales are found incorrect, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in the sum of not less than one hundred dollars and not more than five hundred dollars, at the discretion of the Court. Upon the inspection being made and the scales found incorrect the Mine Inspector shall at once institute suit. Any mine scales in use and found incorrect, the owner, agent or operator shall be fined for any day or part of a day not more than one hundred dollars or less than twenty-five dollars they dump coal before the scales are adjusted.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana:

Section 1. That it shall be the duty of the Mine Inspector to examine all places defined in the mining law of the State of Indiana and see that a sufficient supply of air is passing through break-throughs in rooms and entries.

Sec. 2. That the downcast or ingress of air for the ventilation of mines shall be conducted on the latest scientific principles from the mouth of the downcast shaft or slope to that part of the mine in actual working operation, and there shall be a sufficient amount of air pass through the nearest break-through to the working faces of mine room and entry. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

Sec. 3. That it shall be the duty of owner, agent or operator to furnish all information to Mine Inspector, according to section 5476, R. S., approved May 1, 1879, so that he can fulfill the requirements of his office. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

Sec. 4. That it shall be the duty of the retiring Mine Inspector to turn over to his successor all records, statistics, papers and reports connected with the office in order that they may be preserved.

SEC. 5. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, That any person, firm, company or corporation in operating coal works shall not run his or their mine or mines, or allow any agent or lessee to run it more than eight hours in the twenty-four for a day's work, the same to constitute a day's work for all employed in and around the mine or mines. Any person, firm, company or corporation violating this act or part thereof, shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and in default of payment ten days after the decision of the Court to be incarcerated in the county jail not less than six months nor more than twelve months.

WHEREAS, An emergency exists for the immediate taking effect of these acts, the same shall be in force from and after their passage.

REPORT

THE STATE OF INDIANA,

Examined by the Governor, and transmitted to the Secretary of State for publication upon the order of the Board of Commissioners of Public Printing and Binding.

OF

A. HAGEN,

INSPECTOR OF OILS FOR THE STATE OF INDIANA,

FOR THE

YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1886.

To His Excellency, ISAAC P. GRAY,
Governor of Indiana:

In accordance with section 5154 of the Revised Statutes of 1881, making it my duty to make a report of all illuminating oils inspected by myself and deputies, I hereby submit the same.

This report will show an increase over former years in the amount of oils inspected and approved, and a decrease from last year of amount of oils rejected. I have made it one of my duties to inquire into the causes of fires, and damages, claimed to have been occasioned by coal oil. By a careful investigation I invariably found a neglect in the proper care of handling the oil, or faulty lamps, burners or wicks, only in one case I found where the explosion was caused by the mixture of coal oil and benzine or gasoline. Most fires and damages caused by products of petroleum were caused by gasoline, and as the use of gasoline is taking greater proportions every year, accidents, damages, losses of life and property will increase with the consumption of the same. Therefore, it would be desirable for the safety of the general public for the next General Assembly to pass such laws to protect the public from the sale and use of low grades of gasoline. Gasoline is very dangerous under all circumstances, and only the best grades should be allowed for sale for heating or illuminating purposes.

Rejected Oils.—Within this year there were rejected in this State 695 barrels of oil. Of all this rejected oil none was positively explosive or dangerous for illuminating purposes, but it would not pass the standard required by our State laws. The same oils would have passed the inspection of all other States where there is any legislation regulating the sale and use of petroleum oils, except Michigan; and such legislation exists in thirty States of the Union.

The best authorities on petroleum and its products, viz.: Prof. S. F. Peckham, Dr. C. F. Chandler, of N. Y., and others, agree that the highest flash test is not always the best and safest oil; but that an oil that flashes at a temperature equivalent to 100° to 110° Fahrenheit, in an open tester, is satisfactory to insure public safety. If our next Legislature could find time to hear testimony in this matter I think the law regulating the test of coal oil could be changed so that the public would not only get equally as good and perhaps better illuminating oil than they have at present, but would get the same more uniform and at less prices, and by adopting a test similar to that adopted by the States of Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania and other Eastern States, would benefit the dealer as well as the consumer.

To make the law regulating the sale and use of petroleum more effective, it would be necessary for the next Legislature to amend the present law so that the Inspector, or his deputy, is authorized to enter premises where coal oil or any product of petroleum, coming under the regulations of this law, is kept or stored, and demand samples of oils or gasoline for inspection; also, to make it unlawful and punishable for any person dealing in coal oil and gasoline to mark, brand, or label any barrel or package containing coal oil for illuminating purposes, or gasoline for heating or illuminating purposes, with grades or qualities of oil or gasoline which are false or fictitious, and which the barrel or package does not contain. It would also be desirous and to the interest of the public and the trade to reduce the bond of Deputy Inspectors from $5,000 to $1,000 or $1,500. Under the present high bond, and with the expense of buying the necessary instruments, it is very difficult to get deputies in localities where the consumption of oil is small and consequently the fees proportionately small; and to those localities the unscrupulous dealers will send their inferior oils.

The whole amount of oil for illuminating purposes inspected was 136,331 barrels, of which 695 barrels were rejected. Total amount of fees, $10,970.55, of which myself, as State Inspector, received $3,441.40, which leaves, after deducting $734.45 office expenses, $2,706.95.

Following find statement of inspection by myself and deputies; also statistical statement of oil inspected in the different months.

Respectfully submitted.

A. HAGEN,

JANUARY 1, 1887. State Inspector.

MANAGERS' REPORT.

INDIANAPOLIS, November 1, 1886.

To his Excellency, ISAAC P. GRAY,
Governor of the State:

We, the Board of Managers of the Indiana Reformatory Institution for Women and Girls, have the honor to present to you our annual report for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886.

We also transmit herewith, for detailed and specific information, the reports of the Superintendent, Secretary and Physician.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE BOARD.

The Board of Managers is composed of Eliza C. Hendricks, Claire A. Walker, and Martha M. James. No change has occurred since the last report: Mrs. Hendricks has continued to act as President.

The stated meetings of the Board have been held at the Institution each month, and the business requiring attention has been carefully transacted. Special meetings have been held when necessary.

OFFICERS AND EMPLOYES.

During the past year some changes have occurred among the officers. After consultation and with your approval, the Board appointed Miss Sarah F. Keely to be Superintendent. Miss Keely assumed the duties of her position March 13, 1886.

Mrs. Elmina L. Johnson was appointed Assistant Superintendent, succeeding Mrs. Emma A. Winsor.

Miss Margaretta S. Elder was appointed Secretary and Bookkeeper, succeeding Miss Anna Dunlop.

The office of Supply, or Reserve Officer has been created during the past year, the position being filled by Mrs. Anna E. Gadd, who accepted the position October 13, 1886.

It was deemed advisable by the Board to make this, as far as possible, practically, as well as in name, a woman's institution, and in accordance with this idea, Miss Lou Richards was appointed to the place occupied by Robert Petrie, as Laundry Collector, Day Watch, etc. The experiment, which did not prove successful in all its results, was abandoned after a few months' trial. Robert Petrie was returned and Miss Richards was, for a time, employed in other departments.

Our new departure, in appointing a female attending physician, has proved most satisfactory.

The highest number of resident officers connected with the immediate supervision of the Institution has been eleven. There are three non-resident employes. The Secretary and Physician are also non-resident.

PENAL DEPARTMENT.

There are now, October 31, 1886, fifty-four convicts in this Department. During the year twenty-nine have been received and eighteen have been discharged upon expiration of their sentence. One has been pardoned, and one has died. Of the twenty-nine received four were re-commitments: one upon a fifth conviction.

We continue to credit convicts with "good time," as provided by law, discharging according to the provisions of the same.

REFORMATORY DEPARTMENT.

There are in this Department, October 31, 1886, one hundred and twenty-nine girls. During the year thirty-eight have been received, thirteen have been discharged, thirty-four have been released on tickets-of-leave, and three have died.

In this Department from seven to eight hours of each day are devoted to such work as we think suitable to the girls—seven to schools, five to meals and religious exercises, and ten to dormitories.

In both Departments practical work is required of all the inmates, according to age and strength. Without employment it would be difficult to maintain discipline or to promote improvement. This labor is not found to be of much profit, but its chief value is in promoting cheerfulness, happiness and reformation. It is enforced with firmness, accompanied with kindness and justice, and, as far as in our power, with an absence of partiality or favoritism.

We desire to call your special attention to the idiotic and epileptic. This is not the place for them, and we have not been able to determine what provision should be made for these unfortunate ones.

SCHOOL.

The schools, as prescribed in Section 38 of the act governing the Institution (R. S. 6198), were kept up throughout the year in the Reformatory Department, except during the heated term. The sessions were then suspended, and the girls were sent to the caning and sewing rooms, to the laundry, and to assist in garden-making.

HEALTH.

During the year the health of the inmates has been good. Only four deaths have occurred.

Our facilities for caring for the sick are very limited, the rooms in the Reformatory used for hospital purposes being small, illy adapted, and not shut off from the rest of the house. We have no room in the Penal Department which we can set aside solely, for hospital uses. Any contagion might become an epidemic.

An external, separate building, for hospital purposes, is one of the great needs of the Institution.

The report of the Physician will give extended particulars of the health of the inmates during the year.

INDUSTRIES.

We have received during the year, from work of inmates, $2,756.25, and have expended for material $2,153.84. Net earnings, up to October 31, $602.41, have been paid into the State Treasury, together with board of one United States prisoner, $156.40. Total, $758.81.

EXPENDITURES.

The expenditures, including salaries, repairs, improvements and discharge gratuities, amounted to $30,000.00, the sum of the General Appropriation. We refer you to the financial tables given by the Secretary for items.

The following indicates the receipts and expenditures:

Total amount drawn from State Treasury		$30,000 00
Deduct amount expended in building and repairs		4,394 54
Leaving cost of support, salaries, etc		$25,605 46
Deduct from this amount—
Paid into State Treasury	$602 41
Amount due from counties, and reported to State Treasurer	8,545 11
Total		9,147 52
Leaving the total charges of the Institution on the State Treasury, for clothing, support, and care of the inmates, for the year		$16,457 94

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

A number of improvements and repairs have been made during the year, the most extensive of which have been a new brick stable, at a cost of $1,600; four punishment cells, $774.53, and a new hall-way in the building, $230.

Two new stove rooms, adjoining the laundries, have also been built. See itemized account, "Working Fund."

FIRE PROTECTION.

We have had the Chief Fire Engineer again make a thorough and careful examination as to our defenses against fire. At his suggestion we have had additional stand-pipes, with hose boxes, erected in the building, with 550 feet of hose constantly attached and connected directly with the city water. The Engineer assures us that we are now exceptionally well protected against fire.

NEEDS.

The special needs of this Institution are a hospital and a chapel. These have become a necessity, not only for sanitary purposes, but because the rooms in the building now used for these are required for other purposes.

A high brick wall around the grounds, for self-protection from depraved characters, who entice our inmates to do wrong and assist them in escaping, and to prevent escapes, is also needed.

An estimate of the cost of a hospital has been made, and the amount required will not vary far from $5,000.

We are indebted to Your Excellency for the continued interest and support shown us through the year.

Respectfully submitted.

ELIZA C. HENDRICKS, CLAIRE A. WALKER,
MARTHA M. JAMES.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

INDIANA REFORMATORY INSTITUTION FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS,
SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, October 31, 1886.

MESDAMES ELIZA C. HENDRICKS, CLAIRE A. WALKER, AND MARTHA M. JAMES, Managers:

In accordance with the requirements of your rules, the Fifteenth Annual Report of this Institution is herewith respectfully submitted.

Unlike all other institutions, we have two departments—the Reformatory, for wayward girls, and the Reformatory Prison, for criminally convicted women.

The year began with Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Superintendent, the management not coming under my direction until the 13th day of March, 1886.

The statistical tables and financial exhibits will fully show you the operations of the Institution during the entire year, as well as its present condition.

The work in each department has been mainly in the lines marked out by my predecessors. But few new rules have been made. Those already in existence have been enforced.

No material changes have been made in the labor of the Institution during the year. The same industries have been carried on with perhaps greater satisfaction in regard to both quantity and quality of work.

A higher standard in discipline is being reached. Regularity in the enforcement of wholesome rules, a conscientious impartiality in the treatment of inmates, firmness in adhering to the right, and the just punishment of the wrong doers, is having a salutary effect upon the entire household.

The temporal, moral and religious interests of each inmate is carefully considered. Reformatory measures are always used to win back to right-doing the erring one. When these fail, solitary confinement, with a moderate allowance of bread and water, becomes necessary.

Moral and religious exercises are held each morning and evening, Sabbath school and religious services each Sabbath, and often during the week revival meetings are held. Our religious services are not sectarian, but are participated in by ministers, laymen and Christian women of all denominations.

REFORMATORY DEPARTMENT.

Each girl is required to attend school one-half of each day. Reading, writing, spelling, mental and practical arithmetic are regularly taught. Oral instructions are also given in geography, physiology and grammar. Our girls are also taught to wash and iron, mend, darn, knit and sew; also to cut and fit their own garments. They cook, milk, cane chairs, paint, paper and whitewash, help make the garden, attend to the flowers, and keep the yard clean, harness and drive horses, wash the vehicles, and, in fact, have the privilege of learning all that comes into practical, every-day life. Under this careful training some develop into trusty girls, and return to their own friends, or go out into other homes thankful for the shelter and the shielding of this home; but others walk over all these privileges into lives of indifference, shame and disgrace.

Time for play and both out and indoor exercise is given, but we still lack in sufficient and suitable rooms for play and recreation.

We endeavor to make all our surroundings home-like, our discipline firm but kind, and constantly urge the practice of obedience to law and duty, until its observance becomes a fixed principle.

TICKET-OF-LEAVE.

Good homes in private families are constantly being offered these girls, and as soon as they are fitted for work, and can be trusted out in the world, they are sent out on ticket-of-leave, but they remain under the supervision of the Institution until they become of age. Each girl is furnished with a good outfit when she leaves the Institution, and all money earned by her is placed to her own credit. She is required to keep a strict account of all expenses while out and render the same to the Superintendent. To be returned to the Institution after having been trusted out, because of imperfections or wrong-doing, is considered a disgrace by all.

During the year thirty-four have been granted ticket-of-leave; of these seventeen have been returned to their own friends, and seventeen to homes provided for them; four have been returned because of incompetency, and one came back of her own accord.

DIED.

But one death has occurred in the home during the year. Two, out on ticket-of-leave, have passed away, and one who was discharged in July, being of age, was so fearfully burned, by accident, the following September, that she died the next day.

INDUSTRIES IN THE REFORMATORY.

Cane-seating and laundry work are the only industries carried on outside the various household departments. We have continued cane-seating for Central Chair Caning Co. Several of the girls take charge in turn of the caning-room, receiving and returning the work, keeping the daily record of work done, and teaching new girls. For this they are remunerated. Over twenty city washings, besides the household clothing, are done each week in this laundry. The knitting of lace and tidies is also added to this department.

PENAL DEPARTMENT.

Here we have eleven life prisoners, and forty-three others in for various crimes and for length of time from one to six and twelve years. But one has been pardoned by the Governor. Eighteen have gone out by expiration of sentence. Fifty-four remain at this time.

INDUSTRIES IN PENAL DEPARTMENT.

The laundry work has greatly increased in quality, fewer articles are lost or destroyed, and a greater disposition to please is seen.

The making of overalls for Messrs. C. B. Cones, Son & Co., has been continued; also the contract with Messrs. Gallahue & Myers, Stocking Manufacturers, to seam up toes and heels of stockings. An order is now being filled for three hundred cotton mattresses for the "Reform School for Boys," at Plainfield. A dress making department has been opened and family sewing of all kinds is now done. Knitting in fancy and plain stiches, laces, mittens, hoods or caps, embroidering and crocheting fill up the hours for rest.

HEALTH.

Two deaths have occurred during the year, one from typhoid fever, and one a child three weeks old, diseased from birth. The general health has been good considering all things; no local causes for disease have been found. (For sanitary conditions of the house see Physician's report.)

EXPENDITURES.

Every precaution has been taken to prevent waste and destruction of property. Economy has been practiced in all purchases, good and wholesome grades of food have been selected, while the health and comfort of the inmates have been carefully considered. In sickness the best of care and nourishing food are given and the purest medicines administered.

LIBRARY.

Our library is not what it ought to be, and there is quite a demand for new books. Those we have are highly appreciated and often read, and we hope to see many new ones added to our list during the coming year. As we eradicate the evil within we must provide something better to fill up the vacuum.

FIRE PROTECTION.

Additional precautions have been taken against fire. Two new water mains have been placed in the basement, with hose attached, ready for instant use. Five hundred feet of the best linen hose has been purchased, and this, added to that already in use, gives us a protection surpassed by no other institution.

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The old stable has been replaced by a new one of brick, just north of the main building. A stove room has been built to each laundry, thus adding to the safety of the building. The penal bath and closet room has been removed to a more convenient place in the basement; four new punishment rooms have been built in the west end of Penal Court Yard. A hallway has been opened on the second floor between the front and back part of the building. A new water tank has been placed in the attic; two flood gates for the stream of water running through the pasture, besides some needed improvements in the engine-house. The usual amount of plumbing has been necessary as in other years. The sinks in Reformatory and Penal kitchens have been repaired, new waste pipes have been laid from the former; water pipes carried from the engine-house to the stable; heating and gas pipes into the new cells, besides the necessary draining caused by the removal of the water tank and closet-room.

The children's play and reading room has been nicely fitted up and presents a much more attractive and home-like appearance than formerly. New furnishings have been added when and where needed, and every possible effort has been made to make this Institution, in all of its departments, an honor to our State.

GARDEN, ETC.

The stock is in a healthy condition; the garden, under the careful work of a prisoner and our girls, yielded us a large quantity of vegetables.

HOLIDAYS.

National holidays are hailed by all with delight. Upon these days boxes of eatables and gifts of any kind are allowed to be received by the inmates. Extra provision is also made for the tables, work is suspended and a general indulgence in favorite games and innocent sports or quiet rest, as the choice may be. Appropriate addresses and suitable music also add to the instruction and enjoyment of these days.

"Flower Mission Day," with its bouquets of flowers and cheering, comforting words will ever be remembered, with thanks to the "Women's Christian Temperance Union." The gratuitous entertainments so kindly given by our many friends will never be forgotten.

WHAT WE NEED.

A hospital building has grown to be a necessity. A chapel upon the ground floor is also one of our pressing wants, the rooms now used for these purposes being greatly needed to relieve our overcrowded prison dormitories. The indiscriminate massing together of depraved natures is an evil which can only be remedied by giving to each inmate a separate sleeping apartment.

A brick wall surrounding our grounds would be an advantage in many ways. Additional play-rooms and enlarged facilities for recreation would be highly appreciated.

All bills and vouchers are on file in the Auditor's office, showing the expenditure of the funds which have come into my hands.

An inventory of all property belonging to the Institution has been taken, and can be found on file in my office.

(For itemized statement of expenses, see financial report.)

In conclusion, I feel that I can not speak too highly of the efficient and faithful services rendered by the officers and employes of this Institution, and I would also acknowledge with a grateful appreciation the kindness and courtesy with which you received me when I came among you, a stranger, and the confidence and support you have continued to extend toward me.

Respectfully submitted.

SARAH F. KEELY,
Superintendent.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., November 1, 1886.

To the Board of Managers of the Indiana Reformatory Institution for Women and Girls:

LADIES—From the Medical Department I present this report for the year ending October 31, 1886:

The acute diseases have been fewer, and, with the exception of the typhoid fever cases in the penal department, of a milder type than those of last year.

Considering the depraved constitution and diseased condition of most of our inmates on entrance, the general health has been good, and speaks strongly in favor of their care and sanitary surroundings.

There have been four births in the penal department:

Nellie Cross, January 18, 1886; mother received May 20, 1885.

James Henry Bennett, May 24, 1886; mother received October 9, 1885.

Fred Jones, April 20, 1886; mother received December 7, 1885.

Lulu Sanders, June 7, 1886; mother received May 6, 1886.

Three deaths have occurred. One in the Reformatory Department from acute tuberculosis, one in the Penal Department, from typhoid fever, and one of the infants born here, of inherited syphilis.

The readiness and cheerfulness with which my associates have endeavored to fulfill my wishes have given me much pleasure. Owing to our lack of hospital advantages, this has often been no light task.

To the Board of Managers instead of suggestions I have thanks to offer for deeds that anticipated desires, and a hope that the ensuing year may be pleasant and healthful as the one just ended.

Courteously,

MARIE HASLEP.

COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

To His Excellency, ISAAC P. GRAY,
Governor of Indiana:

The Board of Commissioners of the Indiana Reform School for Boys, as required by the statute, respectfully submits this, their Twentieth Annual Report, the same being the report for the year ending October 31, 1886.

In presenting this report to you, and through you to the Legislature and the people of Indiana, we would gratefully acknowledge the fostering care of the State and the growing public interest manifested in the prosperity of the institution.

The reformation of the wards of the State intrusted to the care and custody of the Indiana Reform School for Boys, has been sacredly regarded as our special mission, and for its accomplishment the energies and efforts of all its officers and employes have been fully devoted.

The result of the year's work has realized our highest expectations of the success of their faithful and patient labors.

Its condition in all departments is satisfactory, and assurances are daily received of the good that is being accomplished, which shows that the work in reforming and reclaiming the juvenile offenders of the State has not been in vain.

The boys, after leaving the institution, are giving promise of lives of usefulness, demonstrating the change and improvement that they received by being committed to its care.

The voice of health and gladness has been heard in all our buildings; no death or serious casualty has occurred; the work of instruction and reformation has steadily advanced; good order and wholesome discipline have uniformly prevailed; our labor has been blessed in the fields, and a plentiful harvest has been garnered.

Each year since our connection with this, the most important institution of the State, one that calls for the sympathy and prayers of all citizens and Christian people, a gradual and perceptible improvement has taken place, and the past year has been no exception to those preceding, which is extremely gratifying and encouraging to the Board of Control, the worthy and efficient Superintendent and Matron and their corps of faithful officers and its friends throughout the State.

The members of the Board, realizing that a thorough and intimate knowledge of the condition of the institution could not be ascertained simply by monthly visits and meetings, have, in addition to meeting once each month and performing what is required by the statute, each, individually, as opportunity offered, visited the institution and made personal examination, familiarizing themselves with all the details thereof.

It is well-known that a Board, which only makes monthly visits at stated times to go through the regular routine of business, knows little or nothing of the true condition of the trust intrusted to their care by the people of the State.

During the past year two hundred and three boys have been admitted to the school, and two hundred and sixteen have been released on ticket-of-leave.

Homes have been procured for thirty-two homeless boys. There have been admitted to its guardianship since its opening, January 1, 1868, two thousand, four hundred and thirty-nine boys. The number of boys admitted and the gradual and steady growth of the school, together with the crimes with which they are charged, indicate unmistakably that the tendency of crime is not on the decrease, and that many of our youths are early led into paths of destruction and ruin.

We hope the day is not far distant when Indiana will establish a prison for young men and men who have committed some minor offense for the first time. It is demoralizing on a young man, or on a man who has technically violated the law for the first time, to be shut up with old, hardened criminals as usually fill our prisons. There is no reason why a young man confined in a prison, established for the purpose of reforming those who are thus committed, should not be discharged at the end of his sentence a much better man than when admitted, instead of a confirmed criminal. Right here, too, we wish to protest against the practice and system of confining boys in our county jails with criminals of all kinds and tramps who have lost every human instinct that they ever possessed. Boys have come to us with their minds filled full of all kinds of crime that had been taught them in the county jails by inmates where they had been confined, not only for weeks, but sometimes for months. It takes time to eradicate from a boy's mind the baneful effect of such associations. The evil results can not be estimated. Such mingling of boys with adults in our county jails should be prohibited by law. As it now stands the judiciary of the State should see that all boys charged with a violation of law are speedily tried, and, if committed to this institution, that they be promptly transferred.

Ninety-three boys who had been heretofore released "on ticket-of-leave" became indolent or were unable to furnish satisfactory certificates of character from their employers, as the law directs, had their tickets revoked and they themselves returned to the institution.

Each year, as the number on leave increases, the difficulty in keeping trace of them increases in a corresponding degree. The Superintendent, as far as possible, keeps up a correspondence with them, thereby learning much of the boys' conduct and surroundings. It is to be expected, however, that of the great number on leave, some will become negligent about writing, and soon all trace of them will be lost. It is also an impossibility to learn the true surroundings and conduct of each boy by correspondence. Many of them are likely to come in contact with bad company. Their homes may be bad. All their surroundings may be such that would have a tendency to lead them astray and make it necessary to return them to the institution.

The best way to ascertain the true condition and conduct of the boys outside is to have a visitor, whose duty it shall be to visit the boys in their homes and make a personal investigation of each boy's conduct and associates.

If a boy's conduct has been good, or he has not been properly treated and cared for, or his associates are bad, another home can be procured for him.

If he is indolent and doing badly, he can be returned without doing him any injustice.

Many boys fail after their release more by reason of their unfortunate situation than on their own account.

In addition to visiting boys who are on ticket, the visitor can procure good, suitable homes for all homeless boys.

We most earnestly urge the Legislature to make some provision for the appointment of a visitor. Those States that have provided for such an official have obtained satisfactory results from his labors.

There were at the close of the year five hundred and sixteen boys in the Institution, an increase of seventy-six over the preceding year. By reason of the increase in number it will be necessary to have a small increase in the appropriation.

We have the largest number of inmates of any regular Reform School in the United States, except the State Reform School of Ohio.

The most important step in the work of reformation and preparation for future life is for each boy to acquire a good, common education. We especially feel proud of the efficiency of our schools.

Every effort has been made to retain the high standard that they have heretofore attained. They will compare favorably in incentives to study and solid instruction, and far superior in discipline to the best graded schools of the State.

When received, many of our inmates were very ignorant, idle truants, and without any taste for learning; with the opportunities offered and encouragement given, even these neglected boys make rapid advacement, and if they remain in the Institution a sufficient length of time they will acquire an education that will fit them to discharge intelligently the ordinary duties of life.

In addition to the school books the boys have in their grades, we think it is of utmost importance that they should be supplied with a library of good books, periodicals and papers, and a pleasant library and reading-room. As yet, the State has done nothing to provide for a library and reading-room.

Through our worthy Chaplain, John G. Blake, a circulating library has been established, composed of good periodicals and other reading matter contributed by kind friends, that is doing much good and promises to be a success if a suitable library and reading-room can be furnished.

We most earnestly ask an appropriation of one thousand dollars for the construction of and furnishing a library and reading-room. Five hundred dollars for the purchase of library.

The farm consists of two hundred and twenty-five acres. The yield of the farm this year has been most excellent.

The products of the farm are given in detail in the report of the Superintendent.

The farm is entirely too small.

The boys can not engage in any labor better for them or more profitable to the State than that of the farm. The knowledge of farm labor often assists boys to procure a good, suitable home.

The Board most earnestly recommends the purchase of additional land if it can be obtained for a reasonable price.

The Chapel is too small to accommodate the number now in the Institution, without great inconvenience if there are any visitors present.

The southeast corner has settled, thereby cracking and damaging the wall. That corner and front needs to be torn out and the Chapel enlarged to meet the demands of the Institution.

We ask an appropriation of two thousand dollars for the enlargement and repairs of the Chapel.

The main building has been gradually settling for several years until it had become unsafe. The central part where the settling had been the greatest, was raised to a level with the other parts of the building, and large posts were placed in the basement, firmly planted in the ground on cement bottom, under that part so elevated.

The building is now substantial and solid.

The raising and leveling of the building so damaged the plastering that it became necessary to re-plaster and re-paper nearly all the upper rooms.

New roofs have been placed on family buildings 1, 4 and 5 during the year. Family buildings 2, 3, 12 and shop will need to be re-roofed the coming year; otherwise the buildings are all in good repair.

There never has been a suitable place of sufficient size to store away vegetables for winter. Much loss has been occasioned by burying them outside, and those saved were not so good as if put away in a good, dry cellar.

To remedy that want we erected during the past fall a large root cellar in the bank west of the barn, twenty-four feet by thirty-six feet, divided into three apartments, each twelve feet in hight, with arched roofs supplied with ventilators extending to surface above.

The boys made and burned the brick and did all the work in its erection. The cost outside of the labor of the boys and regular officers did not exceed three hundred and fifty dollars. And there are now stored within its walls 1,350 bushels of potatoes and other vegetables, safe from the frosts of winter; all of which will be used by the boys.

The appropriation for the past year for the current expenses was sixty thousand dollars ($60,000).

By practicing the closest economy, the Board has managed to run the Institution within the appropriation.

We shall need for the next two fiscal years an appropriation of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000) for each year for current expenses.

As required by statute, the Board estimates the cost of keeping and caring for each inmate for the ensuing year at one hundred and twenty dollars ($120).

The following indicates the receipts and expenditures for the past year:

The items of these expenditures, and a more detailed statement of the management of the Institution, are more fully shown in the Superintendent's report herewith submitted.

For full particulars of the sanitary condition, we refer you to the report of Dr. Amos Carter, the attending physician, which is filed herewith.

We likewise file with this report the report of our worthy Chaplain, John G. Blake, whose services are and have been invaluable.

The success in reclaiming the wayward boys of the State is largely due to his Christian work.

For the kind coöperation and words of cheer and comfort from many interested friends, and for the liberality that has ever characterized the Legislature, we would express our thanks.

We desire to commend Mr. and Mrs. Charlton, and their assistants in each department, for the earnestness and zeal that they have shown in their work in behalf of the wards of the State.

Respectfully submitted.

L. A. BARNETT, Pres.

INDIANA REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS, Nov. 10, 1886.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Board of Control, Indiana Reform School for Boys:

Nearly seven years ago you intrusted me with the superintendency of this school. So rapid has been its growth in those years that, in both buildings and number of inmates, it has almost doubled what it was then. The past year (ending October 31, 1886) has been especially prosperous. Better appliances, long-needed buildings, improved methods, and, above all, an improved corps of faithful officers have enabled us to accomplish better work than ever before. Four hundred and forty boys were in the school at the beginning of the year, and 516 at its close. For the benefit of the general public I recite here some of the points in its history of interest.

LOCATION AND HISTORY.

This school was opened for the reception of inmates January 1, 1868. For the first fifteen years of its history it was known as the "House of Refuge," but this name, not expressing the object of the Institution, was, in February, 1883, changed to its present name, "The Indiana Reform School for Boys." I am perfectly satisfied with this name. I do not believe in giving poetical names to such institutions as these. Judging from the names recently given reform schools one would conclude that they have about all passed out of existence. In their stead there are a score or more of industrial schools where only criminal boys are sent. I see no permanent good resulting from deceiving the public in matters of this kind. Let us call things by their right names. I try to impress upon every boy the fact that this is a reform school. Officers should always bear this in mind. While this is the case, it is also an industrial school. No one places a higher value than myself on industrial education, but that alone is but a small portion of the work done here.

The Institution is situated on a beautiful upland nearly a mile southwest of the village of Plainfield, Ind. The farm attached consists of 225 acres of excellent land, lying mostly on the right bank of White Lick Creek. The "National Road" passes through the northern extremity of the farm. The buildings, now numbering thirty-four, are mostly brick, and well adapted to their purpose. The school was opened with but one building and a few out-houses. As it grew other buildings were added, until at present it is, in itself, a village.

THE PLAN OF THE SCHOOL.

This school is built upon what is known as the "Cottage" plan. Boys live in cottages separated from each other. The boys that occupy one of these cottages constitute a family, over which is placed a teacher of experience and skill in this special work. This officer, if a married man, is assisted by his wife. These cottages are all three stories high. The first story is partly below the ground, and in all the old buildings this is used for a wash room, but in the new buildings for a gymnasium. The sitting-rooms for the boys when the family is assembled are all in the second story, while all of the third story is used for sleeping purposes. The boys of each family have their own play ground, but all eat in a general dining-room. During work and school hours the families have no existence, inasmuch as both the work and the schools are graded. I am not a believer in the "cottage" or "family" system when carried to any further extent than it is here. I believe that in large schools like this, this system, somewhat modified as it is here, is far superior to the "congregate plan;" but I further believe that there is much truth in Pope's lines,

> "For forms of government let fools contest;
> What's best administered is best."

OUR LAW.

Our school is fortunate in having, perhaps, the best law for its government of any school in the country. Having sufficient copies of it published, I submit it herewith to be bound with this report.

HEALTH.

I am happy to report to you that not a single death has occurred during the year. I attribute this to the excellent care taken of the boys when in health, and to the skillful medical treatment and nursing given them when sick. Dr. Amos Carter has made 428 visits to the school during the past year, and at each visit he sees every boy who has an ailment, imaginary or real. I can not commend him too highly for the faithful discharge of the duties of his department.

SANITARY MEASURES.

The almost perfect underground sewage which we now have was completed during this year. Two great sewers, one on each side of the Institution, with all their connections, prevent any noxious gases from poisoning the atmosphere. Improved methods of ventilation and heating of the buildings have aided in securing our excellent health record. Habits of cleanliness have been taught. Vices that mar and blast the lives of the young have been suppressed. This is no light work, I assure you; yet we never relax in this duty. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure," is our motto. We require the boys to learn this and act upon it.

CLOTHING.

Our boys are well clothed, not with broadcloth, but with full suits of the best jeans. These suits consist of a coat, vest and pants. In the summer, shirts, made of what is known in mercantile circles as "Hamilton Stripe," and in the winter made of "Iron Mountain Flannel" are worn. Cotton socks in summer and woolen socks in winter are furnished them. Each boy is supplied with two pairs of good shoes. Owing to the pressure of other work, some of these were bought of the Walker Boot Manufactory, but a large number were made in our own shoe shop, where all the repairing is done. During the coming year we shall be able to make a large number of the shoes here in our shoe shop, thereby giving a number of the boys a fairly good trade. All the clothing is made in our own tailor shop, where six sewing machines are kept constantly in use. Woolen scarfs and mitts are supplied in the winter.

REPAIRING CLOTHING.

This department is one of the interesting features of the School. Small boys, under the instruction of a competent lady, repair the clothing for all the boys. Every shirt, after it leaves the laundry, goes to this department, where nimble fingers make all needed repairs. They are then sent to the various families. Every garment has the mark of its wearer upon it. This teaches the law of ownership. In a school of this kind there should be nothing held in common. However much it may increase the trouble, it amply repays for it in teaching these boys that what belongs to another must not be appropriated by any one but the owner.

FOOD.

That the Indiana Reform School supplies its inmates bountifully with the most wholesome food is recognized, not only throughout our own State, but in other States. We have many advantages over institutions that have no farms attached, and the report of our excellent Gardener, S. L. Kain, submitted herewith, exhibits the extensive yield we usually secure from the farm and garden.

Food, to be excellent, must be properly cooked and served. Mrs. Jane Hawkins still has charge of the Boys' Kitchen, and words are inadequate to do her justice. Three kinds of cooked food, not counting bread, are served to the boys at each meal. Besides these, beets, cucumber pickles, celery and all vegetables and melons that are grown in this latitude are constantly served in their season. Rich, sweet milk and coffee are used for drink at meals. During the past year, in addition to the milk from our own dairy, we have purchased 8,577 gallons of milk fresh from the cows. We use everything that we raise, and in our planting of crops we are governed by this, our home demand. To fully show you what we have consumed, or have stored away for winter consumption, I submit the following report of the Gardener, to which are attached the productions of the farm:

REPORT OF THE GARDENER.

To Prof. T. J. Charlton, Superintendent, and the Board of Commissioners of the Indiana Reform School for Boys:

The garden this year has yielded abundantly. Every thing planted seemed to have flourished except the late cabbage. The early cabbage crop was unusually good; we had cabbage for the tables on the 12th day of June. The late cabbage grew rapidly, and looked well until the middle of August, when it began to decay and fall off the stalks. From 50,000 plants we will not be able to save more than 12,000 heads. We had a bountiful supply of early vegetables, cabbage, lettuce, radishes, rhubarb, asparagus, onions, beets, beans, peas, etc. We have, also, a good supply of late vegetables stored away for winter use. I feel that I would be doing the boys an injustice if I did not attribute the success in this department to their interest in the work. The per cent. of plants that died from being transplanted was very small. From 5,000 celery plants set out there was not one that died. Of the 60,000 sweet potato plants set out it required only 500 to replace those that died.

The following list will show you the successful yield of this department, also the products of the farm:

Corn	600 bushels.
Sheaf oats	558 dozen.
Green beans	332 bushels.
Parsnips	240 bushels.
Asparagus	1,330 bunches.
Rhubarb	22,900 stalks.
Lettuce	10,186 bunches.
Green onions	20,216 bunches.
Dry onions	1,000 bushels.
Green peas	85 bushels.
Cucumbers (eaten sliced)	1,728 dozen.
Squashes	1,300
Tomatoes	427 bushels.
Mango peppers	147 dozen.
Sweet potatoes	690 bushels.
Popcorn	100 bushels.
Radishes	10,000 bunches.
Turnips	800 bushels.

Pickled cucumbers	30 barrels.
Roasting ears	3,569 dozen.
Pumpkins	50 wagon loads.
Muskmelons	5,410
Watermelons	1,819
Potatoes	3,000 bushels.
Celery	5,000 bunches.
Beans (shelled)	20 bushels.
Red peppers	10 bushels.
Sour krout	10 barrels.

With gratitude to a kind Providence for so bountifully blessing the labor of our hands, I now submit to you my report of this department.

S. L. KAIN, Gardener.

The erection of the new root cellar will enable us to preserve from frost and decay the vegetables left for use in the winter and early spring. I regret to announce the resignation of Mr. Kain, who expects to remove to Texas. He was one of our foremost officers.

EDUCATION AS A REFORMATORY FACTOR.

The more I learn of the causes of crime, the more I am convinced that education is one of the strongest agencies to use in its suppression. The hours of danger to a boy or man are those between sunset and bed-time. The illiterate boy or man has no resources within himself, and he naturally leaves home to find amusement and pastime; in pursuit of which he meets with temptations that frequently conquer him. Let a boy be educated, let him be taught to love the reading of good books or papers, and he has within himself a source of pleasure which the illiterate can never know. Not only this, but in the various branches of education, I find that all have a moral tendency. A knowledge of mathematics is essential in all the handicrafts of this world. As we cultivate the mental faculties we strengthen the character, therefore we make prominent in this work that accomplished in our DAY SCHOOLS.

These are graded in every respect like those in our best city schools. Boys work one-half the day and attend school the other half. These schools are taught by experienced and competent teachers. We confine our work to common branches. Nothing is allowed to interfere with a boy's attendance at school. The evil of "absenteeism" is unknown here. Nothing but sickness excuses a boy from his school duties. Reform School boys make more progress in their studies than the average pupils in public schools, because of the improved character of the discipline. Intellectually they are somewhat above the average, and, although nearly all while at home were truants, they seem to appreciate their school privileges here. Not being bound by contract labor enables us to give our boys far better educational advantages than otherwise. During the rush of work in the summer the higher grades were given a vacation, but the primary grades were continued all the year.

REFORM SCHOOLS FOR REVENUE.

I am often asked if this Institution is "self-supporting." A moment's reflection will suggest the utter folly of the question. Why are not such questions applied to public schools? Our State expends every year to maintain her public schools about $4,969,873.56, and no one will say that the money is not well spent. No one thinks of making them schools for revenue, yet in the public schools the State is at no expense for the support or clothing of the children. No one would tolerate for a moment the idea of making the children that throng our public schools pay their own way. It would not be possible to have them do so. Much less should it be required of this class of boys, who, because of former neglect, are in much greater need of a good education. In determining the good accomplished by a Reform School we are not to look to the "dollars and cents" that were wrung from their labor, but rather to the discipline that was given them, to enable them to abandon their bad habits and to form correct ones.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

To give a boy such a training as will enable him to earn an honest living, is one of the prime objects of a Reform School. "An idle brain is the devil's work-shop." "Satan always finds work for idle hands to do." Realizing this, we require every boy to work, when not in school or at play. All the work of the School is done by the boys, under the instruction and supervision of an officer. They clean the buildings, bake all the bread, cook all the food, make all the clothing and repair the same, repair all the shoes and make a portion of them, erect all the buildings, do all the work on the farm or in the garden, drive all the teams and care for them, milk all the cows and care for all the stock. During the year our boys have made 350,000 bricks and laid over half of them in the walls of the buildings erected. They have control of the gas works, do all painting and glazing. The motto we teach them in their work is "Not how much, but how well." I look forward to the time when a more perfect system of manual labor training can be introduced in our School, to teach our boys the science and art of working in wood or iron. Contract labor in these institutions has had its day. The laboring millions will not tolerate it, and, so far as Reform Schools are concerned, I am heartily glad of it, for it will put a stop to the neglect of the education of this class of boys, and will necessitate the teaching of the trades. The labor of all Reform Schools should be instructive rather than productive. Society and the State are more interested in fitting boys to make an honest living, than in the monetary productiveness of their labor.

A LIBRARY BUILDING.

I recommend the erection of a separate building, where we can gather a large collection of choice books and periodicals. This can be used as a reading-room for boys in hours of leisure. If the Legislature would grant us $1,000 for a building and $500 for a library, we could have one in full operation before June of next year. Our present library is very small, and the books are not the best that might have been selected. In order to cultivate a taste for reading we take a great many newspapers, and when we are better able to bear the expense, I would like to see a large number of the "Youth's Companion" taken for the boys.

The boys studied United States History during the past year. This made the sixth course in History they have completed. The coming year we will vary our programme somewhat, so as to give up the Saturday evenings entirely to the recreations and amusements of the families and put U. S. History into the schools.

A DAY'S PROGRAMME.

Boys rise at 5 in summer and 5:30 in winter. After dressing they go to the wash-room, wash, and comb their hair. They then repair to their sitting-rooms where the House Father reads a portion of the Scriptures and joins with the boys in the Lord's Prayer. After a song they march to the dining-hall for breakfast. After breakfast they all assemble on the "Detail," where the various schools are called out. The remaining half of the boys are then assigned to the work of the day. At 11 A. M. all work and school stop. All the boys then assemble along the walk leading to the shops. The excellent drum and fife corps is present and after a brief march the line is separated into the various families which march to their respective wash-rooms, where they prepare for dinner. After noon, in good weather, they repair to their respective playgrounds, and in winter to the gymnasium, and play till 1 P. M., when work and school are again resumed. Those who attended school in the forenoon now work, and those who worked in the fore part of the day attend school. At 5 P. M. in summer and 4:30 in winter, the schools and work are ended and all prepare for supper. After supper and until "bed-time," the boys remain in their respective families where the evening is spent in such a manner as will amuse and benefit the boys.

MORAL INSTRUCTION.

Believing that the truest reformation of a criminal depends upon the proper development of the religious nature, the moral and religious instruction given is founded upon the Bible. Precepts from Holy Writ, such as these, are taught:

A soft answer turneth away wrath.

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.

A man that hath friends must show himself friendly; and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

He that hath pity lendeth to the Lord.

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches.

Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do with thy might.

Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth.

Be not overcome with evil, but overcome evil with good.

Blessed is the man that endureth temptation, for when he is tried he shall receive the crown of life.

It is more blessed to give than receive.

Each boy commits to memory passages from the Bible such as these. Each is furnished a Hand-book of the International Sabbath School Lessons, with the lesson for the entire year. Numerous Testaments and Bibles and Prayer-books and Catechisms, both Catholic and Protestant, are placed in their hands for study. Boys at each meal sing a portion of some familiar hymn, and then with bowed heads, in concert, they invoke the blessing on the meal. When retiring for the night they sing a hymn and recite either the Lord's Prayer or "Now I lay me down to sleep." After this they kneel at the bedside in silent prayer. This is frequently followed by audible prayer by the boys.

The past year has been peculiarly blessed in the revival of religion among all the boys. Experience meetings had been common for years; but early in the summer some of the boys began holding prayer meetings. These began in the Dormitories while kneeling at silent prayer. At once it spread to nearly all the families. Officers were converted and took part with the boys. Soon there was a demand for some organization, whereby religious growth could be accelerated. This was called the Young Men's Christian Association, and now numbers over one hundred members. This association meets every Sunday evening in the Chapel. Brother John G. Blake, our Chaplain, always meets with them. Business meetings are held semi-monthly, on Thursday evenings. At our request, only Protestant boys take part in this association. These meetings are very interesting. The prayers that are offered from earnest hearts, the words spoken by boyish lips, make it a season where each one present feels that great good is done. Brother Blake, now in his seventh year as our Chaplain, feels that in his work this is indeed the harvest year. For years he has labored here, and always with abundant evidence that his work has been blessed, but never so much as during the past year.

OUR CATHOLIC BOYS.

Again I desire to express to the venerable prelate, Rev. Father Bessiones, my gratitude for his ministry to the Catholic boys. In his quarterly visits he holds two services in the chapel. The good results are everywhere seen in the improved lives of these boys. His spotless life and character, supplementing his earnest teaching, is one of the strongest agencies in this work. I trust his life will be spared to us many years.

SABBATH SERVICES.

With the addition of the Y. M. C. A. meeting in the evening, the exercises are as in former years, consisting of a sermon by Chaplain Blake in the forenoon, and Sabbath-school in the afternoon. The boys study their Sabbath-school lessons of evenings during the week under the instruction of the officer in charge, and on Sabbath they recite it to the Superintendent. The Chaplain assists in the Sabbath-school. Both services are impressive and enjoyed by officers and boys. I feel quite sure that to each boy the recollection of the Sabbaths he spends here will be very pleasant to recall in after years.

AMUSEMENTS AND RECREATIONS.

The Reform School does not believe in "straight jackets," in the common acceptance of that term. The officials do not forget that they were once young. Therefore the very largest liberty is allowed that is compatible with discipline. Spacious play grounds are set apart for the use of each family, where, in good weather, base ball or foot ball are the prevailing games. Extensive gymnasiums are fitted up for play in bad weather. No pressure of work is allowed to interfere with the time allotted for play. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" is an old but true adage. Nothing but bad conduct deprives a boy of this privilege of engaging in play during play hours.

Aside from these physical sports every encouragement is given to all other means of amusement. Entertainments are frequent, where music, declamations, and even the drama, are given with great success. New Year, Washington's birthday, Flower Mission Day, 4th of July, Thanksgiving and Christmas are observed as holidays. Kind friends from a distance favor us with occasional entertainments and lectures. Prominent among the many that have been given during the year I would instance the free concert given June 29th by the "When Band," of Indianapolis. Whatever of musical, oratorical or dramatic talent which each boy may possess is developed; even dancing is allowed, and it contributes not a little to the pleasure of the boys.

MORAL GROWTH.

Nowhere is this so apparent and so rapid as in a well-governed Reform School. In all that is refining and elevating their progress is marked. Parents and friends, upon their visits here, notice the change for the better in the boys. This proves that this class of boys are not all inherently bad, but, for a time, may have yielded to temptation because of bad surroundings. They come here all marred and scarred by a life of sin, but they readily yield to discipline and try to make up for lost time. Truly,

> Our boys are the hope of the Nation,
> For the men of the future they'll be;
> Let us earnestly seek their salvation—
> From the bondage of sin set them free.
> Their mistakes are never so serious
> But that each one can truly reform;
> Let us guide their young feet into pathways
> Where their lives will be shielded from harm.

THE DISCIPLINE.

Our discipline is good. This enables us to grant the largest liberty. It is the marvel of visitors how so much liberty can be granted to this class of boys. Boys who were accustomed to breaking jails soon become trusties here. There is no doubt but that the cultivation of this element of trust is one of the essential steps in the work of genuine reformation. The experience of Reform Schools, both in cities and country, proves that, after all, "the strongest wall is no wall." Occasionally this trust is violated and a boy escapes; but, as a rule, he is soon captured and returned. This is the penalty paid by the schools conducted on the "open system," but it is much more than balanced by the good accomplished.

PUNISHMENTS.

In all well-governed or badly-governed schools there must be some cases of corporal punishment. It was one of my fondest hopes to be able to eliminate it from our school, but I am convinced that it can not be done. Until parents learn to govern their children at home without it, until schools, public, private and parochial, do away with it, it must continue in Reform Schools. It has ever been my purpose to reduce it to the minimum, and I believe that I have succeeded. No boy is punished until the offense is reported to me and the matter receives my personal investigation. Some years ago I allowed this matter of punishments to rest with the "house fathers," as the officers in charge of families are called. But it was not satisfactory, and I adopted the system now in use, and which requires a permit for each case. I indicate below the form of these permits.

REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS.
PLAINFIELD, IND.....1886.

T. J. CHARLTON, Superintendent:

I desire instructions whether or not to punish..... .....
....., No..... Offense. .....

My own judgment is that he should receive.....strokes.

Very respectfully,

.....

Officer in Charge.

If, after investigation, I consider it a case demanding corporal punishment, I fill out the following permit:

REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS.
PLAINFIELD, IND.....1886.

You are hereby permitted to punish No.....with the strap .....strokes, but not until you have called him up and kindly shown him the gravity of his offense, and that you are discharging what is to you a painful duty.

T. J. CHARLTON, Supt.

If, before punishment, a boy desires to see the Superintendent, he is allowed that privilege. This privilege is well understood by every boy. In my absence the Assistant Superintendent may grant these permits, but the case must be an urgent one. I have had to discharge more officers for the abuse of their authority in matters of punishments than for any other cause. But I am determined that, whatever the cost, no injustice shall be done these boys. But corporal punishments form but a small fraction of the agencies used to restrain these boys from bad conduct. A system of deportment marks are adopted, whereby a boy is promoted or demoted each month according to his conduct. Bad conduct, if persisted in, prolongs a boy's stay in the school, while good conduct hastens his release on ticket-of-leave. The most depraved boys, committed for the gravest crimes, receive the lowest "badge" when they enter. These "badges" are graded according to the offense. Each month I meet with all the officers, and, after hearing—

First—All the reports each boy receives during the month.

Second—His record in the schools.

Third—His record at work.

Fourth—His record while with his family.

Fifth—And, most important, what the officers think of the boy aside from his reports.

Then I fix his "badge" for the month. The longer I work with these boys the more stress I give to the last (fifth) test. Some boys, with honest intentions, stumble against rules unintentionally, while at heart they are kind and good. Others wilfully do wrong. This must be studied, and a careful discrimination between offenses must be exercised. I find that boys are satisfied with the results of these "badge" meetings. If a boy abuses a privilege, that privilege is taken from him for a time. This is, in one sentence, the system of punishments in our school. The words "On Punishment" here mean that, for a time, a boy is deprived of the privilege of talking with his comrades. Indeed, this is the severest punishment we inflict. Only boys of this class are deprived of play.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.

Our Chapel, erected ten years ago, is too small for the present number of boys, and besides the heavy tower caused one corner to sink into the spongy soil, occasioning an ugly break in the entire walls. I recommend that the Legislature be asked for an appropriation to tear down the entire front, extend it some twenty feet, erect a gallery in the extension, and provide for a better system of heating it. Two thousand dollars would purchase the materials necessary and pay for the skilled labor needed to train boys to do the work. I think we have enough bricks burned to make this improvement.

OTHER NEEDS.

1. Steam heating.
2. More land.
3. An increase of the present appropriation to meet the demands of our rapidly increasing members.
4. A pipe organ for the Chapel.

Our school is in such public favor that its growth from year to year is a certainty, and ample provision should be made for it.

I submit the table showing the number of boys admitted each year since the opening of the Institution:

During the year 1868	112
During the year 1869	29
During the year 1870	142
During the year 1871	37
During the year 1872	64
During the year 1873	95
During the year 1874	113
During the year 1875	153
During the year 1876	129
During the year 1877	117
During the year 1878	145
During the year 1879	107
During the year 1880	149
During the year 1881	157
During the year 1882	177
During the year 1883	149
During the year 1884	182
During the year 1885	179
During the year 1886	203
Total	2,439

Of the 216 boys released during the year, 21 were colored, and of the 203 boys admitted during the year 34 were colored.

The number of colored boys in the school is usually about one-sixth the entire number. They are treated the same as the white boys, and our experience is, that in every respect, they are their equals in the schools, at work and in their family duties.

The following is a list of boys admitted and released during the year:

	Admitted.	Released.
November, 1885	17	26
December, 1885	13	34
January, 1886	9	18
February, 1886	15	17
March, 1886	20	21
April, 1886	16	13
May, 1886	20	22
June, 1886	18	20
July, 1886	17	10
August, 1886	7	19
September, 1886	24	11
October, 1886	27	5
Total	203	216

No boy is ever discharged. When he wins his "Honor" badge he is given a ticket-of-leave. The first ticket is usually for thirty days. If he enters school or secures employment, these tickets-of-leave are granted for longer periods. If the boy, after a time, begins to do badly he is admonished. This, in nearly all cases, is effective. In some cases the boy, feeling secure in being so far away from the school, again does badly. He is then recalled to the school to serve another period of trial.

To show you that this oversight of boys out on ticket-of-leave has not been neglected, I submit to you the following list showing the number of boys out on ticket-of-leave who were returned during the year for not doing as well as they should have done:

November, 1885	5	boys.
December, 1885	10	"
January, 1886	9	"
February, 1886	1	"
March, 1886	5	"
April, 1886	7	"
May, 1886	3	"
June, 1886	5	"
July, 1886	6	"
August, 1886	7	"
September, 1886	12	"
October, 1886	23	"
Total number of boys returned	93

This is a greater number than were returned in any previous year. I am happy to report that the second trial is generally very effective. The next time the boy goes out on ticket-of-leave he feels that the eye of the school is upon him. This is one of the best features of our law. I trust that ere long the "indeterminate sentence" will be adopted in all our penal institutions. At the "New York Reformatory for Men," located at Elmira, the court simply convicts prisoners sent there of some crime, and their period of commitment is for the maximum penalty affixed by the law for that offense. The institution has the authority to grant tickets-of-leave whenever there is sufficient evidence of reformation. For bad conduct they may be recalled at any time until the period of the maximum sentence has expired.

THE HOUR OF TRIAL.

The period of danger to these released boys, as well as those released from prisons, is the one following their arrival at their homes. It is so difficult to secure employment that many boys and men become discouraged, and, almost from necessity, they are led to commit crime to obtain their daily bread. In our school the very greatest care is given to this matter of securing employment for all boys before they are released. In nearly every instance, where permanent employment is secured, the boy never relapses into crime.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

What is needed most in this country is an organized society to aid prisoners in securing employment at once upon their release. We may teach a boy a useful trade but if he is shut out from work at such trade he soon becomes a pauper. If benevolent people would give more care to inmates of reformatories and prisons after their release, much greater good would result than under the present system.

PREVENTIVE MEASURES.

After all, the time for missionary work is before boys and men become criminals. If parents would do their duty in the rearing of their boys, if habits of industry were required and taught, if idleness could be checked, if boys could be kept off the streets and away from the haunts of vice, if truancy and absenteeism from school could be abolished, we would have no need of reformatories.

CAUSES OF CRIME.

These are too numerous to recite in a report like this. Allow me to mention only the principal ones:

1. Intemperance. This alone has blasted the home life of nearly thirty per cent. of our boys. Drunken fathers or mothers are almost sure to ruin all those depending upon them.

2. Step-parents. Most of our boys have felt the effects of one of their parents not being willing to let them stay at home in peace.

3. Over-indulgence. While parental love is the holiest tie that exists in the human family, misdirected love is fraught with evil.

4. Criminal parents. Many of our boys are here for this cause.

To show the steady growth of our School I submit the following table showing the number of boys present at the close of each year since the beginning:

First year	112 boys.
Second year	118 boys.
Third year	217 boys.
Fourth year	196 boys.
Fifth year	191 boys.
Sixth year	216 boys.
Seventh year	265 boys.
Eighth year	328 boys.
Ninth year	324 boys.
Tenth year	339 boys.
Eleventh year	383 boys.
Twelfth year	330 boys.
Thirteenth year	347 boys.
Fourteenth year	330 boys.
Fifteenth year	372 boys.
Sixteenth year	393 boys.
Seventeenth year	437 boys.
Eighteenth year	440 boys.
Nineteenth year	516 boys.

As the efficiency of reformatory measures is yearly becoming more and more recognized, I am justified in predicting a much more rapid growth next year and in all the future years.

Under the former meagre appropriation the expenses actually demanded could scarcely be met. Many improvements which were absolutely demanded had to be made during this fiscal year. The present appropriation was made on the basis of 500 inmates, but it is now demonstrated that the number in the fiscal years from October 31, 1887, to October 31, 1889, will be at least 600. Therefore, I would urge the necessity of increasing the present appropriation to $65,000 or $70,000. As stewards of a great State we would be derelict in our duty if we withheld these facts.

The expenditures for the past year also show that it requires double the expenditures in the winter months to those in the warmer seasons, when the products of the garden and farm are utilized. It will require the closest economy to carry on the institution during the coming year on the present appropriation.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

A somewhat peculiar feature of the law governing this School is that the expenses of maintaining it are borne jointly with the State by the counties that supply the boys. The amount paid, or to be paid, by counties during the past year is as follows:

May 1, 1886	$12,554 50
October 31, 1886	13,297 50
Total	$25,852 00

If from the entire appropriation for the past year, $60,000, we deduct the amount expended for buildings and repairs, $10,523.17, we well have $49,476.83 as the actual expense for maintenance.

This would indicate the present estimated cost per annum of $120 to be the proper one. This is but thirty-two cents per day to cover the expenses for the food, clothing and education of each boy. Surely this is low enough.

WHAT WE DO FOR THESE BOYS.

It should be remembered that the boys who are sent here are the very worst boys in the State. No others should be sent here. They are boys who terrorized their neighbors, guilty of all the crimes known to the criminal calendar. They come to us all marred by lives of crime, and by a course of disciplinary training we transform them into polite, obedient boys. We teach them that "By the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread" is the great law of the industrial world. As we stand toward them in the relation of parents (in loco parentis) we retain control of them until they reach the age of 21 years.

While we teach them that as a mere question of expediency "Honesty is the best policy," yet we strive to have them govern their actions by the "Law of Duty." "Do right, because it is right," and not alone because it pays to do so, is carefully taught.

We clothe, feed and educate them. We impress upon them the advantages of doing right over doing wrong. Above all, we seek to instill them with hope and confidence that if they but try they can succeed. The inspiring words of Richelieu: "In the lexicon of Youth, which Fate reserves for a bright manhood, there is no such word as—FAIL." Boys need words of cheer spoken to them. Reprove when necessary, but never fail to commend often.

Many of our boys are homeless, or worse than homeless. For all such we strive to secure good homes when they win their release. During the year we procured homes for thirty-two boys. This duty is the most delicate and important we have to perform. All homes are not proper ones for homeless boys. Many professedly Christian people, when a boy is given to them upon condition that they treat him as their own child, forget their obligations and reduce him to "a hewer of wood and a drawer of water" in the worst sense of this phrase. While others, who are in humbler circumstances, treat boys kindly and give them the best of school advantages.

In procuring homes for boys we prefer homes in the country.

To convict one criminal often costs the State more than the annual cost of fifty boys at the Reform School. When we consider the work of the Reform School from this standpoint we find it invaluable to the State. But when we undertake to value one soul saved from ruin, the work accomplished here is infinitely above the cost.

The peculiar glory of a State is in the care she takes of her unfortunates. It is the glory of Indiana that this work is not neglected.

Below find the following counties not represented for the year ending October 31, 1886:

No. 1. Benton.
No. 2. Clay.
No. 3. Dubois.
No. 4. Fulton.
No. 5. Jasper.
No. 6. Jay.
No. 7. Jennings.
No. 8. Marshall.

No. 10. Newton.
No. 11. Ohio.
No. 12. Owen.
No. 13. Pike.
No. 14. Posey.
No. 15. Scott.
No. 16. Starke.

The following four counties have never been represented in this School:

Jay, Newton, Scott, Starke.

RESULTS.

For nearly nineteen years this School has labored for the salvation of the unfortunate boys of our State. The work has been well done, as the subsequent lives of nearly 2,000 boys who passed through the course here have borne testimony. Nearly 90 per cent. of these were sent here because they were beginning lives of crime. The others for "incorrigible and vicious conduct." The most careful estimates show that nearly 90 per cent. have become good citizens. Of the other 10 per cent. some have done moderately well and still others have done badly. But the worst of these did well for a time, and, owing to environments that would drag any youth down to ruin, they at last fell.

THANKS.

First—To the faithful officers and ladies who have labored nearly fourteen hours each day to do the work assigned them.

Second—To the hundreds of good Christian people who have contributed papers and books.

Third—To Rev. J. A. Rondthaler of the Tabernacle Church of Indianapolis, for especial favors.

Fourth—To the Hon. W. R. McKeen, President of the Vandalia Railroad, for his constant kindness in granting passes to all parties visiting the school to amuse or instruct the boys.

Fifth—To the Society of Friends, to which, more than to all other religious bodies, we are indebted for papers, help and encouragement.

Sixth—To you, the members of the Board of Control, for your constant efforts to make the school what it should be. You have never faltered in any duty and I thank you for your support when I have done right, for your advice when I may have erred, and for your help in the arduous labors that have devolved upon me.

Above all, to our kind and Heavenly Father "from whom all blessings flow," for the manifold blessings of the year.

T. J. CHARLTON,
Superintendent.

PLAINFIELD, IND., November 1, 1886.

Prof. T. J. Charlton, Supt., Reform School for Boys:

Although we have had but few serious cases of sickness during the past year, we have had at times some very sick boys. During November, 1885, and during September and October, 1886, we had a few cases of continued remittent and relapsing fevers. In the latter part of February, during March and the first part of April of this year, we had an epidemic of catharrhal pneumonia, some thirty-seven cases in all. There were also a few cases lobar pneumonia and pleurisy. All these made good recoveries.

It is a fact very gratifying to all, and especially so to myself, that we have had no death during the year. This is remarkable when we consider that there have been seven hundred and twenty-seven boys in the school, many of them coming from the very lowest walks of life, with not only defective characters, but with greatly impaired physical constitutions. It is much easier to cultivate good morals in sound physical bodies than in those suffering from the evils of inherited vice. I have found yourself and the Board ever ready to use every means to promote the health and physical welfare of the boys.

I have made four hundred and twenty-eight visits the past year, as follows:

During November, 1885	60	visits.
During December, 1885	30	"
During January, 1886	27	"
During February, 1886	35	"
During March, 1886	57	"
During April, 1886	38	"
During May, 1886	38	"
During June, 1886	25	"
During July, 1886	31	"
During August, 1886	5	"
During September, 1886	44	"
During October, 1886	38	"

When one visit per day is made, it is a general visit, and any boy in the school, wishing to do so, can see me, all being notified of my visit. A second visit, when made, is usually to visit special cases, but even then all other urgent ones are also seen.

Dr. Thomas Evans, as consulting physician, has not been called during the year, except to make two visits during my absence from home. I have had the counsel and advice of Dr. H. N. Helms, when he has been at the school on his monthly visits as a member of the Board.

The hospital is pleasantly located and surrounded with shade trees and beautiful lawns. It is isolated from the other buildings, as it should be. The lake, with its summer house in the center, with boats always at service of convalescent boys, who are able to ride, and who at all times can find some one to accompany them as oarsman, adds much to brighten the hospital life of the boys.

The hospital building is divided into nine rooms: Six on the first floor, consisting of the physician's office, containing the stock of medicines and instruments, arranged in cases; a "spare" bed-room (for the use of the parents of sick boys, who in all cases of serious illness are sent for and permitted to stay until their sons are convalescent); another as kitchen, where food, suitable for the sick, is prepared; a pantry and store-room opening from the kitchen, and three other rooms which are occupied by the lady in charge, one as a sitting-room, the others as bed-rooms.

On the second floor there is a short hall, a bath-room, a closet and the two regular hospital wards. The wards contain good single beds, are provided with closets for clothing, etc., and furnished with chairs, rockers and tables. Each has a good grate for heating and ventilating purposes. In cold weather the rooms are heated by registers from furnaces below. A good coal house and other out-building accommodations are near and the passage way to them is under shelter. It is considered quite an honor among the boys to do duty at the hospital. Our hospital boys are usually faithful to their trusts, and some of them make excellent nurses, caring most tenderly for the sick. Chaplain Blake and others have furnished the hospital sufficiently with good reading matter, which has been utilized by the convalescent boys.

Thanking yourself, the officers and the boys for kind and courteous treatment the past year, I now submit this as my fifth annual report. Respectfully,

AMOS CARTER, M. D.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

To His Excellency, ISAAC P. GRAY,
Governor of the State of Indiana:

In the discharge of our duties and following a well established precedent, and in accordance with the statute that requires the Directors shall annually submit a report to the Governor of the condition of the prison, we herewith transmit to your Excellency certain information concerning the management of the Prison South for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1886, together with such recommendation for legislative consideration as may appear necessary and expedient. Copies of the reports of the Warden, Clerk, Physician and Moral Instructor are also submitted, and we invite your special attention to the details and to their several recommendations for further information of the management of the Institution.

Since the date of our last report, and during the year, we have held monthly meetings, at which times we have gone through the prison, making it a point to pass every convict and giving each one an opportunity to complain of any mistreatment he may have received from the prison officers or contractors. At such visits, names and causes of complaint were carefully noted down. At each meeting a session has been held especially for the benefit of complaining convicts, who have been accorded a patient audience by the Board. All such complaints as have required the action of the Board have been, from time to time, disposed of as in our judgment each of the several cases required. In this connection the Board refers with pleasure to the fact that nothing has occurred to affect the good condition of the prisoners. The efficient discipline is largely due to the abandonment, some time since, of the more severe modes of punishment. The "Good Time Law," "Merit Cards," and the deprivation of privileges, such as to write to or see friends, have been sufficient in the majority of cases to secure a ready compliance to the rules of the prison, as is more fully evidenced by reference to the Punishment Record touching the conduct of the prisoners, which is shown, as a rule, to have been generally good.

As the time drew near for the expiration of the term of labor of three hundred men on the Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company contract, the Board advertised in several leading dailies of the country for letting the labor of three hundred men. When the day came for receiving and opening bids, there was but one bid, that of Messrs. Perin & Gaff, at an average of thirty-five cents a day per man, with the condition that the Board insure them against boycotting, and requiring an additional shop to be erected, at an outlay to the State of some four thousand dollars. After due consideration, the Board decided to reject this bid, and accordingly re-advertised for other bids. In the meantime Board corresponded and visited several manufacturing industries of this and adjoining States for the purpose of working up a competition in bidding. We are happy to state that we were successful, and succeeded in contracting the labor of two hundred and fifty men at an average of fifty-four cents a day per man for the period of one year, with the privilege of five years, to the Patton Manufacturing Company, of Columbus, Ohio. The labor of thirty men was awarded R. M. Dennis, of Louisville, Kentucky, for the period of one year, with the privilege of five years, at fifty-five cents a day per man.

You will see from the detailed statements of the Clerk and Warden that the income of the prison is not sufficient to meet the current expenses. Yet this institution is run as economically as any institution in the State or country. In connection with the Prison the State owns only four acres of land, from which to supplement the purchase of food for the prisoners. The contract price for convict labor is uniformly low, in consequence of the buildings not being constructed to the advantage of manufacturers, some of them having been built fully half a century ago, and belong rather to a past age, both in architecture and adaptation; also, from their scattered positions, contractors are deterred from bidding higher for labor in consequence of their not being able to get their men together, and having other disadvantages to contend with that would not be the case if they were furnished with buildings of modern construction and adapted to the requirements of the present age. Thus, with illy constructed and inconvenient buildings, together with the unpopularity of convict labor, and threatened boycotting of contractors, as a result of free labor movements, have militated against the re-letting of contracts; and hence the labor did not command as high a price as, in the judgment of the Board, it should.

It is with pleasure that the Board refers to the fact that the trip-hammer shop, west of the hospital, so long an eye-sore and annoyance, has been abandoned. This unsightly structure is the first object that greets the eye of the visitor upon entering the inclosure, and presents anything but an inviting appearance; and it is the intention of the management to convert the space occupied into a lawn, which will present a more pleasing and cheerful appearance to visitors, as well as add to the comfort of the sick in the hospital.

The report of the Chaplain is highly gratifying, and shows that his labors have been successful. We hope that such an appropriation of money will be made to render the chapel more attractive, thereby aiding in the moral reformation of the prisoners. From the lack of favorable results following the hour heretofore devoted to Sunday-school services, it has been decided to devote that time to instructing the convicts in the common school branches—a change time will prove whether for the better or not.

The Physician's report shows that the sanitary condition of the prison is excellent, considering the surroundings, as it shows a very small per cent. of the prisoners at any time in the hospital, or under medical treatment.

The convicts have been comfortably clad, and have been furnished an abundance of plain, wholesome food, which has been satisfactory, as there have been no complaints made to the Board on this account.

The Board has decided that as soon as the wash-house and tailor shop can be vacated and refitted for a dining-room and kitchen, to board the guards employed at the prison, for the purpose of further economizing and enforcing discipline and efficiency in the service.

Owing to the crowded condition of the old dining-hall, a necessity existed for additional dining-room space. The Board caused to be erected the past season a new brick addition 35x57 feet to the old dining-room on the west at a small cost. The new dining-hall has been found to be a great convenience, as much time is saved in getting the convicts to and from the dining-halls, aside from the comfort to the prisoners.

Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company have a claim against the State for $6,926.63. It was presented to the Warden and brought before our predecessors, who recommended that the State reimburse the party. In the Warden's report will be found a full explanation of the circumstances under which the claim arose. The buildings are permanent improvements, and were, at the time of their building, necessary to the fulfillment of the contract on the part of the State, which required that suitable and sufficient shop room should be furnished the contractors. They go to make up the shop facilities under present contracts with the Pattons for two hundred and fifty men, and without them such contracts, with the increased per diem for the labor, could not have been secured. The expenditures were necessary at the time, and have since facilitated the letting of the labor at better figures, and will continue to be of permanent value. We concur with our predecessors in the recommendation that the State should reimburse Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company.

We reiterate the recommendation made in former reports that the grounds adjacent the prison, on the west, should be bought by the State and added to the prison property. It is needed for storage, for contractors and the burial ground for the unclaimed dead, as the ground now used for burial does not belong to the State, and its use may be prohibited at any time.

Upon the completion of the new Insane Asylums, we would recommend that the hopelessly insane convicts be provided with more suitable quarters for their safety and humane treatment, as the prison is unprovided in these respects.

There is an imperative demand for a brick or stone wall upon the entire western side of the inclosure, and almost one-half of both the north and south sides. The only protection to these boundaries is an old rickety wall made of 2-inch plank, standing upon end. This is in danger of falling from age and dilap-idation. A sudden gust of wind from the west is liable to prostrate this wall at any time, and furnish a ready egress for all convicts despite the utmost vigilance of the guards.

The chapel also remains unfinished, and universally brings expressions of condemnation from visitors from other States, and many parts of our own State. The walls are bare and rough, and the joints and rafters naked and black, giving the place more the appearance of a dismal cave than a place where hearts ought to be made radiant with the worship of God. It also is so cold in winter as to make it almost inhuman to compel an attendance at service by the prisoners.

Our connection with the Institution, which has brought us in frequent contact with the prisoners, lead us to believe that the creation of a Board of three or five, to investigate cases and recommend pardons to the Governor, would be a good thing for all concerned. Many who are most deserving, for want of means and friends, never can get their cases properly before the Governor. Such a Board would help those not able to help themselves. We believe that after a man has served fifteen consecutive years in a prison he ought to be given at least a chance to regain his lost manhood, and would recommend all such be granted a conditional pardon.

Before closing this report we desire to acknowledge our obligations to Captain A. J. Howard, Warden, for the efficient manner in which he conducted the duties of his responsible office, and the kind and courteous manner which characterized his business contact with the Board; also, to the Deputy Warden and his assistants in maintaining order and discipline among the prisoners; to the Clerk, Captain M. I. Huette, who has been careful and painstaking in his office, ever watchful of the best interests of the Institution ; to the Chaplains, Rev. L. F. Cain and Rev. W. P. Barnhill, who were vigilant in watching over the spiritual as well as the temporal welfare of the inmates, and ever ready to give suggestions, to ameliorate the condition of the unfortunate convicts placed under their care.

Respectfully submitted.

H. V. NORVELL,
JOHN HORN,
R. J. WILSON,
Directors.

WARDEN'S REPORT.

INDIANA STATE PRISON SOUTH,
WARDEN'S OFFICE, Dec. 1, 1886.

To the Honorable Board of Directors:

For the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886, I would report:

The number of convicts in prison at the beginning of the year was 596; at the close, 523. The daily average during the year was 573, or one more than that of the preceding year. Clerk's table No. 11 shows the number of convicts received, discharged and remaining in prison for each year from the organization of the prison, in 1822, to the close of 1886. Total discharged, 8,218, as follows:

By expiration of sentence	5,578
Pardoned	1,188
Paroled	15
Died	439
By mandate of court	279
Transferred to House of Refuge	29
Transferred to other prisons	407
Escaped	283
Total	8,218

The death rate during the whole period was 5 per cent., while during 1886 it was $\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. Fourteen per cent. of all the convicts in the prison from the beginning were pardoned, while $\frac{3}{8}$ of 1 per cent. were pardoned in 1886.

The average number in prison was one greater than for the former year, yet from the beginning to the close of the year the number decreased from 596 to 525.

At the close of 1876 the number in prison was 525, the same as at the close of 1886; or it may be said that in eleven years there has been no increase in the number of inmates in this institution.

Of the 525 in prison, 254 were born in Indiana, 75 in Kentucky, 165 in other States, and 31 in foreign countries. At the time of conviction 68 per cent. were 30 years of age and under, 66 per cent. could read and write, 8 per cent. could read only, and 26 per cent. could neither read nor write; 68 per cent. were single, 25 per cent. were married, and 7 per cent. were widowers. At the time of entering the prison 23 per cent. admitted that they had been intemperate in the use of intoxicating drinks.

Sixty-four were convicted of murder in the several degrees, 25 of manslaughter, 40 of assault and battery with intent to commit murder, 22 of assault and battery with intent to rape, 12 of rape—aggregating 174. Or it may be said that one-third of the number in prison were sentenced for crimes against person. Of these, 17 were twenty years of age and under, and 61 were twenty-five years old and over twenty; or 45 per cent. of the convicts sentenced for the offenses above mentioned were twenty-five years of age and under.

Forty-eight were sentenced for life. The average period of sentence below life is four years, seven months and two days.

LEASED LABOR.

The contracts for hire of labor now in force are as follows:

With Frank L. Perin, manufacturer of shelf hardware, to expire Dec. 1, 1886, at 48 cents per day.....100 men.

With Thomas T. Gaff, manufacturer of shelf hardware, to expire Jan. 15, 1887, at 48 cents per day.....100 men.

With R. M. Dennis, manufacturer of saddle trees, to expire Dec. 1, 1886, at 48 cents per day..... 20 men.

With George W. Brown, manufacturer of boots and shoes, to expire July 1, 1889, at 52 cents per day..... 75 men.

With Alvin L. Bryan, manufacturer of boots and shoes, to expire April 1, 1889, at 60 cents per day... 50 men.

With Alvin L. Bryan, manufacturer of boots and shoes, to expire July 1, 1889, at 31 cents per day... 50 men.

With Patton Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of hollow ware, to expire December 10, 1891, at 60 cents per day.....100 men.

With Alexander Patton, manufacturer of hollow ware to expire January 15, 1892, at 55 cents per day.....100 men.

With William D. Patton, manufacturer of hollow ware, to expire January 1, 1892, at 40 cents per day..... 50 men.

With R. M. Dennis, manufacturer of saddle trees, to expire December 1, 1891, at 55 cents per day..... 30 men.

The Clerk's statements, accompanying this report, exhibit the receipts and disbursements. The books in his office show all the details. Each voucher is an itemized statement of the disbursement which it represents. The invoice book contains the original bills, numbered to correspond with the vouchers.

The actual cost of management, covering all accounts, was $80,039.40, or less than the preceding year $3,149.68. The cost per man per day on the several accounts, in cents and decimals, was as follows:

Provisions, including garden	11.05
Fuel and light	2.69
Hospital	.72
Clothing	3.18
Bedding	.18
Repairs	1.64
Team	.23
Discharged convicts	2.24
Escaped convicts	.55
Salaries	13.58
All other expenses	2.74
Total	38.80

Taking from the foregoing the items of officers' salaries, discharged convicts, repairs, team and escaped convicts, we fined that the cost of the support of convicts proper, covering clothing, provisions, fuel and light, hospital and miscellaneous expenses, was twenty cents and five mills per man per day.

Deducting from the total expenses ($80,039.40) the salaries of Directors, Warden, Deputy Warden, Clerk, Physician and Moral Instructor, aggregating $6,400, which were paid by the Auditor of State, and did not appear in the prison accounts prior to April, 1877, and we have, for the purpose of comparison with former years, the cost per man per day reduced to thirty-five cents and two mills.

The following is a comparative showing of the average general expenditure per man per day in each of the last seventeen years in cents and decimals:

From October 31 to January 15 the contracts for the hire of 320 men at forty-eight cents per day, by Samuel H. Perin, Frank L. Perin, Thomas T. Gaff and R. M. Dennis expire, and within those dates the new contracts for 280 men go into effect at an average of more than fifty-four cents per man, an increase per diem of six cents, or 14 per cent. over the former contracts. This, of itself, will increase the aggregate annual earnings of the prison $5,300. Under the new labor contracts the convicts will be worked in fewer shops, which will somewhat reduce the expense of guarding, and at the same time afford better oversight over the prisoners.

By means of the "good time" law passed in 1883, and the system of marks by which prisoners are granted privileges for the higher percentages of conduct, the discipline has been very much improved. There is a more cheerful yielding to the demands of the Prison laws. The reduction of the terms and the granting of privileges for good conduct may be regarded as moral forces in the disciplinary work, greatly lessening the number of physical punishments.

The whip or "cat" has not been used for more than three years. In a few cases it would be more effective than solitary confinement, but I have preferred not to use it at all, out of deference to a very general public sentiment that revolts at the idea of even a convict being tortured under the lash.

The practice of the Directors, whereby every prisoner is permitted to make known to them his wants and complaints, and to have a hearing before the Board at their monthly meetings, together with the action of the Board in such cases, has had a salutary influence upon the mass of the convicts.

The opinion prevails that a large number of those who serve a term in a State's Prison are returned, but it is found that only 13 per cent. of those here have served former terms in this prison.

Of nineteen pardons four were absolute and fifteen conditional. Fifteen were paroled upon conditions. The usual conditions are that the prisoner be of good conduct, keep the peace and refrain from the use of intoxicating liquors. The right to revoke upon violation of any of the conditions is reserved by the Governor, he to be the sole judge of any violation, and the pardon or parole to be accepted upon the conditions named, by written indorsement thereon by the prisoner, before being released from confinement. Such conditional releases from the prison are a forward step in relation to the reform of convicts. They are in accord with the views of the ablest writers on criminals and crime prevention, and if extended to cover that vastly greater number of convicts who might be expected to be profited thereby would be of great benefit in prison management and prevent large numbers of ex-convicts from returning to a criminal life.

Since 1876 Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company have been using the labor that was hired to work in the manufacture of shelf hardware and other iron goods. In the contract for such labor it was stipulated that "sufficient shop room and yard room shall be furnished by the Warden of the Prison to operate said men and carry on said work." Before consummating the contracts the Directors agreed to constuct a frame shed building to be used for grinding, assorting, cleaning and other purposes, without which the business could not be placed in the Prison; but after the contracts were closed Perin & Gaff, for the purpose of better protection against fire, all the surroundings being wooden structures, furnished the brick to make it a permanent buildiug, with the understanding that the claim for such outlay might stand against the State, and that the Directors and Warden would recommend the payment of the same. In December, 1879, a wooden building occupied by said Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company as a wood machine and carpenter shop was destroyed by fire, and in July, 1881, another wooden building, used for malleable iron works, including annealing furnaces, was consumed by fire. At the time of either fire there were no funds for rebuilding, and the shops being necessary in the carrying on of the business of the contractors, and the State having agreed to furnish sufficient shop room, Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company were permitted to erect brick buildings in lieu of those burned, and they did so, with the understanding that the money that they thus expended should be recognized as a just claim against the State and its payment recommended by the Warden and Directors. The buildings are substantial and permanent in character and within the Prison. They are absolutely necessary in the business of the new contractors, and without them the advance in the price of labor secured at the recent letting could not have been obtained. It may be said that without them the shelf hardware contracts could not have been fulfilled. Perin & Gaff Manufacturing Company expended in the construction of these buildings $6,926.63, the payment of which, by specific appropriation, I have heretofore and do now recommend. Your predecessors also indorsed this claim and recommended its payment.

For many years there has been the demand for prison reform. National Prison Congresses, National Commissions of Charities and other organizations have been discussing the prison systems, the treatment of criminals, and the reformation of the criminal classes. Able men have participated in the discussion and have generally agreed in opposing the contract system, as in the prisons of this State. But they have not agreed as to what shall be substituted therefor. Certainly the public account and piece-price plans, as substituted for contract labor in Ohio and New York, are not in any appreciable degree an improvement, either as affording better opportunities for reformation or as protecting the honest free labor from what is regarded as the unfair competition of convict labor. If the chief purpose is to get the best attainable result financially, the contract system is preferable as yielding the best returns.

So far as the free labor people are concerned, it may be truthfully said, that, under any system of employment, a day's labor by a convict is that much less to be done by some free laborer, whether the labor be performed in prison shops, in the building of roads, tilling fields or otherwise. No matter how, or under what system convicts may be employed, whether in mechanical or laboring work, their employment will be regarded by free men in like employments as being unfair and prejudicial to their interests.

The only practical way of fully relieving the free labor people of the effects of the labor of convicted criminals, is to stop working convicts at any kind of employment and let the State wholly support them out of the public treasury.

In my reports of 1878 and 1880 I wrote against this system of prisons, which is known as the congregate and contract, in contradistinction to the solitary or cellular system. I opposed it as not punishing sufficiently and as not being reformatory in its effects upon the mass of the inmates. I adhere to the views expressed in those reports.

Does this system punish in sufficient degree? If it did there would be less commission of crime. Undoubtedly it is not sufficiently abhorrent to the criminal classes. The average criminal is a man of no large degree of self-respect. Morally weak by inheritance, or debauched by evil associations and dissipations, he cares but little for the disgrace of becoming a convict. When he falls into the clutches of the law, the important question with him is, "what shall I have to suffer?" If he has not been in the State Prison, he learns, directly or indirectly, from those who have, that the convict's life is not so very hard after all. There is an abundance of good, wholesome food, comfortable clothing, comfortable sleeping accommodations, excellent care when sick, no more hours for labor and no harder work, if as hard, than men do outside in the earning of an honest living. By being orderly and obedient to prison laws everything goes easy, and there is only the disgrace, which is of small consideration to one in his depraved condition, and the confinement for his punishment. This last is relieved by the association, in some degree, during working hours, with others of like character with himself. He feels that, during the average term given convicts, he may very well endure the punishment. That such is the view taken by the criminal classes of the convict's life in the Indiana prison, is well known to the Judges and other court officers who have been in office for a term of years. Sheriffs, bringing convicts to the prison, tell them that all they have to do to make prison life go easy is to accept the situation, conform to the rules and regulations, and do as they are ordered by the officers. In fact, it has come to be the general feeling among the people, especially the criminal classes, that the punishment by confinement in the State Prison is intrinsically not very severe. Therefore, it must be said that prisons, as operated under this system, are not sufficiently abhorrent and deterrent in their effect upon the criminal classes.

Such prisons are not in any considerable degree reformatory. The cases of genuine reformation are rare indeed. It could not be otherwise, because it is impracticable to separate the hardened professional criminals from those who are less criminal in character. Massed together in gangs for work, the hardened criminal and the novice in crime; the aged offender and the young man, more unfortunate than criminal; the professional, who is serving his second, third, fourth or fifth term, and the youth of but sixteen summers; of whatever age, mental or moral condition, they are mingled together, the better under the contaminating influence of the worse, the general tendency being downward, rather than upward, in the scale of moral character. The conclusion follows that the congregate and contract prison, as here, is not in any considerable degree a reformatory institution. Being neither reformatory in its effects upon the inmates, nor sufficiently deterrent in its influence upon the criminal classes generally, it fails to accomplish the purposes of its creation, and should be abandoned whenever any better system of penal institution may be found.

There are some prison reformers who think it practical to grade the prisons, or classify the prisoners, so as to preserve the congregate labor plan, and at the same time separate the prisoners of different degrees of criminal character, and thereby secure better opportunities for reforming a large part of them. Such a scheme in Indiana would utterly fail. To grade the prisons and assign by classification from the courts, according to the real character of the offenders, could not be successfully accomplished. There is no authority in the State competent to make such a separation. No rule can be made for the guidance of juries, and the experience of jurors is not such as to make them competent for the duty. To determine to what one of the prisons in a graded system a criminal should be sentenced and for what term, the true character of the prisoner, as well as his offense, would have to be considered, or the classification would fail in its intent, and there would be in each the mingling of all shades of criminal character, as is now the case. It will not do to base the classification upon the terms of sentence, because frequently the hardened professional criminal is sentenced for one year only, and the novice in crime is given two, five or seven years. To properly grade prisons and classify prisoners, so as to separate the hardened criminals from those of less degrees of criminal character, can not be successfully accomplished. Such grading, with the convicts congregated and worked, as is now the case, would not be an improvement as a deterrent, or more effective in the reformation of the convicts. There would remain the same labor, discipline and evil contact.

From what system may we expect better results?

Under the cellular, or separate confinement, system, a larger, well ventilated and better lighted cell is provided, in which the convict is placed, remains, and labors alone, seeing no one except his keeper, who should be his instructor of work, his mental and moral preceptor, and such visitors as may be admitted. The separation is complete. There are none of the relieving features of the congregate system. The loneliness of the situation intensifies the punishment. The inmates realize it, while the outside criminals learn to dread it, and, therefore, as a deterrent, it is the more effective in repressing crime. The opportunities to work reformation are better. There is the utter absence of evil contact, and abundant facilities for the cultivation of industrious habits, for mental and moral training, and for fostering new hopes and higher ambitions, without the drawbacks incidental to the congregate system.

In as far as such an institution would be more deterrent in its character, and afford the better opportunities for reformation, it would be the more effective in repressing crime and reducing the number in the convict and criminal classes.

If to the cellular imprisonment were added an intermediate condition between this and full restoration to the life of the citizen, whereby those who, having served the greater part of their terms and can be relied upon as being reformed and trustworthy, may be released from cellular confinement, clothed in the garb of the citizen and put out to work on a farm connected with the prison, as "trusties," and be allowed a small compensation for their labor, to be paid at the expiration of their terms, or to their families when desired, thereby affording a gradual transition from the life of the convict to that of the citizen, it would seem that the highest attainable results for a penal institution might be accomplished.

The Howard Association, of Great Britain, instituted for the promotion of the best methods of penal treatment and crime preventive, in a recent publication, says:

"The most effectual, and, at the same time, the most merciful and beneficent application of the penal element, to prisoners, is to secure their absolute separation from each other, both by day and by night. By this we do not at all mean solitude; but just what we say, namely, separation from evil influences. Solitude is unnatural and cruel. Separation from evil, but not from good, association is a primary principle, a root element of the best treatment of criminals. It combines mercy and severity in a special degree. But it must always involve, to be genuine, a due series of arrangements for the frequent visitation of each prisoner, daily, by the officers of the establishment, and also by judicious visitors from outside.

"But to establish in prisons (as is the case, especially in many American prisons) a companionship of rogues, with food, clothing, warmth, books, music, newspapers and attendance, superior in quality and quantity to those obtainable by the honest and virtuous poor, outside—to adopt this course is to invite crime and to induce evil.

"Nor is it an economical process to make the mere present cost of criminals, or their pecuniary earnings while in gaol, the primary matter for regard. A self-supporting, busy prison workshop may be one of the most costly, in its ultimate effects, if its tendency is found in practice to increase the permanent aggregate of prisoners, by reason of the insufficiently penal elements of association, while at work, and of indulgences and lax conditions which render such mode of imprisonment non-deterrent, or even attractive, to the criminal classes. It has been often well observed that the chief object of a prison is to be empty. Hence the general decrease of crime and of prisoners will be the best test of efficiency, rather than the amount, in dollars, or pounds, of immediate prison earnings. Nevertheless, industry with separation is an essential element of reform. Two or three years' separate (but not solitary) confinement would be incomparably more deterrent, more reformatory and more economical than five, seven, ten or more years in the existing gangs."

Throughout the year there has been the utmost harmony in the management. Dr. T. A. Graham, the Prison Physician, has been untiring and most skillful in the work of his office. Capt. M. I. Huette, Clerk, is deserving of special mention as a most efficient officer, as is also Mr. D. M. Allen, Steward.

To the Directors, severally, I would return sincere thanks for the most valuable assistance given me in the discharge of the duties of my office.

Very respectfully,

A. J. HOWARD,
Warden.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT,
INDIANA STATE PRISON SOUTH,
JEFFERSONVILLE, IND., Dec., 1886.

To the Honorable Board of Directors:

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to present for your consideration some account of my labors in the Medical Department during the past year.

On November 1, 1885, there were 596 prisoners confined in this institution. This number has varied from 511 to 608. On those who were admitted during the year a goodly number required immediate medical treatment that they might as soon as possible be able to render return to the State for the expense incurred from the day of their entrance.

Many arrived here with constitutions broken and shattered by previous dissipation and excesses in vice until health and vigor were well nigh wrecked, and unless this course was pursued the State would at once be the loser. Of this number nearly all were early restored to health.

The greatest proportion of cases treated, whether temporary or continued, have been of the usual type in this latitude—miasmatic fevers and their complications. This required the free use of tonics and antiperiodics, of the latter sulphate of quinine being the principal article used.

Intestinal disorders prevailed extensively during July, August and September. Very many cases received treatment during this time, yet few cases lost any time from work.

A large proportion of the chronic cases that are found here are among those who have lived lives of dissipation and debauchery, many of whom contracted disease before coming here.

A great many cases of minor accidents have occurred, some of which necessitated the loss of a few days to the labor list.

It is our misfortune to have confined here three cases of incurably insane. For this class of unfortunates I would recommend their earliest removal to a retreat specially prepared for them.

It affords me great pleasure to say that the Hospital Steward, with the consent of the Warden, has thoroughly renovated and repainted the hospital and its adjoining rooms, and refurnished the bedding, and has furnished the patients confined to the hospital with suitable hospital shirts, and thereby adding greatly to their comfort. In the hospital everything in the way of delicacies for the sick has been furnished that I have directed. In fact, the hospital has been furnished with everything needed. An abundance of wholesome food is furnished at the general prison dining-room. Wheat and corn bread, fresh beef or salt pork, beans, potatoes; bean, rice or vegetable soup every day in the year; green vegetables in season, dried fruit twice a week, molasses three times per week, coffee every breakfast and four times per week for supper. All supplies are excellent in quality, varied as far as practicable in preparation, and supplied in quantities to satisfy the prisoners.

The trip-hammer shop, which has been heretofore a source of annoyance to the hospital, on account of the noise and smoke arising therefrom, is now being removed. The wash-house, which is situated immediately underneath the hospital, is also now under the process of removal to another and more suitable portion of the prison grounds. This, with other improvements that have been made within the past year, will add greatly to the comfort of the unfortunate sick confined here.

There have been twelve deaths during the year, as you will see by the accompanying report. In the majority of the cases but little could be done by or expected from medical treatment.

MORAL INSTRUCTOR'S REPORT.

INDIANA STATE PRISON SOUTH,
CHAPLAIN'S OFFICE, Dec. 15, 1886.

To the Honorable Board of Directors:

GENTLEMEN—Very early in my labors as Chaplain of this institution it becomes my duty to submit to you a written statement which shall be the annual report of this department for the year 1886. And in so doing, owing to the very limited time I have occupied this responsible position previous to this date, my report will necessarily be brief, and based largely upon the plans and work of my worthy predecessor, Rev. L. F. Cain, whose resignation took effect as late as the 14th day of September, 1886. On the following day, September the 15th, your honorable Board, being then in session, I was chosen his successor as Moral Instructor of the Indiana State Prison South. Under the sudden commission of so great a trust, and feeling the responsibility of more than five hundred unfortunate human souls committed to my charge, I immediately assumed the duties of the office, feeling that to be successful in such a charge, and in pointing souls stained with folly and steeped in crime to a higher and nobler life, would be to strive, by constant vigilance and self-denying devotion, to exert a pious and Christian influence upon the moral and spiritual nature of each individual intrusted to my advisement. This, by the generous assistance, wise suggestions and unbounded liberties given me by the Warden, and the co-operation of the various officers and guards of the prison, I have reason to believe I have been able to accomplish to some degree at least.

Upon investigation, by visits to the cells and work-shops, and by personal contact with the inmates of this institution, I have made these encouraging discoveries, to the entire removal of many prejudices from my own mind, and which, I am sure, would remove many prejudices from the public mind, were as well known to the public, namely: That all men incarcerated within prison walls are not subjects for public condemnation. Neither are all men thus imprisoned entirely irredeemable to good society and good citizenship. But they should be the human objects of the kindest and tenderest sympathy, and the burden of the most earnest Christian solicitude. Few men are so fallen to virtue that they may not be reached by the kindness of a brotherly hand, or touched with the simplicity of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

It is gratifying to me to learn that so many of the inmates of this prison are willing to confess the mistakes and errors of the past which led them into the paths of crime, and who are earnestly inquiring the way to Christ, and knocking at the door which shall admit them again to pure society and restore them to the paths of virtue. This is an encouraging feature of my work, and speaks well for the management and discipline of the Institution, and this alone should be an ample recompense for the most arduous Christian effort.

For a comprehensive basis of the condition and workings of this department I respectfully refer you to the last annual report of my predecessor. The conditions there expressed are substantially true of the present, with many hopeful indications for the future.

Our religious services, conducted every Sunday morning in the prison chapel, are looked forward to, each week, with great anxiety and attended by the convicts as a season of true devotion to Almighty God. In these services, many of the prisoners, though severed from home, society and friends, and burdened with the cheerless monotony of prison life, never fail to evince a thorough reformation of character, and a fondly cherished hope of yet brighter things in this life, and of eternal rewards in the life to come.

The prison library, one of our most prolific means of sensual restraint, mental cultivation and moral reformation, and which, according to the last annual report, consists of twenty-five hundred to three thousand volumes of almost every variety of wholesome literature, is kept by the ever-faithful and trusty librarian, G. W. Martin, in the neatest possible order, and the books regularly distributed by him, under my directions, with a constant view to the moral and religious demands and the literary tastes of the inmates.

In my short experience as Moral Instructor I have been sadly impressed with the alarming per cent. of illiteracy among the men who wear the stripes and fill the cells of this Institution, which forms an almost insurmountable barrier against the first step to a genuine moral reformation. For this defenseless condition of men, neither this Institution or the laws of our country are at all chargeable. But I fear, yea, I am persuaded, that this great sin of omission lies, with a fearful charge, at the doors of the fathers and mothers and guardians of our land. Upon careful examination of the records I have found that 20 per cent. of the convicts are unable to read and write with any degree of accuracy. For the special amelioration of this class I have, by the aid and suggestions of the Warden, and the assistance of his deputy, organized a system of education whereby they may be taught in the elementary principles of a practical education. In this work each man shows a willingness to submit to the simple means provided here for grasping and redeeming his lost opportunities, many esteeming it the greatest they have ever enjoyed. From this work, though executed under great disadvantages, we expect to derive lasting benefits, both to this Institution and to the future lives of these unfortunate men.

Since assuming the active duties of this office but one convict has died. This one died a hopeful death and was buried with appropriate religious services.

My relations with the various officers and guards of the prison have been the most kindly, and my treatment at their hands has been at all times the most gentlemanly and courteous.

In conclusion, Gentlemen of the Board, permit me to return to you my sincere thanks for the honor conferred upon me in calling me to this responsible office. I shall, with all vigilance, ever be ready to perform the duties of this department, in the fear of God, and with a grateful appreciation of the trust imposed in me.

Respectfully submitted.

WILLIAM P. BARNHILL,
Moral Instructor.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

OF THE

Indiana State Prison North,

FOR THE

YEAR ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1886.

TO THE GOVERNOR.

INDIANAPOLIS:
WM. B. BURFORD, CONTRACTOR STATE PRINTING AND BINDING.

THE STATE OF INDIANA,
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, December 13, 1886.

Received by the Governor, and referred to the Auditor of State for verification of the financial statement.

AUDITOR OF STATE'S OFFICE,
December 14, 1886.

The records of this office show that the warrants drawn in favor of the Warden of the Prison for the fiscal year of 1885–6, for maintenance, amount to $96,-712.39. There was paid to the Treasurer of State by the Warden, for which he issued recipts, the sum of $96,712.39 on account of earnings. The report states that at the close of the fiscal year of 1885–6, there was a balance on hand of $14,717.73.

The State Prison Act requires that "all moneys due the institution shall be paid to the Warden, who shall pay over the same to the Treasurer of State at the close of each quarter of the year." The report shows the amount of and what disposition has been made of the earnings not paid to the Treasurer of State at the settlements with the Warden of the Prison, to which I refer, as they do not appear upon the records of this office.

JAMES H. RICE,
Auditor of State.

DECEMBER 14, 1886.

Returned by the Auditor of State, with his certificate, and examined by the Governor, December 17, 1886; transmitted to the Secretary of State for publication upon the order of the Board of Commissioners of Public Printing and Binding.

PIERRE GRAY,
Private Secretary.

Filed in the office of the Secretary of State, this 17th day of December, 1886.

W. R. MYERS,
Secretary of State.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

To His Excellency, ISAAC P. GRAY,
Governor of the State of Indiana:

We have the honor to submit herewith, in accordance with law, our fourth annual report concerning the management and conduct of the State Prison North, for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886, together with the reports of the Warden, Clerk, Physician and Moral Instructor, which, severally, are herewith respectfully submitted for more detailed and specific information.

The receipts and earnings for the year have been $111,430.10. The expenditures, including officers' salaries, together with expenditures for repairs, have been $96,712.37, leaving a balance of $14,717.73. For a full and complete itemized statement of the receipts and expenditures; also, the number of prisoners received and discharged during the year, the number committed from each county in the State, in what State born, the nationalities of the convicts, the cost of feeding and clothing each convict per day (in separate items) and for a general fund of information, detailed and general, with reference to the practical working of the prison, reference is made to the very full and comprehensive report of the Warden.

The receipts for the fiscal year 1885 were $103,221.67, and disbursements $99,662.52, showing an increase of receipts during the current year over the year preceding of $8,208.43, with a decreased expenditure of $2,950.15.

This increase of net earnings over last year of $11,158.58 is almost entirely due to the existence and successfully operated Amazon Hosiery Company, a new industry which the Board caused to be provided about the close of last year, whereby continuous remunerative employment has been assured to all convicts able to perform even very light work.

In response to repeated recommendations of the Board, the last Legislature authorized certain improvements, and appropriated therefor the sum of $20,000. As speedily thereafter as practical the Board caused to be constructed a bath-house containing adequate and suitable facilities for bathing all convicts, and connected therewith, as a part of the same building, a wash-house and dry-house for laundry purposes, the whole based upon approved and well tested plans.

A store-room for fuel, two new boilers, with additional heating machinery, have been provided; also, the old heating apparatus thoroughly overhauled and repaired.

Better provision for the treatment of insane and refractory prisoners, as in contemplation of the act, has also been provided, in the erection, separate and apart from the main prison buildings, of a suitable building containing apartments prepared especially for this class of prisoners, the entire structure and its appointments being as well adapted for the retention, medical aid and general treatment of this class of unfortunates as existing conditions would permit.

The entire expenditure therefor, including $1,000 for additions to library, making a total of $13,840.81, leaving a balance of amount appropriated unexpended of $6,159.19. The two additional boilers, with heating machinery attached, rendered a new smoke stack a necessity, such stack to the hight of 116 feet, and of capacity equal to any probable requirement for many years, we caused to be erected. We here beg leave to repeat, quoting substantially from our last report, that, in order to provide against a recurrence of the moral evil and the financial loss experienced during the year, through a large portion of the convicts being unemployed, the Board deemed it for the best interest of the public, and for the convicts as well, to provide an additional industry.

This was done in the erection of a new three-story brick factory building, 142 feet long by 60 feet wide, and a boiler house 20 by 30 feet, an informal arrangement having previously been effected with the Amazon Hosiery Co. for its occupancy, and the employment therein of 200 convicts as soon as they might be provided.

Further permanent improvements, consisting of the erection of a two-story brick dry kiln, 40 by 60 feet, and a new engine house for use by Messrs. Ford, Johnson & Co., contractors; also, the erection of a brick dry kiln for Messrs. J. R. and J. Winterbotham, contractors, seemed to be necessary and for the public good, and were accordingly erected.

The cost of erecting the smoke stack was $1,075.

The cost of erecting the building occupied by the Amazon Hosiery Co., $8,250.

The cost of building dry kiln and engine house occupied by Ford, Johnson & Co., $2,500.

The cost of erecting dry kiln for J. R. & J. W. Winterbotham was $991.44.

The whole making an aggregate cash expenditure, exclusive of the labor of convicts, the sum of $26,657.25.

Improved sanitary condition: A due sense of fair and humane treatment of convict humanity will speak for the virtue and wisdom of the expenditure of the $13,840.81, almost the whole of which was used to promote a higher and better humanity toward the convicts. An increased net earning of the present fiscal year over the preceding one of $11,158.55, which was almost wholly due to the fact of the last-mentioned improvements, may likewise speak for the utility and virtue thereof.

It is due to add that the said detailed expenditure of $26,-657.25 does not represent near the actual value of the improvements mentioned.

As heretofore suggested, the materials were bought exceptionally cheap, even for times of depression, and the greater part of the labor, including stone, brick and carpenter work, was done by convicts, who would otherwise have been unemployed.

We venture the opinion that a low estimate would place the real value of these improvements at fully $10,000 more than the cash outlay therefor.

To sum up, it is quite safe to say that the State now has an actual practical value in her prison property North, including $14,717.73 cash in hand, of at least $50,000 greater value than existed there three years ago.

To the end of continuing the conduct and management of the prison in conformity to existing laws, no occasion now exists for additional improvements.

We are of opinion that the institution, in its appointments and its conduct and managagement as well, now fills all the conditions of a State's Prison, as contemplated by existing laws. The cell-houses, cells, dining-room, hospital, bath-rooms and grounds, will be found scrupulously cleanly. Ventilation and sanitary conditions generally good. Convicts are comfortably clad and abundantly fed on plain, wholesome food and made reasonably comfortable in their sleeping apartments, and when sick placed in conditions of entire comfort and well cared for.

We are in full accord with the suggestions of the Warden in relation to a more earnest effort in behalf of a reformation of the prisoners.

It is our opinion, drawn from experience and observation, that the evils growing out of the congregate system is the greatest single bar to the reformation of prisoners, and we beg leave to submit whether the time has not come when the law of an enlightened Christian people should interpose for the protection of the comparatively innocent in the interest alike of economy and humanity.

Few things are more cruel and abominable than the herding together of confirmed old offenders—thieves, robbers and murderers, debauched and debauching villains—with the comparatively innocent, who are sent for a slight and often first offense.

For the first-class to have an opportunity to contaminate the latter renders our prisons little better than seminaries of crime, the effect being to increase the number of real criminals and to develop and intensify their criminality.

Our observing, excellent Warden, in his report, well says we can never expect to make a change in the character of our young men confined in our prisons (and fully two-thirds are under the age of thirty) so long as we continue the existing system of promiscuous intermingling of convicts. Perhaps the next greatest hinderance to reform is the after-treatment received by discharged convicts, and we would direct attention to the excellent timely suggestions of the Warden in relation thereto.

The widespread sympathy which exists for the poor extends only in a very weak degree to the inmates of prisons.

Christian charity as to them does not seem to be of the quality taught and practiced by the Master, but is rather inclined to pass by on the other side.

We would recommend that provision be made for the appointment of an agent clothed with the duty of providing places and work for discharged convicts. Finally, so long as our prisons remain any thing like what they are now, the greatest good of all will consist in devising and providing the best practical means for keeping the young, and, indeed, all others convicted of minor offenses away from penitentiaries. As one step to that end, we venture to suggest that authority be given by law to the courts to sentence persons convicted of first and minor offenses in counties where there is no work-house to imprisonment in a work-house in any part of the State, on such terms of compensation as shall be agreed upon by the proper authorities.

While it is naturally gratifying to us that we are able to exhibit a satisfactory condition of the prison and its inmates, and therewith show a large balance of profit to the credit of the State, we are not unmindful of the fact that this financial gain has been secured through a system of employing convict labor, which, though sanctioned and ordained by the laws of the State, is not approved by a large body of thoughtful citizens. The agitation of convict contract labor is one of the marked industrial movements of the day.

The whole prison problem has been subjected to unusual examination, and the existing system to the closest investigation and most intelligent criticism.

While the problem of what is best in the premises has not yet been solved. We are of the opinion that the existing system of prison labor employment has come to be regarded by a large portion of the workingmen of the State, and of the country generally, as seriously inimical to the interests of free labor.

It is maintained with much force that the convict contract system is both perceptibly injurious to the pecuniary welfare of free wage-workers in competition with prison labor and radically wrong in principle.

But however much men may differ as to the best means of utilizing the labor of convicts, and there are many propositions under discussion, it will be readily agreed by all that an agitation of the character indicated, as also the studious inquiry and searching criticism on the part of the wage-workers and philanthropists of the land, are legitimate, praiseworthy, American-like, and it will also be conceded that the movement is entitled to receive, and we trust and believe will receive, due consideration from the General Assembly.

We would renew our thanks to Warden Murdock for his exceptionally valuable (extra) services in connection with the improvements herein mentioned. An additional year's acquaintance and experience has only served to strengthen and confirm our conviction that in kind-hearted Warden James Murdock the State has an excellent officer, to whom, together with Deputy Warden Thomas E. Donnelly and their associates, we would be unable to accord undue merit for the excellent discipline and careful, painstaking detail conduct of the prison which has contributed so largely to its satisfactory condition.

The Physician, Dr. R. H. Calvert, has well sustained his previous creditable record, of which the excellent sanitary condition of the prison abundantly attests.

With real pleasure we again bear testimony to the good work of Rev. J. J. Faude, Moral Instructor.

Clerk Charles Murdock has been all that could be expected, proving an accurate, neat and business-like accountant.

Respectfully submitted.

HENRY MONNING,

50 men at 45 cents a day, expiring September 1, 1889.
100 men at 50 cents a day, expiring September 1, 1889.

We are glad to notice from year to year a growing sentiment among the managers of our prisons in favor of a more earnest effort in behalf of a reformation of the prisoners confined in their charge, and it has our earnest sympathy.

One of the main factors to bring this desired result about, in our judgment, is to properly classify the inmates of our penitentiaries. We can never expect to make a change in the character of our young men confined in our prisons (and fully two-thirds are under the age of thirty) if we continue the old system of promiscuous intermingling of convicts.

How is it possible to look for the betterment of a prisoner, who is sent for a slight offense, and, possibly, his first one, if he is compelled to associate and be under the influence of those hardened in crime. We can expect nothing else but that he will go out from the prison with his vicious habits confirmed, and ready to follow the path of crime to the end.

A prison without reformatory influence is but a nursery of crime, and its graduates will go out into the world to prey upon the community with increased vindictiveness for revenge, will stimulate and aid their depraved nature. I am sure the object of the law in sending men to our prisons is not alone to punish, but to reform them; not to make them worse, but to reclaim them, if possible, and restore them to a place in society again. And we think that classification will go far toward the accomplishment of that end.

Another much-needed but sadly neglected reform is in the treatment of discharged convicts. Under the law of our State, and our law is as liberal in its workings as the majority of other States, a prisoner, after serving his sentence, is turned out upon the world with fifteen dollars in his pocket, without friends or employment, oftentimes in midwinter, to face a society that is bitterly predjudiced against him. However sincere their sorrow may be for their former crimes, however strong their resolutions to lead a better life, they are shunned by all, and Ishmael-like they find every man's hand against them.

At a time in their life when they most need a friend to advise and help them to a situation, that they might earn an honest living, they are left utterly alone. This should not be. If we expect our discharged convicts to lead a new life, we should give them, at least, a fair chance. The State should see to it, through an agent or otherwise, that they find employment, and encourage them in every way to feel that they could become men among men, and win for themselves a place in the world again.

Owing to the disturbed condition of labor, I think it advisable to have a change in the system of working prisoners.

The discipline of the prison remains good. For the details of the financial and statistical condition of the prison, reference is made to the report of the Clerk.

The sanitary condition of the prison is good. For further information I refer you to the report of the Physician.

For the moral and educational condition of the prison, reference is made to the report of the Chaplain.

For the efficient manner in which their several duties have been performed, my thanks are tendered to Deputy Warden T. E. Donnelly, Clerk Charles Murdock, Physician R. H. Calvert, Moral Instructor J. J. Faude, Steward Robert Sutton, and to my assistants.

For the courtesies and encouraging support received from you, Gentlemen of the Board, my sincere thanks are returned.

I remain yours respectfully,

JAMES MURDOCK,
Warden.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

INDIANA STATE PRISON NORTH,
MEDICAL DEPARTMENT, Oct. 31, 1886.

To the Honorable Board of Directors:

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to submit this, my fourth, annual report for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1886.

The health of convicts has been good, the only deaths occurring having been from diseases contracted or injuries received prior to admittance, with four exceptions: John Harrington, lockjaw from injury; Chas. Miller, from eating soap; Stephen Jenks, old age; Frank Whiting, shot by guard while trying to escape; Chas. Miller died in an epileptic fit caused by injury to head before admitted; Chas. Allen, Fred. Remster, Gilbert Yost and H. Gibson, heart disease; Frank Foster, Sam Wilson and Chas. Daniels, syphilitic tuberculosis.

The sanitary condition of the prison is excellent. The convicts are furnished plenty of good substantial food and clothing, special attention being paid to cleanliness, etc., which adds greatly to their continued good health.

In conclusion, allow me to tender to you, gentlemen of the Board, officers and guards, my sincere thanks for courtesies and assistance in performance of my duties.

Respectfully submitted.

R. H. CALVERT,
Prison Physician.

MORAL INSTRUCTOR'S REPORT.

To Messrs. Shoemaker and Monning,
Directors Indiana State Prison North:

GENTLEMEN—I have the honor to submit to you this my fourth annual report, as Moral Instructor at the institution under your charge.

The work intrusted to me has been without special incident requiring a report at this time, since no change in this department has been instituted during the year succeeding my last report. The religious services seem to be appreciated by the prisoners, who are most orderly and attentive throughout. Occasional instances of reformation, which have stood the test of restored freedom, have come to my knowledge. Many other instances of apparent reformation come to light from time to time, but a world full of temptation, wherein an ex-convict seems to be considered legitimate prey for depraved men, has proved too strong for the purpose of amendment of life, and in more than one instance these apparently reformed men have been returned for another term of imprisonment.

Few persons have any conception of the difficulties which beset a released convict. Even when employment is ready for him, there is a lack of sympathy and brotherly kindness, which goads him to desperation. Well-meaning people have been so often deceived by designing and hypocritical ex-convicts that they are naturally suspicious of all who have been in prison, and see no reason why they should subject themselves to further imposition, even when a more genuine case of reformation presents itself. Such an one is, therefore, often forced, for the companionship which the natural man craves, to the society of those whose influence is the most dangerous to him in his new struggles. Nowhere so often as in a prison is one exposed to the liability of deception as to the motives amd intentions of those who make fair protestations of amendment, yet no one except the most superficial would therefore declare that none were worthy of helpful efforts. The most helpful agency in strengthening the beginnings of newly awakened life would be a home for discharged convicts, where, for a time, their conduct might be guided rather than coerced. From a reformatory point of view, the destruction of all voluntary effort and action by a prisoner during his imprisonment is the worst feature of prison life, because it is the very thing which weakens him as a responsible moral being. It is, therefore, necessary that some surroundings which should shield and protect the ex-convict, at the same time leaving him an unconstrained will, should be thrown around the man. Such homes are no longer an experiment, but an assured succes, as in the case of the Chicago home, under the charge of Michael Dunn.

For the same reason—that more liberty of choice should be extended to these men—I would recommend that compulsory attendance at the Sunday services in the chapel be abolished. Truth which men are forced to hear meets with resistance and prejudice; and worship which men are compelled to engage in is a mockery, and must have a tendency to make all religious matters hateful to them. After nearly four years' experience I am convinced of the wisdom of this course.

The music at the Chapel services has recently been much improved, and is now a very effective adjunct to the worship. The school has also been materially helped by the addition of two teachers, and gives fair promise of becoming more than a primary school.

I would again call your attention to an indirect moral aid, which even among free men has proved decidedly helpful, viz.: Instructive lectures and entertainments to be given the prisoners, in the hope of cultivating their tastes to an appreciation of something more refined and elevating than some of them have found pleasure in. The excellent beginning of a library, which was received through a legislative appropriation two years ago, should be added to by a similar grant at this session of the Legislature. A number of books need re-binding, some need replacing with new copies, and many new books are issued which would be useful and instructive.

It is to be hoped that the attention of the Legislature may be turned to the question of "indeterminate sentence" of prisoners, gradation of prisoners, and the turning of our prisons into reformatory institutions, and to this end, gentlemen of the Board, I beg the use of your extended influence and experience.

It affords me pleasure to have an opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the sympathy and co-operation of yourselves, and of the Warden of the prison, in my efforts for the advancement of the work committed to me.

Respectfully submitted.

J. J. FAUDE,
Moral Instructor.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC PRINTING, BINDING AND STATIONERY, OFFICE SECRETARY OF STATE,
INDIANAPOLIS, June 11, 1887.

WILLIAM B. BURFORD,
Contractor Public Printing:

The report of ex-State Treasurer Cooper having this day been transmitted to, and filed in, the office of Secretary of State, I hereby transmit the same to you to be included in the documentary journal.

CHARLES A. BOOKWALTER,
Clerk Bureau Public Printing.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

TREASURER OF STATE

OF THE

STATE OF INDIANA,

FOR THE

FISCAL YEAR ENDING OCTOBER 31ST, 1886.

J. J. COOPER, Treasurer.

TO THE GOVERNOR.

INDIANAPOLIS:
WM B. BURFORD, CONTRACTOR FOR STATE PRINTING AND BINDING.
1887.

OFFICE OF TREASURER OF STATE,
December 16, 1886.

HON. ISAAC P. GRAY,

Governor of Indiana:

DEAR SIR—In compliance with law and my duty as Treasurer of the State of Indiana, I herewith submit my annual report of the transactions of this office for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886.

Respectfully,

JOHN J. COOPER,
Treasurer of State.

THE STATE OF INDIANA,
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.
December 16, 1886.

Received and examined by the Governor December 17, 1886.

Referred to the Auditor of State for verification of the financial statement.

The financial statement of the Treasurer of State does not agree with the books of the Auditor of State. The warrant numbered 7,359, dated October 6, 1886, drawn in favor of the Treasurer of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum for the maintenance of that institution for the month of September, 1886, in the body of the warrant was for the sum of six thousand forty-five dollars and thirteen cents ($6,045.13), but on the corner of the warrant the figures were for $6,045.16, making a difference of three cents, which the Treasurer of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum received more than he was entitled to, making an over payment to him by the Treasurer of State of three cents. The amount written in the body of the warrant, viz.: $6,045.13, was the correct sum due the Treasurer of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, and corresponded with the vouchers for which the warrant was drawn, and agrees with the amount charged to the General Fund and the cash account in the books of the Auditor of State's office. There is a difference in the following accounts between the Auditor of State's books and the report of the Treasurer of State for the fiscal year ending October 31, 188 : The Auditor of State's books show that the cash balance was $409,971.76; the General Fund balance, $39,390.12, and the amount drawn by the Deaf and Dumb Asylum for maintenance for the year was $52,069.98. The report of the Treasurer of State makes the cash balance $409,971.73; the General Fund balance, $39,390.09, and the amount drawn by the Deaf and Dumb Asylum for maintenance for the year was $52,070.01, which differences were shown by the comparison of the books of the Auditor of State and Treasurer of State at the close of the fiscal year of 1886, when the differences stated should have been corrected, as the books of the Auditor of State and the annual report of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum for the fiscal year of 1886 would not correspond, the financial statement of that institution having been examined and approved.

JAS. H. RICE.

OFFICE OF AUDITOR OF STATE,
INDIANAPOLIS, June 11, 1887.

The Treasurer of State's Report for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1886, having this day been submitted to me for verification, and upon examination of said report I find that the same corresponds with the books of this office, except as to a difference of three (3) cents in the General Fund, which was occasioned by error in warrant No. 7,359 issued October 6, 1886, on account of maintenance of Deaf and Dumb Asylum and not corrected as it should have been. The statement of J. H. Rice, as to the above error, was placed on Treasurer's Report June 10, 1887.

BRUCE CARR,
Auditor of State.

STATE OF INDIANA,
OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE.

The within report of ex-State Treasurer Cooper was for the first time transmitted to the office of the Secretary of State, and filed therein, this 11th day of June, 1887, at twelve (12) o'clock noon.

Dated this 11th day of June, 1887.

CHARLES F. GRIFFIN,
Secretary of State.
